Pratt Institute

IN THE year following the founding of Pratt Institute, Mr. Charles Pratt was asked what led to the establishment of the Institute and he wrote the following in reply:

"It is so easy to be misunderstood I almost hesitate to answer your question as to what led to the establishment of Pratt Institute. If you will accept hasty dictation, I will give you the inside so far as I am able to tell it.

In my early youth I had to struggle, as most young men do, for a living. At first I worked on a farm but finally learned a trade, and then at about 19 years of age went into commercial business. Twenty or more years ago, when I began to have a family ready for school, I felt the need of a place for their education, which led me to become connected with the school to which they went—the Adelphi Academy. My connection and acquaintance with the working of the institution for the past twenty years and my interest in the young led me to feel, as soon as my business promised a competency, that I would try and do something for young people situated as I had been. In a word, I thought I could derive more satisfaction in the use of money by helping other people than I could by giving all my energy to its accumulation. Those who know my life for the last thirty years will know that my actions have been consistent with this thought.

It has required no little courage to undertake the establishment of this enterprise. Any person who has been successful in his business hesitates to start in untried enterprises. I had theorized for many years as to the kind of scheme I would like to work out, but did not see the way clear to its organization and management. Finally, however, I decided to buy the ground and begin the construction of buildings, saying nothing in particular to any one as to what I intended doing, so that no one need to share in the disappointment should the enterprise not meet with success. I am glad for the success which has attended it, and have great pleasure in contemplating what I believe to be its future. I want Pratt Institute to be a model, and to do the experimental work of this kind of education for the people of this country. All the plans, all the work we have is at the disposal of any individual or institution that would like to start a similar work.

So far as the endowment is concerned, I have made no promises. * * * *

— — — — —
The quality of the work will be a better estimate of the value than promises of large amounts of money.

The examples set by Peter Cooper, George Peabody, and many others before and since their time have been an inspiration and help to me, and my hope is that what I have done, so far as it may go, will be an inspiration and help to other people who have means (while they have their health, and are in possession of their faculties) in creating a desire to devote their means and energies in a similar direction.

As to our capacity for students: with day and evening classes (where people take one or two lessons per week in specific work) in connection with regular students who are there every day, you will see the difficulty of answering your question, but we have hoped that we would be able to accomodate from 4,000 to 5,000 students each year."

In his first Founder's Day address in 1888 Mr. Pratt said, "In the departments the enrollment has grown from a beginning of twelve to a total, in day and evening classes, of 631. It is my earnest desire that this number may grow until we tell it by thousands and that each department shall send out strong, helpful, sincere men and women prepared to do efficient work and unwilling to do less than their best. It is right here from you, young men and young women, that I look for the success of the Institute. I believe in the spirit of fellowship, in that unity of thought and action which tends to make others better. Many people will be looking to us because of the novel features of our Institute. I have come to the conclusion that people are estimated pretty justly. It is not necessary to go through the streets blowing a big horn for ourselves. Our Institute will be judged by the men and women whom it turns out. Let the work here be earnest and good. Despise sham and deception. Everything connected with the organization must be genuine and true, and nothing done for effect."

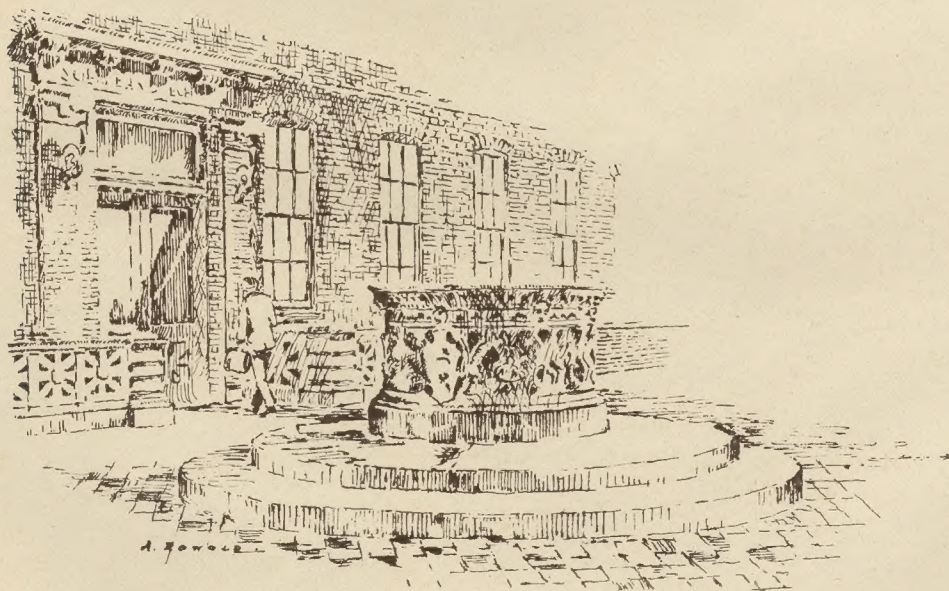

The standards that Mr. Charles Pratt established for Pratt established for Pratt Institute have been maintained by the Trustees, his sons and grandsons. Mr. Frederic B. Pratt and Mr. Charles Pratt in their work at the Institute have given the inspiration for the continuance of that spirit.

At the Twenty-fifth Anniversary reunion in 1912 Mr. Charles R. Richards said, "Pratt Institute was founded not to glorify a name, but for the highest thing in human life: for service. It was simply an honest effort to help the other fellow."

ALMA MATER

*Towering far above her neighbors,
Shop and mart and hall,
Stands the home of student-labors,
Noblest of them all!*

*At each meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
Hail Pratt Institute!*

*In our hearts her precepts linger,
Her example gleams,
Showing with unerring finger
Guerdon of our dreams.*

*At our meeting, for our greeting,
Bring her noble fruit,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!*

*Round the world the chain extending
Each to other binds,
All her honored name defending,
Hearts and hands and minds.*

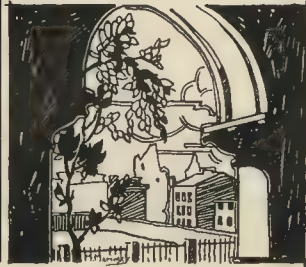

*At our meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!*

PREFACE

IN PUBLISHING this Prattonia an earnest effort has been made to make it as good as any self-supporting book ever published. How near we have come to that ideal you will have to decide.

We have made everything new from cover to cover and we hope our efforts have made the book more attractive to you. This was only possible through the large subscription, for which we thank the representatives. Their untiring efforts to reach a mark of one thousand copies was rewarded with a record of eleven hundred and fifty copies. An effort was made to have the 1928 Alumni also appreciate this book, but at the time of closing subscriptions only five members had given their support.

The art work necessary for this book was a very large assignment and we do appreciate the cooperation given to the Board by the Art students. Their work is very well done and shows a desire to give their best efforts for a splendid book.

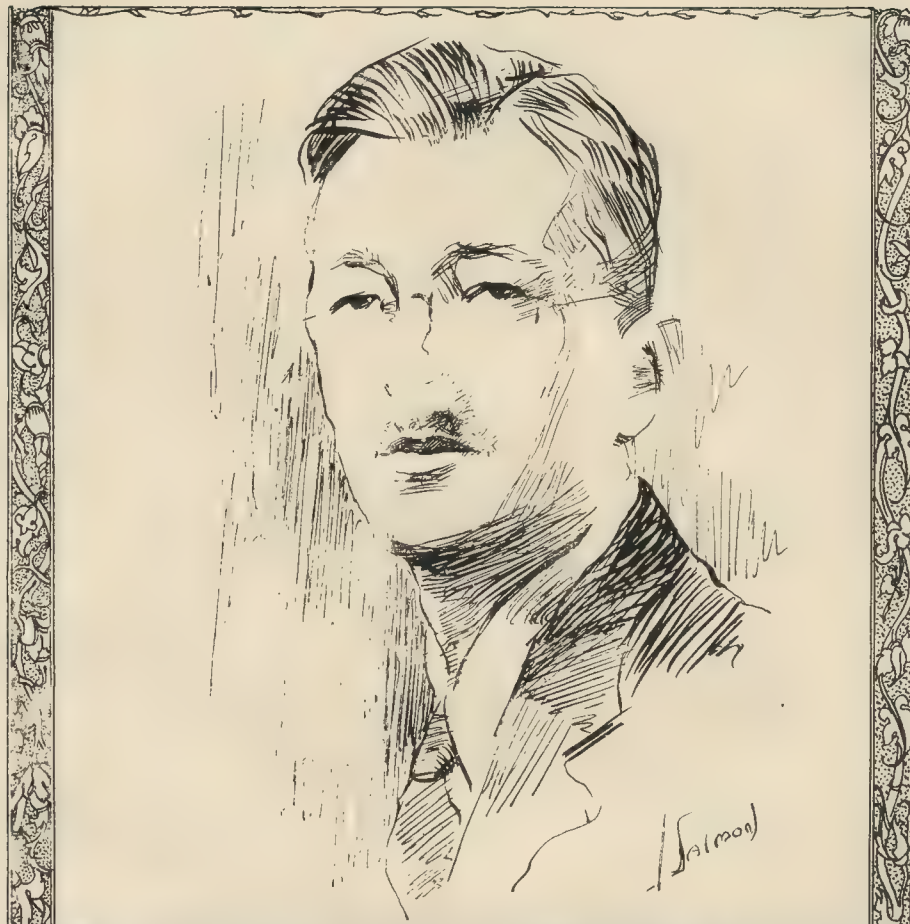

The literary work has been carefully checked and many hours have been spent trying to avoid errors in spelling and grammar. We must, however, apologize for any errors that have evaded us but, after all, we too are human and liable to err.

Realizing the important part played in a successful book by photography, this work was checked very closely. It was a huge job and we do appreciate the help given by the directors, school secretaries, representatives, and faculty advisors that made the life of the photographic editor a little easier. We also appreciate the cooperation given to us by the photographer.

Cooperation—what a splendid word in its full meaning—has been received from every one and it would be very hard to mention all who are responsible for the early completion of the book. We can start with Mr. Charles Pratt, Secretary of the School, and follow right through the directors, supervisors, secretaries, instructors, faculty advisors, class presidents, representatives, and students, only to find they have each been called upon to give the Board their services from time to time. Their willingness to be of a service is greatly appreciated by the Prattonia Board of 1929.

PRATTONIA

In appreciation of the services given to PRATTONIA in the past as well as those given to this book we dedicate with great pleasure

MOTHER

Whose tender hands have comforted you
During restless hours and sad?
Who by your side has fought your fight,
And given you strength to conquer the bad?

Whose lovely hair is turning to gray,
Whitened by the things you thought mere fun?
Whose tender greeting is always gay,
Winning confidence and pride in her son?

The answer, I know, is not hard to find,
The answer is found in your heart and your mind.
There's only one friend in this world like that,
No other's the same, for your mother's her name.

D. MALCOLM FLEMING.

SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

THE School of Science and Technology is devoted to technical education in the form of two-year engineering courses, of an intensive type that has been developed at Pratt Institute, growing out of many years' experience with the present three courses—Industrial Mechanical Engineering, Industrial Electrical Engineering, and Industrial Chemical Engineering, from which graduates are being sent into industry at the annual rate of about two hundred.

These courses, while not of college pattern, nevertheless are as truly classifiable within the field of higher engineering education as are the conventional four-year college engineering courses, with the best of which our courses compare favorably in respect to their output of trained men qualified to develop into capable engineers and executives for the operation of this country's industries. Recent surveys of the entire group of some 3700 living graduates of our courses show unsurpassed recognition by industry in terms of position, compensation, and rate of promotion.

Any appraisal of the possibilities of our intensive, two-year engineering courses must not overlook certain unusual characteristics of our student body, which help explain our excellent results despite the shorter period in school. The median student in our usual entering class is twenty years of age, a graduate of a four-year high school course, and has had one and one-half years' industrial experience that has served to confirm his technical bent and to demonstrate his need for systematic higher technical education. His savings from earnings defray a substantial part of the cost of his education. Thus our typical student is a mature and purposeful young man, with pronounced adaptability for effective training in Pratt Institute and for later successful employability in industry, in technical engineering, and executive capacities.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING, 1929

CAME the dawn of a new period in the history of our learning and with it came, likewise, forty "old-timers." That "green," uneducated aspect decorating the physiognomies of most seemed already to have given away to the subtle by-products of midnight petroleum. Barring the acquisition of these by-products, the old gang hadn't undergone very much of a change.

Our Most Exalted Mogul, he of the smooth tongue and serious countenance at "handshaking" ceremonies (so dear to every chemist) proved himself fluent and solemn as of yore. The summer months had done nothing to mar the speed or accuracy of the chalky missile as directed by our merry Jamaica friend. He of the leather heels (clap-bang) had lost none of his old-time nonchalance when entering class at times ranging from ten to forty-five minutes after the hour. The class, as a whole, was ever attentive (as in those days gone by) during those interesting discussions dealing with bending moments, shear diagrams, and columns—to say nothing of that poor shaft suffering with the "bends" and torque.

In "Chem"—the many hours that we spent with our Dr. Rogers will always remain a tender spot in our memories. The engineering facts and good stories that he so graciously exchanged for our new and original methods in the field of manufacture were always appreciated. With calm expectancy do we await the appearance of that "Fifth edition."

Even as the years pass on, so must we. In this, our history, do we as a class express the deepest appreciation to our individual instructors for the learning that we have received in the Industrial Chemical Engineering course.

May their enduring patience ne'er again be so tried with foolish questions.

CLASS OFFICERS

ROBERT H. DUDLEY, President
LOUIS V. DONROE, Vice-President

LAWRENCE M. RASMUSSEN, Secretary
EDWARD T. POTTER, Treasurer

ALVORD, MAURICE CLARK

Al

47 Harlem Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

To Alvord belongs the credit for that new angle in head-dress wear. Or does it belong to the beautiful bump that he so gracefully received in that cannon-jumping exercise?

ANDERSON, HILDING

Ding

67 Chestnut St., Brattleboro, Vt.

Dr. Rogers never hears Ding's first answer but the repetition is always clear and correct. How do you do it, Ding?

AUTEN, ROBERT HARRIS

Heaven-Eyes

35 Dover St., Newark, N. J.

Our Sunday School teacher came to us from the Mechanicals, bubbling over with bending moments, stresses and strains. The clever suggestions that our friend was always able to offer as to new methods in laboratory technique were ever appreciated (for their humor).

BINGHAM, ALBERT H.

Bing

558 Broadway, Newark, N. J.

Interclass Soccer, 1928-29; Varsity Baseball, 1928-29.

Just what is this power that I have over these women? Is it my manly form, the "P" on my sweater, or that complexion—the inevitable result of my dread of alarm clocks?

BRADSTREET, RAYMOND B.

Brad

9 Mt. Vernon St., Middleton, Mass.

Men's Club Orchestra, 1929.

Brad hails from dear old Northeastern. A plugged coin to the first person to see Brad without the briar and a very serious countenance. Incidentally that pipe has ruined more cubic feet of perfectly good atmosphere than Butyric acid on the I. R. T.

CHRISTIE, FRANKLIN J.

Chris

169 S. Broadway, Nyack, N. Y.

Always spoken of as the "late Mr. Christie." None of the Chemists need ask why. Machine shop and Mr. Burley his favorites.

CLARK, FRANCIS J.

Clarkie

118 Broad St., Waverly, N. Y.

"Better Dairy Products," Clarkie! We sure are looking to you for them in the future.

CÔPELAND, GEORGE W.

Copey

Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y.

He could ask more questions per minute than the rest could think of per month.

DONROE, LOUIS J.

Lou, Joe

125 Blatchley Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class Vice-President, 1929; Class Representative A. A.; Secretary A. A.; Varsity Basketball, 1928-29; Varsity Baseball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1929.

The Chemists' gift to Varsity basketball and baseball. According to our friend Lam, Lou is simply "Ho-pong-yow." (Whatever that means.)

DOWNS, WILLIAM H.

Bill

57 E. Union St., Bay Shore, L. I., N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1927-28; Mgr. Class Basketball, 1929; Baseball, 1927; Soccer, 1927-28-29; Bowling, 1927-28-29; Mgr. Pool, 1929; Mgr. Track, 1928; Tennis, 1927.

Bill returned to supervise the athletics of "Chem" '29.

DUDLEY, ROBERT H.

Dud

717 W. Church St., Elmira, N. Y.

Asst. Mgr. Basketball, 1928; Vice-President Class, 1928; President Class, 1929; Student Council, 1929.

Our president who spends his spare time doing cowboy work at Weinstein's Drugstore. Dud happens to be another martyr to the cause of "Iron Kellys."

ELLISON, NORMAN C.

Normy

264 Kingsland Ter., South Orange, N. J.

Behold—our candidate from the Wide Open Spaces! Normy likes nothing better than a pleasant night's sleep beneath the stars and away from the haunts of men. (Take a root for example.)

ELLS, PRITCHARD P.

Dick

7 Fenwood Road, Boston, Mass.

Class Soccer, 1928-29; Treasurer, Wohler Chemical Association.

A very quiet and dignified chap. Ells' markmanship with stray milk bottles (any time after 11 o'clock along Washington Ave.) should prove of vast advantage when our friend is out in the world heaving skins into the rotating mouth of a tumbling barrel.

HARDENBURG, CHAS. K.

Pop

86 Prospect St., Little Falls, N. Y.

"Pop" Hardenburg is to leather what Lifebuoy is to "B. O." No kiddin', Charlie, when she's old enough are you going to send her to Pratt?

HOUGHTON, ALFRED J., JR.

Luke

4 Revere Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Manager Soccer, 1928.

Alfred Joe, Junior, is quiet and industrious. We would like to see—about whom he and Hunter are always talking. Probably she may account for those mellow strains of "my Pet," that we hear so frequently.

HUNTER, ROBERT QUICK

Bob, Speedy

555 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1928; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Captain Class Basketball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1928-29.

"To have and to hold" a moustache was one of Speedy's aims and accomplishments.

KLEES, VICTOR

Vic

1710 Vandercliff Ave., New York City

Our erstwhile commuter from the Bronx. Do tell, Klees —just how many Co-eds at Pratt could enjoy themselves at these open-houses without your "charming" présence?

KLIER, MAXWELL

5007-15th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tennis, 1928; Pool and Billiards, 1928-29.
Another of the "Leather Necks."

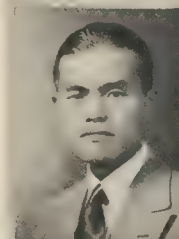

LAM, KWAN

O. K.

Canton, China

Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928.
Everything is "O. K." with Lam.

MARTH, GILBERT

Gil

228 Bainbridge St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Another of the "Rayon Trio." We wonder what Gil's catalogue library has done to the business world?

PRATTONIA

MATTINGLY, JAMES L.

Matt

51 Sprague Ave., Middletown, N. Y.

"Tarzan" goes home every week-end. We wonder if the "Studebaker" is the only attraction.

NOBLE, WILLIAM E.

Bill

46 Nassau Blvd., Lynbrook, L. I., N. Y.

Some one will be lucky. Bill is the best dishwasher at 291. Bill's personality and ability make him that kind of a man—one is better for knowing him.

PIEX, CHARLES H.

Px

136 Dwight St., New Haven, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29.

His eyes gave him away in Mr. Marsh's class. "Px" sure is a help to 291.

POTTER, EDWARD T.

Ed

41 Clement Ave., Peabody, Mass.

Class Treasurer, 1928-29; Associate Editor Prattonia, 1929; Assistant Manager Baseball, 1928; Manager Class Baseball, 1929.

Ed visits Bridgeport with his roommate, Roy, every week-end. The boys from that metropolis would like that certain party's name and address, Ed. Incidentally, the class treasurer, who continually hounds for dues—May God bless him.

PRETSCH, WILLIAM H., JR.

Bill, Precious

72 President's Place, Kingston, N. Y.

A minister's son, master of the organ and organic chemistry. Bill was so busy with his studies and week-end trips that we never got to know his virtues or failings. Came in Monday mornings whistling "That's my Weakness now," so she must have made that Sunday visit impressive.

RASMUSSEN, LAURENCE M.

Larry, Ras

120 Hough Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1928-29; Soccer, 1929; Pool, 1929.

Another cow-puncher, who persists in scuffling those leather heels much to Houghton's discontent. One of the two who brave the storm and strife encountered by wearing the "Iron Kelly."

RINKER, EDWIN C.

Rinky Dinks, Ed

194 Mount Vernon St., Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Class Baseball, 1928-29.

The class sheik, who confines his movements mostly within the vicinity of Ridgefield Park.

SART, GILBERT D.

Tex Rickard, Gil

Little Falls, N. Y.

Manager Class Basketball, 1929; Swimming, 1929.

One of the boys who delights in quizzing Doctor Rogers on leather. Hobby—Experimental research on tanning of fish and eel skins. Good luck to you, "Gil."

SCHOENHERR, CHARLES F., JR.

Schooner, Red

109-23-214th St., Bellaire, L. I., N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Baseball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1928-29; Bowling, 1929; Swimming Team.

What would Red do if he couldn't ride the "L"? Whom did you meet this morning?

SOULE, HAROLD W.

Hal

12 Gill St., New Haven, Conn.

Vice-President Wohler Chemical Association, 1928; President Wohler Chemical Association, 1929.

Instead of designing stills, Hal makes an attempt to do life sketches from photographs. If an Artsman's word means anything, Soule would make a better Arts' man than a wielder of wash-bottles.—Another of the "Rayon Trio."

STAFFORD, ROBERT W. Slippery, Bob
33 Milligan St., Little Falls, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Manager Swimming, 1929.

A quiet fellow in class, but we think he is one of the instigators at 263. Did you get a letter today, Bob?

STECK, RUDOLPH EDWARD R. E. S., Joe
188 Orchard St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Prattonia Representative, 1928-29.

One of the original cow-punchers from the metropolis of Bridgeport. Steck is one of the three reasons for the racket emanating from the locker-room noon hours, much to the disgust of the first-year men. Were it not for the enduring patience of his classmates . . . .

STEWART, JEFFREY R., JR. Jeff
1022 Drexel Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa.

Soccer, 1928-29; Manager Pratt Dance Orchestra, P. I.; Men's Club lunch.

Comes from Philadelphia and a family of chemists—the latter is an asset. Jeff is quite a ladies' man, but if we could handle a sax and our adjectives as he does, we would dine at a different dietician's home every evening.

STOELTZING, RICHARD E. Dick
8405-165th St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Soccer, 1928; Basketball, 1928; Bowling, 1928; Swimming, 1929.

A devotee of bridge, women, and musical comedies.

TALBOT, JAMES R. Jim
Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1928-29; Manager Bowling, 1929; Manager Interclass Bowling, 1929.

Our candidate for College Humor's "Who's who" column—a fine athlete and a good student—we just couldn't use the hammer on our Jim.

TARBOX, ROSCOE D., JR.

Skeezix

Newtonville, N. Y.

Skeezix is a well-bred boy from up the river and shows it. Would never think of disturbing the peace of the paying guest downstairs by pacing his room at 8:30 A. M.

WILLIAMS, HAROLD G.

Shorty, Wee Willie

Eastport, N. Y.

A quiet, hard working chap, who knows his stuff. Shorty's there in Mechanics.

WINSPEAR, GEORGE G.

37 Northcup Place, Buffalo, N. Y.

Ten grams of Good Humor, 25 grams of Hilarity, 1/2 pint Generosity, a cubic yard of Seriousness; mix the lot, what have you got? Winspear.

YAROSHEFSKI, ANDREW F.

Yaro, Andy

140 Willow St., Meriden, Conn.

Here—Mr. Marsh's old New England Yankee—who has the power of foresight, which should help him reach the top. Quite an artist, too, and if you're skeptical just follow his pencil when a lecture on aldehydes or kefones is in progress.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING, 1930

HERE we are, seventy-two chemists of a year. Can you imagine such a crowd of "numbskulls" together? We do not believe we are quite as bad as that, the only thing to cause the belief that we are is the fact that some of our instructors say so. At any rate we are "dyed-in-the-wool" chemists, as our clothes are fairly well eaten away; as to the remainder, well, that is all right. Indeed we believe any other S. & T. man will back us up on that flattering statement. Even though we have been here for some time, there are a few of our members who believe that it is possible to heat acids in closed containers. This might explain the reason there are so many "moth" holes in our clothes.

As to who is boss of the S. & T. school, there can be no doubt as the chemists generally say what's going to be done and back up what they preach by doing it. As for examples, allow me to enumerate several of the incidents which took place last fall. There is no need of asking who won the interclass soccer championship, for it was none other than the chemists. Of course the first and second years are combined, as our class is not large enough to support two teams. Still it was the first year men who gave valuable assistance both to the defensive and offensive sides. We were not only prominent in athletics; as you might recall, it is a rather usual happening. Last fall one of the old classes was going to remove a "misplaced eyebrow" of one of our numbers. Everything was going along fine when suddenly there appeared a group of well trimmed sluggers. Immediately the thought of doing harm to our man was removed, and we have continued unmolested ever since.

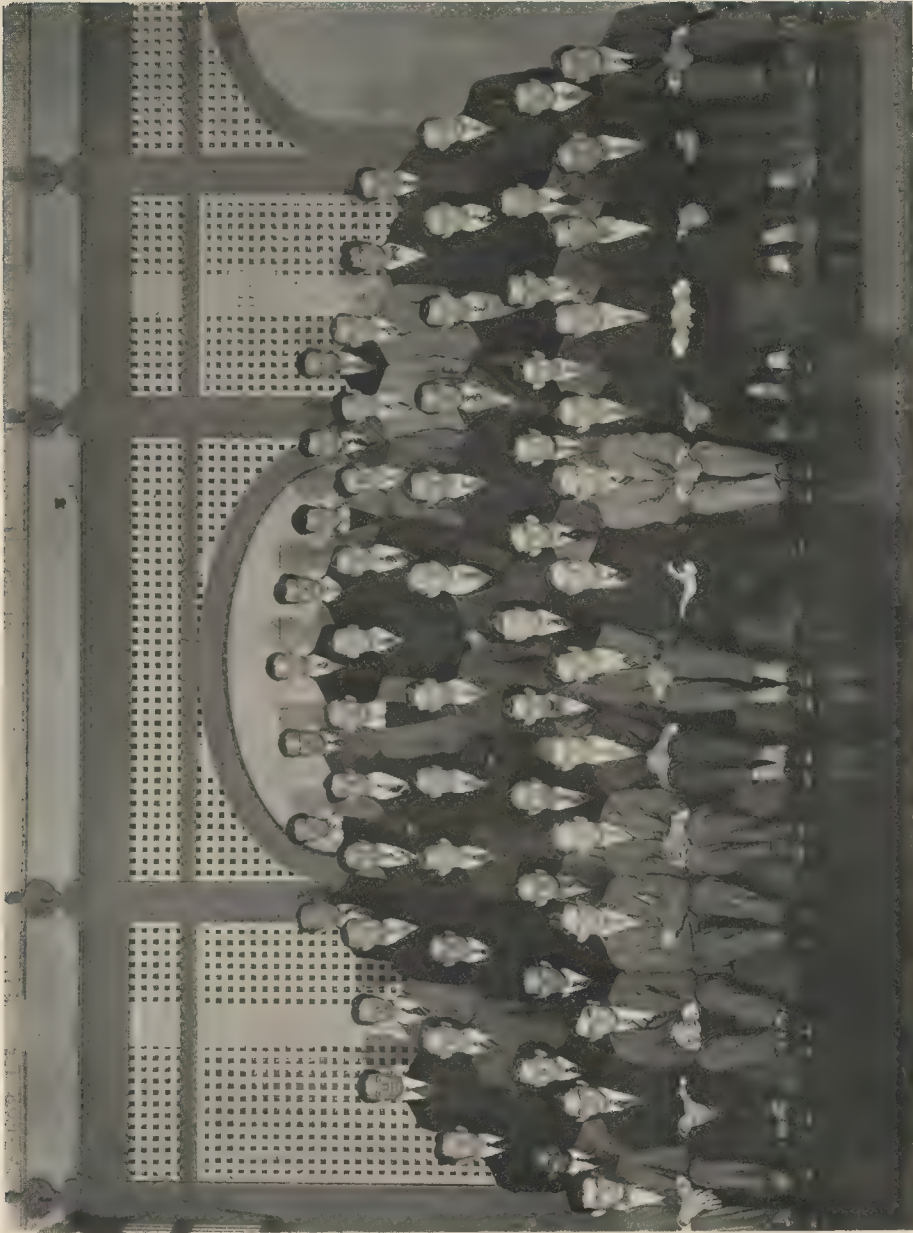

Now that we have spoken of the class, we would like to take this time and opportunity to tell of our great appreciation of the assistance given to us by the entire executive staff and faculty. We also deem it proper to render our heartfelt thanks to the members of the faculty who have come in direct contact with us.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, 1929

A SCORE less eighteen years ago ninety-five aspirants to fame entered Pratt to become future electrical engineers. The way was rather smooth at first and quite familiar to every one. The few obstacles presented were easily overcome with the willing cooperation of every one. Many evenings were spent by little groups in their respective abodes working out plans of campaign for the days ahead. Once in a while all would put aside their burdens and congregate at some rendezvous to make sport and forget all worldly cares.

Soon the way began to grow strange and real obstacles began to appear, which required hour after hour of consultation to devise methods of obviation. However, all were finally overcome and at the end of a year many a milestone had been passed.

At this time a general holiday was declared, so all the weary men scattered to the four winds for three months of relaxation and to better financial status.

Time to start again came all too soon. Several failed to return; but a goodly number started out with renewed vigor. This time the way was strangely new. Things began to appear which taxed the strength of even the best. Time after time some of the weaker began to stray behind but with encouragement they were kept on the way until finally the goal was reached.

Now at this time all are about to enter upon a new world, a world where each man must do his best to keep up with the stream of life and win his battle. Here's to a successful career for the class of 1929 and a wish that the class of 1930 may even better our record.

CLASS OFFICERS

FRANCIS M. ELLIS, President
STEPHEN A. MILEHAM, Vice-President

CARL E. DRAKELEY, Secretary
FREDERICK C. REED, Treasurer

BECKMAN, AUGUST P.

Beck

4285 Kepler Ave., Bronx, New York

Just a quiet fellow but a worth while friend. That he has worked conscientiously from the beginning is shown by some of his reports.

BELANGER, HOMER A.

Homer

25 Mountain St., Hartford, Conn.

A quiet, studious fellow, well liked by all. He manages to keep the class interested during shop quiz.

BENANDER, CLIFFORD N.

Kip

64 Kensington Heights, Meriden, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Swimming, 1929.

Kip is an all-around fellow. Works hard at anything he undertakes whether studies, athletics, or making friends.

BLASS, MICHAEL J.

Mike

37 Thorne St., Jersey City, N. J.

Soccer, 1928-29; Fencing, 1928.

Mike is one of those wise crackers. Now, don't misunderstand us, because we like his wisdom.

BLILEY, F. DAWSON

Bliley

649 W. Ninth St., Erie, Pa.

When Daw came to us last fall he was an active member of the "Brush" Club. However, he quickly saw the necessity of coming out from behind the bushes.

BREWER, LESLIE H.

Les

Lovely St., Unionville, Conn.

Soccer, 1928-29; Captain Fencing team, 1928-29; Bowling, 1928-29.

Les is one of those inquisitive youths who give the instructors much delight in answering his many questions.

BROWN, CLIFFORD G.

Cliff

105 Water St., Newburgh, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29.

What's the argument? Oh, just "Brownie" trying to find out who has the right answer, he or the other fellows.

BUNTEN, CEDRIC R.

Bunten

8 Palmer St., Springdale, Conn.

Soccer, 1928-29; Chairman Dance Committee, 1928; Mgr. Class Baseball, 1928.

If we had a class sheik, "Ced" would be the lucky fellow. He likewise has a winning way with his fellow classmates.

CASEY, THOMAS W.

Tom

14 Village St., East Hartford, Conn.

Elec. Assn. Com., 1929.

Tom may have fallen down on the way to Ampere, but when it comes to real work does he fail? I'll say not.

CASIRAGHI, PAUL

Cass

75 Oak Grove Ave., Hasbroock Heights, N. J.

Soccer, 1928-29; Captain Track, 1928; Fencing, 1928-29; Dance Committee, 1928; Business Mgr. "Electrical Echo," 1929.

Paul knows his stuff with the opposite sex, too. But why shouldn't he? He always looks as if he were just going out on a date.

CECI, RALPH J.

Ralph

Main Street, Beacon Falls, Conn.

A nice, quiet, hard-working chap, who is always very attentive in classes and does his work well.

CEPELAK, JOSEPH

Cepy

841 Frost Road, Waterbury, Conn.

Boxing, 1928.

Ask "Cepy" about our trip to Ampere. He had a great time. As a rule he takes life rather seriously.

CLARK, ALBERT M., JR.

Clarky

Main Street, Orange, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

We sometimes wonder how "Clarky" finds time to study with so many things to occupy his evenings.

CLARK, JOSEPH L.

Joe

88 Lake St., Liberty, N. Y.

Elec. Assn. Com., 1929; Boxing, 1928.

Clarky, the boy himself! He has a warm way about him and a broad smile. You can't help but like him. (No, he didn't pay us to put this in.)

CLAVES, JACK

Jack

184-22nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jack is a hard worker. He has a pleasing personality, which should stand him in good stead throughout life.

DEL GIORNO, JAMES

Jimmy

146-36 Queens Ave., Flushing, N. Y.

Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Pool, 1928.

What style will you have, Jim? Roman, Grecian, or what have you? Jim has been quite prominent in class athletics.

DIGGORY, BENJAMIN A.

Ben

171 Madison St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Fencing, 1928; Treas. Elec. Assn., 1929.

Ben is the Sphinx of the class, but behind that set face are brains. He knows his stuff and knows it well. We are all betting on Ben to make a big success in life.

DOYLE, JOHN F.

John

85 Olmsted Ave., East Hartford, Conn.

How about a little bird seed, John? A little music helps a lot sometimes, doesn't it? If Mr. Miller wants a job done right he knows whom to get just the same.

DRAKELEY, CARL E.

Carl

138 Main St., Penn Yan, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1929.

Carl is an all-around good fellow. He is cautious and conservative in everything he does, so he can't go wrong that way.

DRAPER, HAROLD C.

Draper

314 Norway Ave., Trenton, N. J.

S. & T. Dance Committee, 1929; Class Dance Committee, 1929.

Trenton seems to have more attractions than Brooklyn, if you ask Harold. Design period seems to be the favorite time for expounding his philosophical theories.

ELLIS, FRANCIS M.

Frank

389 Forbes Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class President, 1928-29; Vice-President Student Council, 1928; President Student Council, 1929; Editor-in-Chief Prattonia, 1929; Swimming, 1929.

Frank's ambition has been to make the class of 1929 a big success. We refer you to the above record as evidence of his ability.

FLANSBURG, JAMES K.

Jim

Johnsburg, N. Y.

Prattonia Rep., 1928-29; Vice-President Electrical Association, 1929.

Always has an explanation ready for everything, and is always ready to help a fellow out. We are assured that there is a successful career in store for him.

FLYNN, ARTHUR T.

Art

377 Ferry St., New Haven, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Dance Committee, 1929.

"Art" was always on a local?? Outside of that, he's O. K. Always willing to sacrifice his own time to help the other fellow.

FOCA, ALPHONSE R.

Al

113 East 3d St., Clifton, N. J.

If "Al" can commute from Clifton for two years and still get all those A's, he shouldn't have to worry much about making good on any job.

FORD, THOMAS B., JR.

Tom

18 Willow St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tom has furnished the class with quite a bit of musical entertainment during the past two years. You can't help but like him. Good luck, Tom!

GERKS, RICHARD

Dick

247 Franconia Ave., Flushing, N. Y.

Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Class Smoker Con., 1929.

Dick used to cause great excitement in foundry by pitching sand balls about the place. Now he has quieted down but still has his moments.

GLADIS, JOSEPH

Joe

78 Anderson Ave., Forestville, Conn.

President Electrical Association, 1929.

Joe is going to be one of our successful engineers. He has worked hard to keep the fellows interested in Electrical Association meetings and trips.

GOLDSTEIN, ISADORE

Goldy

2821-14th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

"Goldy" is the movie man of '29. Don't misunderstand us, he doesn't live in Hollywood. He's an operator and the best Pratt has had in years.

GROHS, ALFRED

Al

R. F. D. 2, Box 25, Canastota, N. Y.

Even though "Al" smokes Camels, we can forgive him because he used to be a mounted policeman in the wilds of Canada.

HANSEN, EDWARD L.

Ed

9527-78th St., Ozone Park, N. Y.

We wonder if Ed chews (gum?) to quiet his nerves. Ed can get his work done and still have time to tell a few good stories.

PRATTONIA 29

HARRIS, MILTON C.

Milt

1047 Townsend Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Captain Class Basketball, 1928-29; Swimming, 1929.

"Milt" is an all-around good fellow. Whenever anything goes wrong in lab, "Milt" always comes to the rescue.

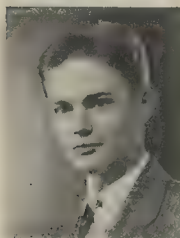

HAYS, WILLIAM

Bill

463 Logan St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Soccer, 1928-29; Basketball, 1928-29; A. A. Rep., 1928.

"Bill" always has a word with which to answer every question. Well, Bill, how about it?

HEAP, JESS J.

Jess

87 Elysian Ave., Nyack, N. Y.

A studious fellow, with a pleasing personality. He knows his "juice," and how. He also happens to be a mathematician of some repute. Ask the boys at the Men's Club.

HEINZEL, AUGUST H.

Augie

26 Hobart St., New Haven, Conn.

Basketball, 1928; Swimming, 1929; Dance Committee, 1929.

The big butter-and-egg man from New Haven. "Augie" is rather a quiet fellow but if you don't know him you have missed a wonderful friend.

HILLE, FRANK O.

Frank

126 Lenox Ave., Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Tennis, 1928; Boxing, 1928; Mgr. Track team, 1928.

Two years at Pratt have changed Frank from a carefree boy into a serious, coming electrical engineer. Here's luck, Frank.

JOGEESE, MARTIN G.

Marty

421 E. Market St., Mahanoy City, Pa.

"Marty" is a keen student, who possesses a dry humor, which is very enjoyable. The old place on Ryerson regrets his passing.

JOHNSTON, THOMAS H.

Tom

Halcomb, New Brunswick, Canada

Tom hails from 'way up north. We have to admire his pluck and "Stick-to-it-iveness." He never gives up.

KEE, JOHN W.

John

37 Mott St., New York City

He is a mathematician of very high standing. He certainly does beat up that big slide-rule of his. He and his "slip-stick" are inseparable.

KLINE, RALPH W.

Ralph

116th St. and 7th Ave., North Troy, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Boxing, 1928-29; Swimming, 1929; Secretary Electrical Association, 1929.

A keen student and interesting fellow. Always ready to help out the other fellow. Aspires to pugilistic fame.

KRAMER, FREDERICK J.

Fred

171 Boston Road, Springfield, Mass.

Soccer, 1928; Class Secretary, 1928.

Fred has a personality which has won a good many friends for him at Pratt. Here's luck for a successful career.

PRATTONIA

KRAVUTSKE, RICHARD E.

Dick

34 Lenox Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Baseball, 1928-29; Chairman Smoker Committee, 1929.

"Dick" is another one of our playful fellows. He usually manages to keep quiet during classes, though.

LAMBERT, JOHN A.

Gummy

140 Ludlow St., Stamford, Conn.

Soccer, 1928-29; Elec. Association Committee, 1929.

"Gummy" has talent and artistic ability, as shown by his performance at the class smoker. He has all the qualifications of a successful engineer, too.

LETSKY, MILTON L.

Milt

Morris, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1928-29; Class Soccer, 1928.

"Milt" decided to leave the wilds of northern Connecticut and come to Pratt. When we first saw him we thought him Daniel Boone's brother or a member of the House of David.

LORCH, GEORGE H. K.

George

Main Street, Cornwall Bridge, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Bowling Mgr., 1928-29.

George's hardest job is to keep the bowling spirit of the class growing.

MacARTHUR, HENRY E.

Mac

247 Demorest Ave., Staten Island, N. Y.

A mighty man of the ocean is "Mac." Watch the boys gather 'round when he begins a tale of his adventures on the high seas.

MAZAIKA, JOHN L.

John

Route No. 1, Bethlehem, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Bowling, 1928-29; Soccer, 1928-29.

John hasn't missed many of the school's social functions in the two years at Pratt.

McGRATH, HAROLD C.

Mac

278 Crystal Ave., New London, Conn.

Soccer Mgr., 1928-29.

One of the many "Connecticut Yankees" drawn to Pratt by some irresistible force. "Mac" believes in getting down to the cause of things in juice.

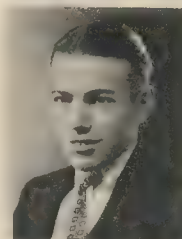

McINTYRE, HAROLD J.

179 Gilman St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Boxing, 1928.

The only soccer player who never was kicked in the shins.

MIKLOVICH, PAUL E.

Mick

51 Taylor Ave., S. Norwalk, Conn.

President Jr. Electrical Association, 1928; Electrical Association Committee, 1928; Dinner Committee, combined meeting Tech. Socs.

He knows his juice thoroughly. What's the noise? Just "Mick" and "Gummy" airing a slight difference of opinions.

MILEHAM, STEPHEN, A.

Steve

35 Union St., Kingston, Pa.

Chairman Dance Committee, 1929; Vice-President Class 1928-29.

"Steve" is one of our future successful electrical engineers. Underneath that quiet reserve we find a real worth while friend.

MORGAN, JOSEPH J.

Morgan

Box No. 291, Tuxedo, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928.

Morgan is one of those strong, silent men, quiet and modest, well liked by every one.

NORTON, EDWARD T.

Ed

8 Columbia Terrace, Portland, Me.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Swimming Mgr., 1929.

"Ed" hails from the stormy, rock-bound coast of Maine. A conscientious student and hard worker. Has just a bit of "blarney" and "brogue," which make him the more likable.

O'NEIL, JOSEPH H.

Joe

2250-64th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Swimming, 1929.

Pratt Institute's representative at the Holland Tunnel. When he holds forth on the Electrical System of the Holland Tunnel, the Design class listens in rapture.

OSTASESKI, PATRICK A.

Osti, Pat

150 Austin St., Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29.

One of our most vociferous defendants of the virtues and beauties of Oyster Bay as a place of residence. Do they all grow that long out there, Pat?

PAIGE, CHARLES A.

Charlie

17 Demord St., Springfield, Mass.

Class Baseball, 1928-29.

"Charlie" is one of the quiet boys who are seen but not heard, unless there is something worth while to be said.

POLISHOOK, BENJAMIN

Poly

244 W. Franklin St., Bound Brook, N. J.

Editor "Electrical Echo," 1929.

Ben is our gifted and versatile literateur; a physical infant but an intellectual giant. "Polly" once entertained hopes of becoming a plumber but was sadly disillusioned by Mr. Miller. Remember the sad occasion, Ben?

PULLIG, OTTO H.

Otto

48 Main St., Torrington, Conn.

His motto—"A show a day makes studies play." Otto's spare time is spent in compiling a perfect mathematics workbook to be sold to future Pratt engineers.

RANDALL, WILLIAM C.

Bill

31 Cemetery St., Fort Plain, N. Y.

Literary Editor Prattonia.

Aquiet, unassuming, conscientious student. His favorite sport is letter-writing. Once caused great excitement at "401" by staying out after 9:30 P. M.

REED, FREDERICK C., JR.

Fred

194 Academy St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Class Treasurer, 1928-29.

Although Fred may be a bit troublesome now and then if it's time to collect dues, he will later show you how bigger things are done. Try to equal his talents, personality, or musical ability.

REICHARD, WILLIAM C.

Bill

306 Crawford Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

"I want to ask a question when you are finished concerning the thing I am practically interested in." We notice Reichard's questions are not concerning Analytics or Calculus.

REICHEL, LOUIS G.

Louie

469 Winthrop Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1928-29; Leader Men's Club Orchestra, 1928-29; Fencing instructor, 1928-29; Athletic Association Committee

"Louie" and his gang manage to "soothe the savage breast" during lunch hour.

REILLY, FRANK J.

Frank

133 Broadway, Bayonne, N. J.

Class Tennis, 1928; Fencing, 1928.

From Bayonne he always boosts the home town. Not seen at many of the school's social functions as there is an attraction elsewhere.

RIVERO, ANGEL V., JR.

Rivero

241 W. 13th St., New York City

Rivero agrees that there is a definite relation existing between the Flux and counter E. M. F. of a motor. No doubt in the near future he will be devising some means of driving the motors with generators.

ROCHON, CYRIL G.

Rochon

425 Willow St., Waterbury, Conn.

Class Tennis, 1928; Boxing, 1928; Swimming, 1929.

He and Soule do a Damon and Pythias act. When it was discovered that they had joined the Holmes' Protective Agency, a number of hard characters left town. Not a care in the world.

SINNAMON, HENRY E.

Henry

235 Highland St., So. Manchester, Conn.

After spending many hours of hard work in Design, Henry's only desire is to become an armature winder. Beware of Philadelphia, Henry! Or some other desire may enter your career.

SMITH, GEORGE W.

Smithy

Jackson Ave., Seaford, N. Y.

A likable, carefree resident of Long Island. Noted for his original viewpoints upon certain subjects.

SMITH, LEON V. R.

Smity

175 Sherman Ave., New York City

The old proverb, "It takes a man with experience," proves to be true when Smith says that there are no ten-ton trucks attached to the lathes in the machine shop.

SOULE, EUGENE

Souley

Norfolk, Conn.

Class Tennis, 1928; Boxing, 1928; Dance Committee, 1928.

One of the Beau Brummel boys. Favors the weaker sex. Once distinguished himself by arriving at a 9:00 o'clock class before the last bell rang.

SULLIVAN, THOMAS J.

Sully

15 Belden St., Hartford, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1928; Class Basketball Mgr., 1929; Soccer, 1928-29; Bowling, 1929; A. A. Rep., 1929.

As an electrical engineer "Sully" states that the Corliss valve is the best device for breaking a circuit.

THOMAS, WALTER M.

Tommy

58 Douglas Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

A good worker in school, who keeps the pedestrians in Yonkers stepping lively and dodging, over the weekends.

VAIL, LINWOOD G.

Lin

East Marion, N. Y.

Class Tennis, 1928; Smoker Committee, 1929.

After a careful study of existing conditions, Vail has decided that the only reason Pratt Institute hasn't a campus is because the angle of advance is greater than the flux causing the piston to rotate in the opposite direction.

VAN DUZER, LEWIS S.

Van

Horseheads, N. Y.

One of the upstate boys. Never discouraged nor downhearted. Somewhat addicted to tales of rides in cars which have miraculous powers and unlimited speed.

VAN HOOVEN, KING

Van

20 Polhemus Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Tennis, 1928; Bowling, 1928-29.

"Van," the famous bowler of the Class of '29, has decided after much experience in the electrical laboratory there is a similarity between live wires and blonds. Watch out for the shock, "Van."

WHITE, HERBERT W.

Herbie

48 Oakland St., Bristol, Conn.

"Herbie" is one of the really "brainy" boys of the class. Holds several speed records for writing up laboratory reports. A future research engineer.

WILLIAMS, ALDEN H.

Al

3 Mill St., Gloversville, N. Y.

"I clearly understand but I am a bit confused." "Al" is a detail man and is recognized as the famous slide-rule artist of the Class of '29.

WRINN, JOHN J.

Mooney

Colchester, Conn.

A "Connecticutician" who delivers the goods but doesn't talk much about it. Quite witty and has earned a certain reputation as a poet.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, 1930

AS SEPTEMBER 26th rolled around some ninety odd students from the different parts of the country, assembled at Pratt Institute to begin the study of the mysterious science of electricity. We soon learned that we would have to study hard and faithfully in order to keep up the pace that the instructors set for us.

However, with well planned time some of us found a diversion in soccer. We started the season with a bang, easily winning the first game. But a lack of practice and teamwork, with a stroke of hard luck, kept us from winning any more games, although good material will be had for next year, when we hope to do better. Next in athletics came the basketball games. We lost our first game and the boys have practiced hard and faithfully to overcome their weak spots and to build up a strong defense. We fully expect them to do better in the remainder of the games.

At about the same time that basketball rolled around so did the term exams, and many a student burned his lamp far into the night preparing himself for the first exams of the year. The examination week arrived and passed without any casualties being noted.

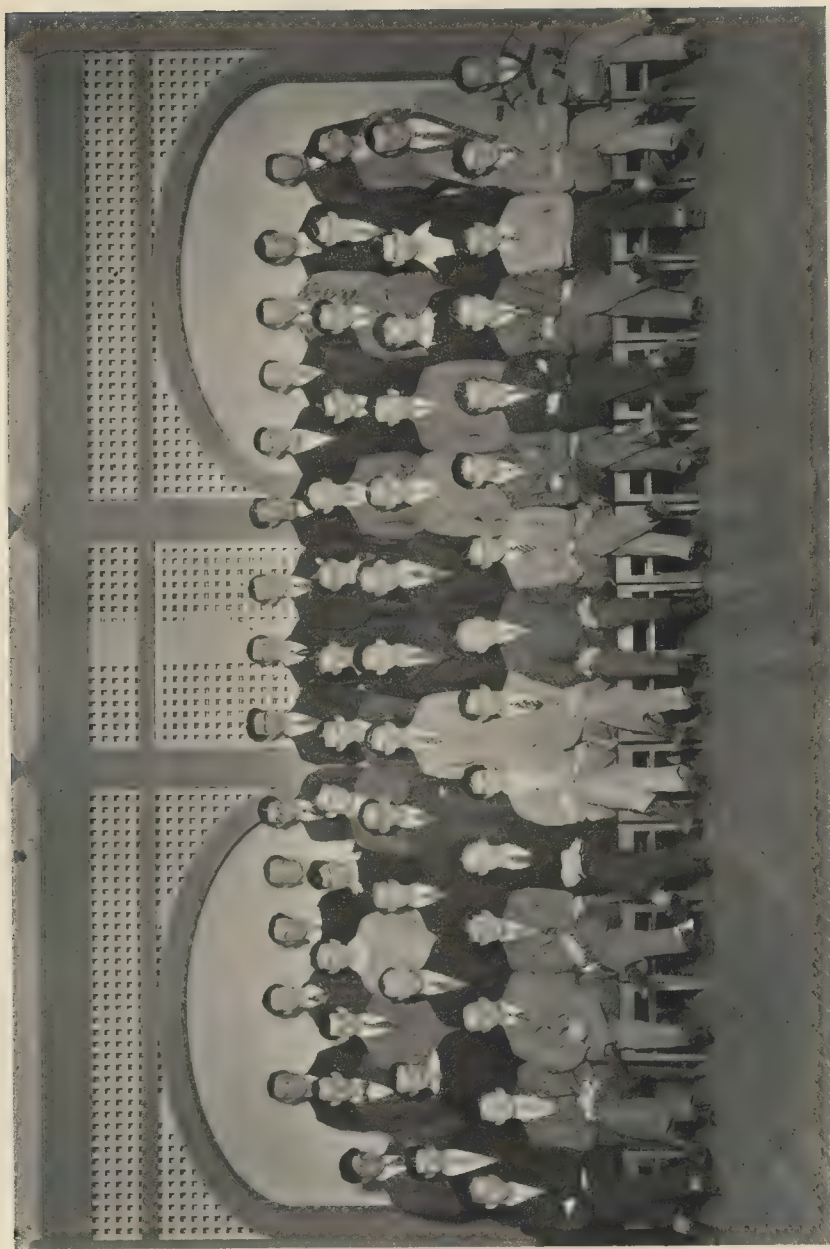

We are now back from the Christmas vacation, that is, all except for the few who were forced to leave school during the term for various reasons, and we are ready to complete the education which we started here.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING 1929

IN SEPTEMBER, 1927, a group of good looking, ambitious students gathered at Pratt to study the art of Mechanical Engineering. We were all more or less lost at first, but soon learned to wend our way around the maze of skyscrapers which compose Pratt Institute.

Our studies soon took possession of all our spare time and then some. The midnight oil was burned continuously, yet those experiments were always overdue.

Time flies for the industrious, however, and the end of the first year arrived before we were dead from overworking the gray matter. After a restful and otherwise beneficial vacation we returned to Pratt for the final polishing required of all good engineers.

We started things moving by holding a smoker for the incoming Mechanical class. Here old acquaintances were renewed and new ones made. The unsophisticated were warned of the traditional customs of our Alma Mater, namely, to put away their knickers, mustaches and other childish possessions in moth balls.

The traditional standards of the Mechanicals were well upheld if not bettered, in every branch of school activity. The Soccer team fought hard throughout the season and finished well up on the list. Basketball is our weakness as our two-year record will show. The Architects were the only ones contesting our right to our second championship. All doubts were quelled after three splendid exhibitions of our skill. Then to prove our worth, the Junior Varsity were treated in the same manner as the others. The Pool and Bowling teams also went through the season undefeated to their second championship. The class in giving their wholehearted support, both vocal and financially did much to contribute to the success of the teams.

A very successful class dance was held in the fall. Everyone who attended, agreed that the "Boilermakers" were far from lacking in social training.

And now we are on the final lap of our journey through the halls of knowledge before setting out into the world of industry, leaving many fond and pleasant memories behind us. In the future "Mech. Lab." will always bring back delightful remembrances of the luscious taste of half melted Eskimo pies flavored with the grease of Corliss and Diesel engines. Combined with these is the vast amount of knowledge acquired under the guidance and with the help of our instructors.

Soon our trunks will be packed, our final farewells made; anxious and wondering we will start out on a new and inviting quest where we shall put to use the knowledge acquired during our brief sojourn at Pratt Institute.

H. J. EGAN, Vice-President

L. B. GILBERT, Secretary
L. O. CEDERWALL, Treasurer

ABBATIELLO, ANTHONY

Abbey

526 Paige St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Has no end of ability (stock broker, etc.). Abbey's pleasant smile should carry him far in the future.

BAER, LOUIS, JR.

Louie

Smith Point, Manchester, Mass.

"Louie" and his bright suspenders have often brightened our blue moments. Always on the jump, he's bound to get somewhere. Have a chew, "Louie."

BECHTOLD, WILLIAM P.

Bill

28 Gleston Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

What makes you blush, big boy? "Bill" is a hard worker and well liked; is sure to meet with success. Knows his telephone numbers, etc.

BECKER, DAVID H.

Becky

339 Hawthorne Ave., Newark, N. J.

"Becky" is our "Rolly-Polly" Boy. As broad as he is long. Furnishes plenty of entertainment for the boys in Math and Mech. Lab.

BOGARD, CHARLES S.

Bog

44 Drake Road, Scarsdale, N. Y.

"Bog" hails from Scarsdale, otherwise known as "Sleepy Hollow," where you "roll in" at 9:30. But "Bog" is no sleepy head and is out for business.

PRATTONIA

BOURNE, DAVID H.

How

24 Fifth Ave., New York City

We wonder what Day wonders what Howard was doing outside the Park gate. Quiet fellow, 'How' is, but knows his stuff.

BRANDS, JOHN W.

Jack

92 Parker Ave., Maplewood, N. J.

Manager Class Bowling and Pool, 1929.

The man about town. "Jack," with his Ford to carry him, sure is going a long way towards success.

CAHILL, ALBERT J.

Al

Saltville, Va.

Class Baseball and Bowling, 1928-29.

"Al," with his good humored smile and quaint Southern drawl, has been a constant bright spot in the class. "Al" has been a big factor in helping the class carry off the laurels in sports.

CAMPBELL, ROBERT E.

Beans

R. F. D. No. 1, N. East Ave., Vineland, N. J.

Quite unassuming; has often proved the well-known adage, "Still water runs deep." Good fellow, Bob is, and a keen student.

CEDERWALL, LEONARD O.

Len

1443 Boulevard, West Hartford, Conn.

Class Treasurer, 1929.

"Say, listen, fellows," here is a quiet, hard working student, who we know will surely earn success. Don't blush, "Preacher," they haven't scratched yet.

CHIECO, MICHAEL F.

Mike

400 E. 11th St., New York City

"Mike" joined us this year and has made his presence felt. A real New Yorker, thinks, sleeps, and talks New York.

COLE, ARTHUR W.

Art

1582 E. 26th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our carbon copy of Lindbergh. Well known for his interest in aviation and other things.

DAY, DONALD E.

Don

93 Oakland St., Bristol, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Soccer, 1928-29.

A lot of noise in such a small package. What a boy he is. Proves you can't tell a man by his size.

DENNINGER, ELBERT G.

Den

681 St. Johns Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1928; Class Soccer, 1928-29.

"Den" aspires to be a Barney Oldfield. A willing hand and a true friend. With all his ambition, Den's success is assured.

DERWIN, FARREL F.

Bull

106 South View St., Waterbury, Conn.

"Let me at 'em; the bigger they come the harder they fall." Waterbury's cyclone. A good fellow, this boy, "Bull."

DITTIG, ERIC N.

Dit

701 Moore St., Hackettstown, N. J.

Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball 1928, Manager Varsity Baseball, 1929; Prattonia Representative, 1928-29.

"Dit" breezes in from Hackettstown. Knows his calculus, and his engineering ability is of no mean value.

DORMAN, CHARLES C.

Charlie

290 Upper Mountain Ave., Upper Montclair, N. J.

Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1928.

"No kidding, fellows, I am an aviator." Charlie's been up in the air. What about that? Likable chap, Charlie is.

DRUPIESKI, STANLEY H.

Stosh

900 Elm St., Wilmington, Del.

Assistant Cheer Leader, 1928; Varsity Cheer Leader, 1929.

"Give us a break, fellows." Stosh has done more than his share to put pep in the class, and maybe he can't run some real dances.

DUBLER, NATHAN T.

One shot

28 S. West 8th Ave., Miami, Fla.

Varsity Tennis, 1928-29.

"Nate" can make 499 out of 500. Sh—h! He is working on a patent. "Nate" has a heart as big as himself and has won many friends.

EGAN, HAROLD J.

Hal

90 Willow St., Waterbury, Conn.

Class President, 1928; Student Council, 1928; Class Basketball, 1928; Class Vice-President, 1929.

A product of that well known town of Waterbury, "Hal" is everybody's friend. Liked by all and knows his machinery. His success is assured.

19

PRATTONIA

FILIPEK, THADDEUS S.

Tad

123 View St., Meriden, Conn.

Varsity Baseball, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Soccer, 1928-29.

The "big bologna man" from Meriden. The class' mainstay in basketball. Does his training in the drugstore. A keen student and knows what he wants.

GARDNER, ROBERT J.

Bob

430 Pequonnuch St., Bridgeport, Conn.

"Bob" is thought to be so handsome and is a woman-hater??? A darn good chap, "Bob" is, and we don't hold Bridgeport against him.

GILBERT, HARRISON C.

1061 W. Water St., Elmira, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1928-29.

Otherwise known as Football. He did his best to win the soccer championship for the class. "H. C." is some machinist and has been a big help to the rest of us in the Machine Shop.

GILBERT, LOWELL B.

Gib

4117 Iroquois Ave., Erie, Pa.

Class Secretary, 1928-29; Assistant Photograph Editor Prattonia, 1928; Photograph Editor Prattonia, 1929; Class Tennis.

"Gib" is our idea of the Arrow Collar man. Can be seen any day rushing somewhere with his camera to shoot some one. A good fellow, "Gib" is, and well liked.

GORLEY, WALTER J.

Walt

18 Geer Ave., Meriden, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

"Walt" and "Tad," our "Mike and Ike" combination from Meriden have helped the class win more than one championship in athletics.

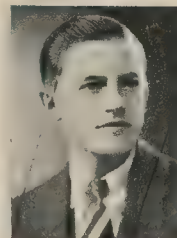

GORNEY, HENRY E.

Henrie

314 Lenox Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Henry" is just a modern Archimedes. Knows his Math and also some things about Adelphi, which he is not telling. How come?

GRAESSER, ELMER C.

Emmy

183 Winthrop St., New Britain, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1928-29.

"Emmy" is one big sandwich man of the P. I. lunch. One of the originators of the tool. Knows his machinery. "Hello-o-o-o, fellows."

GRIDNEFF, NICHOLAS J.

Nick

315 E. 10th St., New York City

"Nick" sure did put Russia on the map around here. Little, but in body only. Has one of the keenest brains in the class. "I go Friday, fellows."

GRIGGS, ROBERT A.

Bob

834 Wethersfield Ave., Hartford, Conn.

"Bob" is our navigating engineer. Knows a few yarns, too. Keeps his office hours in the "Star" and can be found there any time.

GROVES, WILFRED W.

Lab

North West River, Labrador

Class Soccer, 1928-29.

"Lab" comes from the land of Eskimos, where a man has to be a man to exist. When it comes to playing soccer, "Lab" wields a wicked foot. Best of luck, "Lab."

HAYES, EDWARD

Ed

Staatsburg, N. Y.

"Ed" is one of these quiet sort of fellows, likable and a good friend. We understand he learned a little carpentry last year. Go to it, "Ed."

HENDERSON, LOUIS C.

Whitey

301 N. Dill St., Muncie, Ind.

"Whitey" slipped it over on the gang last year, but 'fessed up this year. A hard worker and ambitious. Will get what he is after.

HENNINGER, JOSEPH R.

48 Ira Court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Vice-President A. S. M. E., 1929; Captain Class Swimming Team, 1929; Boxing Team, 1928-29.

"Joe's" athletic figure has drawn many feminine glances his way. The cross examiner of the class and must always know the why of it. "Joe" should go over big.

HERRMAN, HOWARD W.

Herm

359 E. 161st St., Bronx, New York City

Swimming Team, 1928-29.

Open bridges play havoc with "Herm's" punctuality at classes. Late though he may be, he never misses a trick; especially if on Ryerson Street.

HOEL, MARCUS

Mark

Hancock, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1928-29; Boxing Team, 1928-29.

We would all like to help "Mark" get that hundred. Little fellow but a big man in the estimation of the class.

HUBER, IRVING H.

Irv

237 Main St., Ridgely Park, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1928-29.

A generous measure of humor, a large portion of generosity, plenty of energy, and a dash of red pepper. Mix well and we have—"Huber." A good scholar, a real fellow and a friend.

HUDAK, ROBERT J.

Bob

2079-E. Main St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Pratt's edition of "Doin' the Raccoon." For some mysterious reason does not spend his week ends in Brooklyn. Always cheerful and with a heart as big as himself. We certainly wish him the best.

HUMBERT, CLAUDE J.

Claude

587 Riverside Drive, New York City

Class Soccer, 1928-29.

The part of the soccer team which says, "They shall not pass." France lost a real engineer in Claude. For hard work and perseverance he can't be beat.

INGRAM, WILLIAM J.

Bill

108 Lexington Ave., Oyster Bay, L. I., N. Y.

In his own words, "A student, scholar, and a gentleman"; with which we certainly agree. Our best little gloom-chaser. If he ever has any worries he never shows them.

JACOBUS, DALE P.

Jake

303 Adelphi St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"D'Artagnan" of the "Three Musketeers." Can obtain maximum results with a minimum amount of energy. "Jake's" western open handedness has won him many friends.

PRATTONIA

JANGRO, RUSSEL J.

Russ

136 Wells St., Greenfield, Mass.

We have only one thing against "Russ"—he dissipates—on chocolate floats. Otherwise "Russ is O. K. and a regular with the gang.

JONASSEN, FINN

Finn

483-78th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1928; Secretary A. S. M. E., 1929.

A lighthouse to the boys in the fog. Incidentally, also one of our Financial Engineers. Also one of the Musketeers. Faithful, diligent, earnest, and successful; master of everything he undertakes.

KEARNEY, BERNARD J.

Burt

1426 Lehigh St., Easton, Pa.

Class President, 1929; Business Manager Prattonia, 1929; Student Council, 1929.

Introducing our Class President and most capable executive. A few more like "Burt," and the Mechanicals would run everything. He is inclined to be Musical abed, however experience proves a well aimed shoe disrupts this inclination.

KELLER, WILLIS

Will

35 N. Corona Ave., Valley Stream, L. I., N. Y.

Captain Class Basketball, 1928-29; Captain Class Baseball, 1928-29.

Our mainstay in athletics. Would rather tinker with a motor than eat. Conscientious, good-natured, and well liked fellow, and when it comes to baseball, Oh, Boy!

KELLOGG, ARTHUR R.

Art

Westport, Conn.

Often referred to as the "late Mr. Kellogg." We think him a logical successor to Mayor Walker. Displays quite a bit of Yankee ingenuity and when he once gets started will be hard to stop.

KEMP, PERCY N.

Perc

177 River Ave., Patchogue, L. I.

Percy's biggest worries are keeping the Long Island R. R. on time and the boys in Design supplied with stories. A real hard worker with a big heart.

KNOWLES, THEODORE K.

Kenny

21 Ridgefield Ave., Bogota, N. J.

The "big stick" in the K. M. N. Co. Keeps "Mac" and "Bill" Noble out of mischief and makes life miserable for the instructors with his cross examination. We would have to hunt a long while to find a finer chap than Ken.

LISLE, SAMUEL B.

Sam

426 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

President Student Branch A. S. M. E. Representative of P. I. at Executive Council.

Boxing, 1928; Swimming, 1929.

Too much could not be said of "Sam's" fine qualities. A hard worker for the school and the class. We feel certain his success is assured.

MacINTOSH, FRANK H.

Mac

Barneveld, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Class Pool, 1928-29; Manager Class Basketball, 1929.

The other half of the pool team. He may be Scotch but that isn't what he puts on the one ball. Mac's a quiet, easy-going fellow, a keen student and well liked.

MacLEOD, ALAN S.

Mac

269 Mill St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The silent ??? partner of the Knowles, MacLeod & Noble firm. Can outtalk the rest of the firm and sometimes has his way. Forsook the pulpit for engineering and has the stuff.

MAGUIRE, LEONARD J.

Mac

237 Beechwood Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

He of the pensive mood and unruly hair. The small third of the Three Musketeers. Wonder why he goes to Bridgeport every week-end.

MASELLI, JOSEPH A.

Joe

1618-75th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1928-29; Class Pool, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

The probable successor to Ralph Greenleaf. Joe's teething ring was a cueball. Does not smoke between classes (at least not now). Another reason the class annexed most of the athletic championships.

MATESANZ, PEDRO

Pedro

Madrea 33, Madrid, Spain

Our Spanish cavalier from Old Madrid. Pedro says that English is rather tough but he's gonna stick till he makes the grade. Atta boy, Pedro. Does not wear a moustache for reasons of his own.

McFADDIN, HAROLD J.

Mac

48 Fairmont Ave., Stamford, Conn.

Circulation Manager Prattonia, 1929.

He of the serious countenance and studious specs. It is rumored that many a feminine heart has succumbed to his wiles. "Mac" sure is a hard worker and will make the grade.

MELVILLE, G. ELLIOTT

Mel

Palmer, Saratoga Co., N. Y.

"Mel" hails from Corinth and sure is a small edition of a Greek god. Tea rooms are his specialty. Quiet fellow but, oh, my . . . "Mel" is everybody's friend.

PRATTONIA

MENIG, HOWARD W.

Red

539 Jefferson Ave., Elizabeth, N. J.

Boxing Team, 1928-29.

"Red" would hate to miss that five-o'clock ferry; we don't know why, but. . . . "Say, fellows, I haven't smoked a cigarette since. . . ." Likes his Eskimo pies and plays a mean trombone.

NOBLE, WILLIAM J., JR.

Bill

67 Harrison St., New Britain, Conn.

The Connecticut end of the Knowles, MacLeod & Noble Engineering Co. Bill, with his water-cooled slide rule and Sherlock Holmes pipe, is well known about the school. Bill can tell us a few things about engineering, too.

NUCCI, ANTHONY A.

Tony

36-4th St., Watervliet, N. Y.

Tony is the boy who has it. A keen student and a hard worker for the class and school; he is bound for success. The class wishes him the best.

OECHLER, DALE G.

Dale

10 Midland Blvd., Maplewood, N. J.

A year and a half at Pratt and "which is the milling machine." Acquired an iron kelly and just dotes on hot dogs. Likes Mech. Lab. and machine shop.

OLESEN, PAUL L.

Olie

Bainbridge, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Varsity Soccer, 1928-29; Track, 1928-29.

Another good man from the Wilds of New York. Is subjected to all the eccentricities of Southpaws, Knows all about logarithms and their originators.

ORBEN, STANLEY S.

Orbie

306 Richmond Ave., South Orange, N. J.

The only man who kept a moustache for more than a week. Not only is he one of the bright lights of the class but he keeps the instructors on their toes with his questions.

PETERS, J. FRED

Pete

3226-86th St., Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y.

Pete stays close to the ground nowadays. Does not like ceilings or what they imply. Good-natured and well liked. With all his hard work, he should arrive.

PETRUZZI, PETER T.

Pete

86 Byrneside Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1928-29; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1928; Manager Class Baseball, 1929.

As a machinist, Pete is hard to beat; as a student, he is unbeatable. And as for school and class spirit, he leads them all. Pete will make the grade, and we wish him the best of luck.

PINCKNEY, W. EDWARD

Bc

10 Baker St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Soccer, 1928-29; Manager Class Swimming Team, 1929.

The irrepressible, ever present mess sergeant of the P. I. lunch. Pleasant, well liked, and possibly the best known boilermaker in the Art School.

PUCHER, FRANK F.

Push

33 South Ave., Atlantic Highlands, N. J.

One of the iron kelly boys. Of the same nature as his name. Used to push coal on the railroad. Raises wild "raspberries" for the boys in Design.

RICCOBONO, SEBASTIAN

Ricky

896 Troy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ricky is our radio "DX" hound. Has even received C. O. D. A possible successor to Steinmetz; and the champion story-teller of the class.

SEELGEN, RAYMOND C.

Ray

212-6th St., Bridgeport, Conn.

We believe Ray is the quietest man in the class, hardly know he's around. Always ready to help the other fellow, and he sure can.

SHINCEL, HAROLD H.

Hal

33 Westwood Rd., New Haven, Conn.

Varsity Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Class Tennis, 1928; Class Bowling, 1928-29; Class Pool, 1928-29; Individual Pool Championship, 1929.

Outside of his varied activities in sports, in which he excelled, he is no mean student. A good scout, and one who will make his mark.

SLEPPY, JOHN H.

Ham

7106 Idlewild St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Manager Class Basketball, 1928; Manager Class Baseball, 1928; Manager Interclass Basketball, 1929; Class Swimming Team, 1929.

The biggest man in the class, about 300 pounds of him. Is not what his name implies, rather wide-awake, if anything. Is the "Tex Rickard" of the class, and knows all the rule books backward.

SLOAN, LLOYD A.

Zip

16 Groton St., Hartford, Conn.

Joe College in person. Shares honors with F. R. Smith of being one of the two best dressers in the class. Aspired to a newspaper career, but papers were too heavy. We like "Zip" a lot.

SMITH, FREEMAN R.

F. R.

Clinton, Conn.

Class Vice-President, 1928; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

A reincarnation of Beau Brummel. Can even look dressed up in overalls. F. R. is one of the fortunate few who can go to Florida in the winter.

SOUTHWELL, GEORGE W.

Frenchy

Farm Colony, West Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1929; Boxing, 1929.

Frenchy came to us this year from the Electrical Class showing he knows what he is doing. Has a residence on an island called Staten and has just finished paying for the ferry.

SPALDING, KENYON

Ken

1112 Phoenix Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

The somnambulant denizen from the dark woods of Schenectady. Can sleep any time, even in Math. Ken likes his airplanes, and we hope to hear of great deeds by him in that branch.

STEWART, THOMAS O.

Tommy

1147-83rd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A jolly good Scotchman. Aspires to a nautical career. Knows more about ships than Noah did.

STIDD, SHERIDAN E.

Stiddy

17 Shepard St., Walton, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1928-29; Class Bowling, 1928-29; Class Duck Pins, 1928-29; Individual Bowling Champion, 1928-29.

Aside from his good work in helping the class to win championships, Stiddy is the champion gloom-chaser of the class. His wit and humor would make Will Rogers sit up and take notice.

TATA, JOSEPH J.

Joe

61 Smith St., New Britain, Conn.

Boxing Team, 1928-29.

Joe tried to give the class a little polish, but gave it up. Thinks the Stanley rule is better than the Golden Rule. Joe is everybody's friend and we all admire his spirit.

TWOMBLY, ARTHUR S.

Art

W. Central Ave., Titusville, Pa.

Treasurer A. S. M. E.

Titusville? Hmm—let's see. Where is that place? WOR take notice. Custodian of the math books. Assistant librarian. Our best ukulele player, and warbles a sweet Caruso. Mighty fine fellow, Art is, and we all enjoyed his friendship a lot.

VAN WAGNER, ROBERT W.

Bob

Cherry St., Cheshire, Conn.

Bob is one of the many who enjoy calculus??? One of these quiet fellows who say nothing but surprise us now and then. His willingness to help has made Bob many friends.

WADLEIGH, ROYAL H.

Roy

189 Upper Mountain Ave., Montclair, N. J.

Our own little globe-trotter. Has been around the world and seen much. Left the Electricals flat to make "Whoopee" with the Boilermakers. Roy has made many friends in the class.

WAGNER, CARL A.

Carl

8514-114th St., Richmond Hill, Long Island, N. Y.

Assistant Manager Varsity Tennis, 1928.

Carl, rather quiet and unassuming, has his own private class in Design and helps many of the boys over the hurdles.

WARNER, DONALD M.

Don

5 First Ave., Mayfield, N. Y.

You can find Don slugging his banjo in the P. I. lunch any noon. Another of the class question boxes. "Sometime I hope to stick Bud Harper, fellows." A good boy, Don is, and a hard worker.

WATSON, WARD T.

Wat

103 Main St., Sayville, N. Y.

Little, but Oh, My! Authority on automobiles, women, saxophones, or what-have-you. He also aspires to an aviation career, and we wish him success.

WEAVER, GEORGE F.

Buck

294 Summer St., Plantsville, Conn.

The man responsible for the post-office. Gets more mail per day than most men in a year. Romeo and how. We expect big things of Buck.

WEBER, WILLIAM H.

Bill

175 Jersey Ave., Lakewood, N. J.

Class Track Team, 1928-29.

We did not get to know Bill as well as we would have liked to. He comes from that state where men are men and mosquitos are elephants.

WETJEN, RUSSEL W.

Russ

26 Lee Ave., Rockville Center, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Soccer, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

The only one-man band in the school. His tuba renditions are classic. But Frenchy says they're tragic. Another of our star athletes.

WHITTAKER, HOWARD R.

Whit

1012 W. 2nd St., Wilmington, Del.

Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1928; Manager Jr. Varsity Basketball, 1929.

"Gee Whiz, Buck, I can't sleep with the shades up." "Well, pull them down, Whit." "I can't, Buck, they're across the street." If ambition means anything, Whit will go over big.

WILLIAMSON, CHRISTIAN T.

Cy

Hotel Margaret, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bowling Team, 1928-29.

A Brooklyn Heights aristocrat. Generally helpful to the bowling team. Also another edition of Will Rogers. After calculus he is ready for anything.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, 1930

OLD P. I. is far reknowned
 For the deeds of fame, undimmed by years,
 Of the Industrial Mechanical Engineers.
 And since we, too, shall share their fame,
 The Class of '30 here mention our name.

We entered school one September morn,
 Skies were blue, the future bright,
 (No reports overdue were then in sight.)
 But actions, reactions, we couldn't get straight,
 So a deepening fog was to be our fate.

Mid-term approached with unchecked speed,
 While we tried our best to concentrate
 And this deepening mist to penetrate,
 Projecting planes to visualize,
 To see again those clear blue skies.

Finally, though slowly, the smothering wall uplifted,
 As velocity and functions, slide-rule and chisel,
 Made some impression, while fog turned to drizzle.
 The light of knowledge, through rents in the grey,
 Came timidly in, with flickering ray.

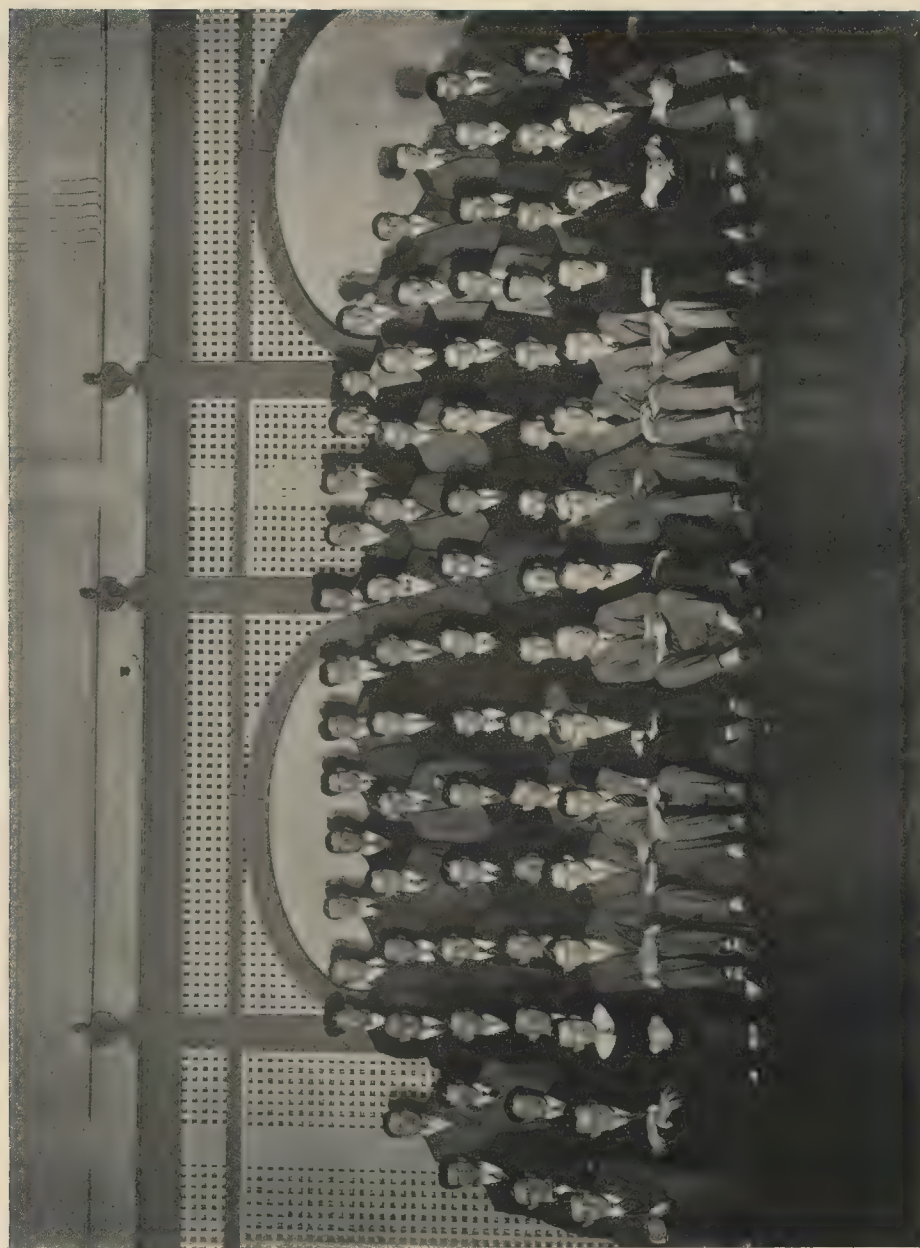

There are some people who get discouraged,
 Are ready to quit without even trying;
 But we Mechanicals aren't given to sighing,
 Our brothers before us went through the same,
 And we'll always try to merit their name.

School of Fine and Applied Arts

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

ONE of the most interesting developments in recent years in the United States presents itself in the field of Art. Never before has this activity played as important a role as it now enjoys in every day life with evidence pointing to an ever increasing importance. It has developed hand in hand with the phenomenal growth of advertising, sharing honors equally with the written thoughts that sell our products. For some time this country has lead the world in efficient and economical mass production. In our mechanical development, however, we have neglected the art quality. This important sales force is now being successfully incorporated in industry, quite evident in the improved appearance of our automobiles.

Gradually there is emerging in America a distinctly National Architecture especially visible in those cathedrals of commerce, the skyscrapers. Not only is the exterior, but also the interior commanding careful study and creative attention. In education, from the kindergarten through the college, the subject of Art is recognized as a fundamental phase of a well rounded program.

This School trains students to meet these various demands through courses in Commercial Illustration, Industrial Design, Interior Decoration, Architecture, and the Teaching of Fine and Industrial Arts. Intensive courses have been established that the greatest possible return may be obtained for the time spent in study. Programs are so presented that creative ability is fostered, principles of art are taught and skill in technique is developed. That our graduates may be acquainted with the world's finest art an opportunity for a careful study of the outstanding examples in architecture, sculpture, painting, and the crafts is included in all courses presented.

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN, 1929

MORE Architectural History, not that which Rome knew (Oh, no), but Nero had nothing on us. We, as a class, have missed nothing, not even in those grand old Freshmen Days of 1927, when problems were always due or overdue and work was handed out to us by ever efficient instructors.

With the start of our second season most took Construction but a few turned to Design. It was now between calculations that we individually voiced our various hobbies, knife throwers, songsters, rifle experts, tracers (par excellence), even magicians were we. However, we believe in hard work and thoroughness so far as to figure the size of every rivet in a five-story office building. For this engineering ability we owe thanks to Mr. Price for his untiring efforts toward us.

Thus our class passed its second milestone, and what a thrill having our pigskins passed around by our blushing president, Burton F. Hall. Congratulations and we were off to do bigger and better things.

Another eventful summer passed and our band collected once more for the finishing touches. Many had left the ranks but a few staunch members returned to carry on. A day later we settled into the harness again under the guidance of four men of proven ability. There was Mr. Arnaud, who came to teach us to design and accuse the point; Mr. Pope, ever ready with an interesting problem and inspiring lectures; Mr. Guptill, with his most practical talks on the architectural world, also his perfectly rendered trees; and our good friend, Philip Pratt, with his talks on people abroad and the importance of using rich colors. Socially and athletically we had done big things. Besides running much-talked-of dances, we won soccer, baseball, duck-pins, and basketball championships at various stages of our career at Pratt.

During our three years at Pratt there have been trying times and pleasant times. The variety has molded our characters for the better. We humbly express our appreciation for the successful attempt of those at Pratt Institute to give our class a bigger and better start in life.

PRATTONIA

BENNET, JOHN A., JR.

153 Cornelia St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A sincere worker at all times, who is our 1929 model of a Sphinx. Jack has never been the same since friend Bygden didn't return for Construction.

CALSI, SALVATORE E.

Mussolini

391 Wyona St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The fly-weight champion of the Architects. Has a weakness for hard pencils. Ask Mr. Arnaud. Our reference source in all things Italian (?).

CARTER, ROBERT I.

Daisy

25 Gorton St., New London, Conn.

Enthusiastic in all things. Another of our architectural librarians who seem to have an infinite genius for handing out folios containing no useful material whatsoever.

DEHM, CHARLES F., JR.

Chuck

45 Griswold St., New Britain, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1929; Manager Class Baseball, 1928.

A hard worker both in and out of school, who keeps the work pushing right along. A firm believer in the axiom, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

FLEAGLE, EDWARD, JR.

Shylock

415 Warburton Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Manager Varsity Basketball, 1929; Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1928; Athletic Council, 1927.

Our class financier and salesman. A convincing line that makes them buy and like it. I'm not making a cent on this deal. (Banana Oil).

FLORANCE, FRED S.

Fred

Highland Mills, N. Y.

Assistant Instructor to First Year Architects; Class Treasurer, 1927; Art Students Fund Play, 1928.

A bit of a teacher, an inclination for dramatics, and an eye for the ladies distinguish Fred.

GAETANO, NICHOLAS J.

Nick

1407 Herkimer St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dance Committee.

Nick has taken a good deal of kidding now for the past three years always with a smile, and has proved himself the possessor of a mirthful disposition along with a rare pen technique which should carry him far.

HALL, BURTON F.

Buttsie

217 Chestnut St., New Britain, Conn.

Class President, 1929; Secretary, 1928; Vice-President, 1927; Varsity Baseball, 1927-28-29; Captain Varsity Baseball, 1929; Student Council, 1928-29; Athletic Council, 1928-29; Chairman, 1929; President Men's Club, 1929.

Why write? Actions speak louder than words.

KURRY, JOHN L., JR.

John

1667 Woodbine Ave., Ridgewood, N. Y.

Successor to Sam in the supply business. The defenseless victim of the sponge and bottle artists. Despite this, however, he works hard and accomplishes much.

LAITIN, DANIEL

Danny

12 Van Sicklen Court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Danny enrolled for Construction this year but seems to have taken the Design course over again with a bit of Construction thrown in on the side.

MacGREGOR, HERBERT J.

Mac

616-44th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A serious minded chap with a wealth of ability in all mediums. A darn good designer and a wiz' at the piano. Sh... those caricatures.

MATAKA, MANNIS

Menace

100 Hart St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The boy with the banker's hours. Menace is one of us who deserves a lot of credit for combining his school studies with an outside position.

McSWEENEY, WILLIAM A.

Mac

Morristown, N. J.

Class Baseball, 1928-29.

Successor to Stock & Witford, hydraulic engineers. Spends his spare moments figuring out ways and means to keep the class in utter emersion in a bigger and better way.

MUMMY, WILLIAM A.

Buckshot

364 Main St., Torrington, Conn.

Social Committee, 1929.

His good nature and ready wit will always be remembered. He is always there with a snappy comeback. A hard worker when serious endeavor is required.

OHLMILLER, BENJAMIN A.

Ben

24 Mason Ave., Babylon, L. I., N. Y.

Bowling Team, 1929.

Our far distant traveler from Babylon. A good designer and renderer as well as a peach of a fellow. He and Sanders are our most ardent bowlers.

PEDERSEN, ARNOLD C.

Pete

129-85th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Varsity Tennis, 1927-28; Captain Varsity Tennis, 1928; Bowling, 1927-28-29; Open Singles Champion, 1927.

Missed his calling. Should have been a professional entertainer. One of these days Pete will get even with Charlie and then let us have peace.

ROHDT, HERBERT W.

Herb

556 W. 186th St., New York City

Class Baseball, 1927-28-29; Soccer, 1928-29; Prattonia Representative, 1929.

Mr. Arnaud's star pupil. Herb has been observed standing while working and, at the same time, keeping a watchful eye on Mac. We wonder why?

ROWOLD, ALFRED

Al

107 Glean St., Elmhurst, N. Y.

Quiet, but, Oh, my! An expert on perspective rendering and an authority on blowing skies with those tricky clouds. "That's catsy."

SANDERS, J. KENNETH

Sandy

41 Gates Ave., Montclair, N. J.

Bowling, 1929.

The great subway renderer of the Design class. If practice means anything, we ought to see Sandy world's champ' bowler in a short space of years.

ZAWATZKY, ANTHONY J.

Zowie

1328 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Vice-President Merlin Mystics, 1928; Secretary Merlin Mystics, 1927; Captain Fencing Team, 1928; President Masqueraders, 1929.

Just different. Magic fencing and a perfect line. With two or three more prints he ought to have an edge on the block printing market.

ARCHITECTURE

ARCHITECTURAL CONSTRUCTION, 1929

TIMIDLY entering the realms of Architecture, we were huddled under the wings of "Prof" Pope. His momentum carried us through Room 39 and dumped us beyond the portals of 41.

What have you?

Another Construction Class—fingering level and transit; succumbing and reviving to the constant droning and booming of Price's voice—which chases many a dream with "pitchforks" of elusive formulae.—But call a halt—Wester enters with a new design problem—we must pause.

Tuesday brings its crashing and scraping of T-squares and angles; voices rise in hot argument; perhaps in glee, a would-be "Monte-Carlo" springs up in a corner; now a dog enters—his collar is adorned with a ribbon and he has been annexed—our mascot. A group gathers around a desk and a victim is showered.—"One on the bean" has been successful.—Theory rends the air, from women to the 4th dimension.

Here "Eddy" enters—quiet reigns, and young architects are draped industriously over their desks, to be relieved perhaps by an inspection trip at the end of the week.

Now at the end of our session we start our tour of life, better prepared to meet its rigid demands; with thanks to those who helped us, and best wishes to all.

CLASS OFFICERS

B. F. HALL, President
H. LAFFERANDRE, Vice-President

C. F. DEHM, Secretary
P. McDADE, Treasurer

BAILEY, CHARLES W.

Bill

Palmer, Mass.

P. I. Lunch, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1929.

"Smiling Bill" claims to be the "bad boy" of the class. Has occasionally been seen in school Friday afternoons. Tough on Edwards' when Bill graduates. Bill, however, is a hard worker and a fast draftsman.

BARKMAN, W. FRED, JR.

Bow-wow

186 Speedwell Ave., Morristown, N. J.

"Bow-wow"—yes; but his bark seems to be worse than his bite. He comes from Jersey—a good state, but half under water. "Bow-wow" saw to it that we got plenty of fresh air in 41-E. A regular fellow and a good sport.

BORDEN, CHARLES LEONARD

Chick

138 Maple St., Summit, N. J.

Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928; Varsity Basketball, 1929; Class Baseball, 1928; Dance Committee, 1928-29; School Play, 1928-29.

Deplores the fact that he is number one on the roll call. "Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime"—(See W. C. Wilkinson).

BRADBURY, LOUIS J.

Skippy

Kensington, Conn.

Assistant Manager Varsity Tennis, 1928; Manager Varsity Tennis, 1929.

Kensington lost a valuable man when "Skippy" hung up his pitch fork and came down to Pratt. A hard worker when he gets his mind off the freckled-faced milk-maid back on the farm. A good all-round fellow.

BRUNNELL, C. WALLACE

Bunny

72 Broad St., Plainville, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1928.

Bunny doesn't say much, but when he does he utters words of wisdom. Pratt girls don't have a chance, 'cause Bunny's heart is in Plainville. Only his modesty is greater than his ambition.

COX, LAURENCE P.

Coxie

22 Pearl St., Springfield, Vt.

Class Basketball, 1928; Captain, 1929; Class Baseball, 1928-29; P. I. Lunch, 1928; Soccer, 1929; Swimming, 1929.

Once Coxie shook off the hayseed and became used to the big city, he became an impressive figure at Pratt. Is industrious, energetic, and progressive.

ESPENSCHIED, CARL

Eps

1838-49th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pool, 1929.

The boy who commutes from South Brooklyn. "Eps" says the trains are never on time, but Mr. Edminster suggests an alarm clock. Prejudiced against South Americans, but speaks a little Spanish himself. Claims to be an authority on design.

FELDMAN, ISADORE

Ike

1795 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

Ike is a brilliant Mechanics student, who figures his buildings from the basement up, and then wonders why the footings are too small. Strange passion for borrowing plans and other fellows' girl friends.

FORD, HARRY

Harry

3280 Rochambeau Ave., New York City

Is said to have a watch-eye so he can keep tabs on Kilb. Has the strange habit of losing transit problems. Aside from this he manages to get everything done, and so remains in the good graces of the instructors.

FOXON, GEORGE I.

Foxy

207 Bridge St., Northampton, Mass.

An ambitious lad who loves to work, but believes that every one should have his rest. Do I need a shave? No, I guess it will go another day. College bred, and everythin'.

GIMENEZ, JULIEN N.

Jimmy

Oruro, Bolivia

"Let's have some quiet, please, boys." Jimmy tells us that South America is the only place to live in, though "Eps" doesn't think so. He holds the record for lending the most things and getting the fewest back. Ambitious, jovial, and has a good line.

GLADIS, MICHAEL, JR.

Mike

78 Anderson Ave., Forestville, Conn.

Class President, 1928; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1929.

He slides the wickedest slide-rule in the class. Weakness: Formulas. Likes cigars, but can't smoke them often. It is alleged that he once winked at a girl.

HARDY, KENNETH

Ken

80 Seneca St., Pontiac, Mich.

Ever see this little fellow from out De-troy-it way, waiting patiently for——? His other weaknesses are chocolate marshmallows, boxing, and telling Scotch jokes. He's a regular fellow and a real foe to the pessimist.

HELK, THEODORE E.

Ted

36-70th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1929.

Ted's pet saying is, "Where's my 3H?" His weaknesses are concrete, marshmallow, sundaes, and——? Attains financial success selling ink. Nevertheless he is a conscientious fellow, possessing a pleasing personality.

HOSIER, EMMETT K.

Em

59 S. Clinton St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

General clean-up man at the Paramount. Well known for his ability to pass the hardest absorption tests. "Em" will always be remembered for his timely arguments with Butsie and "Buckshot."

JENSEN, ARTHUR F.

Jock

63 Wilson St., Portland, Maine

Pool Manager, 1929; P. I. Lunch, 1929; Class Baseball, 1929.

Jock is the boy from up North who can take a pile of "kidding" and still wear a sunny smile. Usually comes to school in a fog, but about 10 o'clock emerges and turns out some good drawings.

KILB, FRANCIS CHARLES

Frankie

145 Sherman Rd., Chicopee, Mass.

Small, but, oh my! See other sex for particulars. Alpha claims him, but so do we. Comes from a hick town, but calls it Springfield. Is the leading question box. Frank has personality plus, and is a hard worker.

KISSELMAN, WILLIAM

Bill

12 Maplewood Rd., Belmar, N. J.

Here is to Kisselman, commuter from "Joisey," whose motto is "Originality is based upon the material at hand." As for girls, Bill doesn't seem to show much interest. He doesn't cry over spilt "ink," and is always ready to lend a helping hand.

KRON, ROBERT G.

'Ittle Boy Kron

Hiawatha Drive, Brightwaters, L. I., N. Y.

Varsity Cheer Leader, 1928; Class Basketball, 1929.

He, with the Pepsodent smile, hails from that famous L. I. suburb, Brightwaters—where men are reared (Refer to blot in margin). He has surprised us with his skill and knowledge at the far end of the tape.

LAFFERANDRE, C. HALSEY

Hal

240 Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1928-29; Varsity Tennis, 1928-29; Varsity Basketball, 1928-29; Soccer, 1928; Captain, 1929; Class Baseball, 1928-29.

Our best athlete and student. But we're jealous of his record, and wish we were as versatile as this perservering pencil pusher.

LENDEL, ARTHUR H.

Art

816 Penn Ave., Sinking Springs, Pa.

The big blonde crime wave enters. His name is Art, and his manner breezy. We notice he's carrying a now famous underslung cocabola. A jolly good fellow with an amiable disposition; he holds the friendship and respect of his architectural contemporaries.

LEONARD, PAUL

Leonard

8 Worrall Ave., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Paul is often called "Leonardo" for no good reason at all. He is another architect who burns the midnight oil, but is not always studying architecture. He is one of these handsome men from the wide open spaces, where seats are seats, and the people don't see the ushers!

LEY, WILLIAM H.

Lay

1616 Norman St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Senior member of "Ley and Macchi," engaged in keen architectural arguing. Is one of the reasons why Mr. Price often misses his lunch hour. We must admit his problems are knock-outs; if you don't believe it, ask him yourself. He wears a Tux, too.

MACCHI, CHARLES L.

Match-ee

20 Plain St., Barre, Vt.

Prattonia Representative, 1928.

The junior partner, who still expects to understand the fourth dimension. He hails from the "wilds" of Vermont. Usually to be found where girls are. He applies his knowledge of Mechanics, Design, and Drafting to this end—and other ends. P. D. Q.

MARTIN, JOHN R.

Jack

823 Norman St., Bridgeport, Conn.

John Martin, the Bridgeport boy, quietly plugging toward the biggest ideal of architecture. He'll thrill you when he gets you around a campfire in the Catskills. Always ready to answer questions either light or deep.

McDADE, PAUL E.

Mac

520-5th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1929; Track, 1st place Pratt Meet, 1928; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Manager Swimming, 1929; Pool, 1929; Soccer, 1928-29.

As manager of our palpitating polywogs, he keeps in trim by jumping over the class desks. Possesses a real shining personality, and we all enjoy and like it.

McKENNA, ARTHUR LEO, JR.

Mac

157 Mason St., Greenwich, Conn.

We compare him with Michelangelo, the artist. They both have spent most of their time on their backs. Michelangelo painted ceilings, but Mac can't reach them! Mac has got the "Lemme takes," but we all like him.

MOULTON, GEORGE B., JR.

June

33 Conant St., Danvers, Mass.

Class Treasurer, 1928.

A lad from the farm with a ventilated hat for all the excess energy in his head. Easily "bites" on dirty tricks, and can see better without his glasses. The man with a past.

PARADIS, RAYMOND E.

X-Ray

26 White St., Waterbury, Conn.

Varsity Baseball, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Duck Pins, 1928; Manager, 1929.

Ray, noted somnambulist, would join the Yanks, but wants to start a league of his own. Gym: "Tweet, tweet, foul—children, scatter." When it comes to Math, he surprised us all.

REED, DONALD H.

Don

858 Schuylkill Ave., Reading Pa.

It was Reading's loss and Brooklyn's gain when our lean and lanky Don came to Pratt and parked his "elevens" under a drafting table. Gets his rest in Room 39, dodges well in Room 41-E, and reads little blue letters in class; otherwise a good all-round fellow.

SCHOONMAKER, DONALD H.

Sckootch

33 Derrenbacher St., Kingston, N. Y.

Jake, Jr.—Service to ladies our specialty. Proud owner of the best collection of our instructors' work. Wears haircut nonchalantly. When it's a question of architecture, see "Sckootch" for the correct dope.

SHARPLES, ARTHUR, JR.

Artie

670 Barretto St., New York City

Soccer, 1929; Class Basketball, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Pool Team, 1928-29; Swimming, 1929.

Our own little "Man-about-town"—promoter of "One on the Bean." Painstaking student of modern theatrical interiors. Versatility personified.

SUPPLE, THOMAS S.

Sup

604 Beach St., Elmira, N. Y.

Bowling, 1929.

The late Mr. Supple has yet to answer "Here" at nine. His idea of happiness is a bucket of water, pint of lampblack, and a six-inch brush. He'll be a "Floyd Yewell" yet.

SZEMKO, WALTER J.

Zem

10744-105th St., Ozone Park, N. Y.

Soccer, 1928-29; Dance Committee, 1928.

Sits in a front seat to read the board to "Wurt." Agrees with I. R. T. that L travel is beneficial, Tuesdays especially. Ambition: To calculate a factory in two hours. Hail to thee, our Zem.

TASILLO, DANIEL JOSEPH

Dan

18 Hebron St., Hartford, Conn.

Soccer, 1928; Manager, 1929; Manager Interclass Soccer, 1929; Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1929.

Proud owner of the original Scotch Mist Topcoat. Is subject to morning operatic outbursts (See Jay). Could take Valentino's place, but spends too much time at his work.

WHITFORD, JAMES P.

Jay

100-3rd St., Newport, R. I.

Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928; Manager, 1929; Pool, 1929; Track, 1928; Swimming, 1929; Dance Committee, 1929.

Our little "cut-up" believes "a little child shall lead them." The pocket edition of "Romeo"; fears no sash weight. Small, but what a worker!

WILKINSON, WILLIAM C.

Bill

242 Adelphi St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Soccer, 1928-29; Swimming, 1929; School Play, 1928.

Bill has brought the nickel back to pre-war standards. Continued from C. L. Borden: "And departing, leave behind us, some one who gets in on time."

WINNEMORE, JULLIEN F.

Winnie

100 Rosemary St., Chevy Chase, Md.

We find that Winnie is the only serious man in the class. Doesn't even appreciate a good joke. "Did you hear this one, Winnie?" "Don't bother me; I'm not interested." All in all, Winnie gets some of the best marks in the class.

WOOD, GEORGE W.

George

330 Hoboken Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Class Baseball, 1927-28; Soccer, 1927-28.

George returned to us this year after a year's absence. Hails from Jersey, but manages to live it down and be studious. Amiable and popular with all who know him. Doesn't say much.

WURRET, VEIKKO

Veek

49 Eastern Parkway, Jersey City, N. J.

Swimming, 1929.

Little "Apple-cheeks" of bath-tub fame, whose weakness is collecting thumbtacks in his own peculiar way. Is broad-minded, and thinks Hugh Ferris is good, too. Commutes from Jersey and gets his work done; give him credit.

ARCHITECTURE, 1931

ENTER on record an entirely new phase of history, a hard working class of Architects. From the first day, when we were welcomed by Mr. Pope, and right up to the present time, Pratt Institute has grown to mean more and more to us. It has become our Alma Mater in every sense of the term.

Our class activities started with a smoker given for us by the second and third year Architects. From this time on, with the aid of our upper classmen, we have increased our interests in every field.

We are represented in every branch of interclass sports. There were four of our men on the Architects' soccer team. After soccer came basketball. The Architects' basketball team was fully re-enforced by seven of us. Many of our men responded to the call of candidates for the baseball team. We were also represented on the swimming, boxing, and bowling teams.

Mr. Pope has taken this class in hand and, when we leave here, there's not a doubt that we will have benefited by his character as well as his architectural knowledge.

COSTUME ILLUSTRATION, 1929

NOW, that we are entering the cruel, cold world, we feel that there should be a record of our happier and easier days to look back upon.

From what we have gathered in the last three years, it seems that Marje will be sailing her little battleship, while Jackie pursues the nimble tennis ball. Billy tries her hand at free lance work and keeps up with the housework, while Hattie studies up on engineering. We heard that Pedretti had agreed with some one and also that Rae is using Colgate's now. Adele covers galleries with oil and Terry consumes "dates" while dancing. Viola, we've heard goes to work in her spare moments, while Al is revolutionizing the Saturday Evening Post and Edith made her debut at the Cumberland the other night.

Some day when we are all failures and we've given up the ship to the crew, we all expect to get down to the cafeteria ahead of the line.

Comments on our career at Pratt have been asked for—a sort of epitaph. But high-lights weren't outstanding in our history, and, save for one or two tea dances (our earnest attempt at sociability), we have been entertained mostly at the expense of others.

Being a group of miscellaneous temperaments, we have attended classes—attacked problems and precedents alike—with a variety of results. Each member can boast a talent, and with the added benefits of those most appreciated helpmates, our teachers, there are great hopes for the nation.

Though not exactly a collegiate atmosphere, we have enjoyed this life of work and play; and if we have not figured in the spotlight of notoriety, we can at least claim a popularity among our schoolmates.

So it is with a long drawn wail of farewell that we step out on the sidewalks of New York, to pursue the ever elusive "something new and entirely different" and to keep a firm clutch on a position.

CLASS OFFICERS

RACHEL CONGDON, President
MARJORIE BARTER, Vice-President

HARRIET THAYER, Secretary
ALMA JACKSON, Treasurer

BARTER, MARJORIE

Marj

Ridge Road, Newport, R. I.

Class Vice-President, 1928-29; Paletteer Treasurer, 1927; Paletteer Representative, 1929.

A dainty cynic with a perfect attendance excluding "blue Monday" mornings. A firm belief in the "army and navy forever." "Still water runs deep."

CONGDON, RACHEL

Rae

33 Romeyn Ave., Amsterdam, N. Y.

Class President, 1927-29; Woman's Club Representative, 1928; Paletteer.

Non-committal, speed artist. Our popular girl with the contagious chuckle. She could give advice on how to be naughty and yet be nice. "Oh, I must go to lunch."

DREBER, ADELE

10234-88th Ave., Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Treasurer, 1928; Paletteer.

Good-natured, willing. Our much traveled friend, and class supply room. Woman of courage, she attacks oil painting.

JACKSON, ALMA

Jackie

210 W. 6th Ave., Roselle, N. J.

Class Treasurer, 1929; Tennis Champion of F. and A. A., 1927; Paletteers.

Blonde, graceful. Make way for our irresistible, daring, athlete. She could melt the heart of an Iron Horse with her angelic look. Our literary genius.

KOTLIK, ALBINA

Al

496 E. 174th St., Bronx, New York City

Prattonia Representative, 1929; Paletteer.

Chic, individual, nonchalant. The talent of our class. No doubt about her place in the big race. Partial to anemic and emaciated women, regardless of anatomy.

LEAMAN, EDITH

Edith

260 Hencock Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Paletteer.

Sophisticated, serious. The girl with the mysterious air. Our class beauty and representative from Hoboken.

PAUL, VIOLA

Vee

423 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tennis Tournament, 1927; Paletteer.

Petite, carefree. We don't see her often but we like her just the same. She has a Fool-Proof alibi and a permanent appointment in downtown Brooklyn.

PETRETTI, MARJORIE

Pe-det-try

206 Woodland Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

Paletteers Representative, 1928; Paletteer.

Temperamental, talented. Baffles us with her unaccountable trances. Has worn a beaten trail to the library. Watch for the little girl in the coming years; with her good nature she's bound to succeed.

ROSNER, TERESA

Terry

94 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1928; Woman's Club Representative, 1929; Paletteer.

Intriguing, piquant. A bit of peppy, flaming youth of irresistible giggle and dancing feet. She's up and coming in every class; a knowing futurist.

SMITH, ALDA

Billy

12 Gerard St., Patchogue, L. I., N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1927; Paletteer.

Red Hair, spontaneous wit. Popular? Why ask? Our sweet, simple home girl. Everything's all "Pat" now.

THAYER, HARRIET

Hattie

150 Brompton Road, Garden City, L. I., N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1929; Paletteer.

Feminine, clever. A good sense of humor with a wee-bit of obstinance. One of our famous Long Islandites.

COSTUME ILLUSTRATION, 1930

DOWN around the corner, where the racket is the best,
 You're bound to find a bunch of girls, chok full of pep and zest.
 We had the reputation of being raw and new
 But you should see us now, my dear,
 I mean it, I actually do.

A teacher told us all one day, we'd be a handsome class,
 And now, if you'd investigate, you'd find it's come to pass.
 For we've gained the reputation of a bold adventurous crew
 And you should watch us now, my dear,
 I mean it, I actually do.

We've got a public pencil and a public paint brush too,
 And we borrow Joyce's blotter and Louise's Prussian blue.
 We're not supposed to even own the tiniest, littlest few.
 Why, you should see us borrow once
 I mean we actually do.

Down around the corner, where the noisy racket swirls,
 You're sure to find the noise all comes from a bunch of Costume girls.
 We've got the reputation now of being unsubdued.
 I'd like to see you beat our noise.
 I mean it, I actually do.

But we've really got one secret, that we haven't quite revealed,
 The presence of a man in class, heretofore concealed.
 So you've learned the choicest bits of Costume Illustrations II.
 And I'd like to see you beat this class.
 I mean it, I actually do.

COSTUME ILLUSTRATION, 1931

THE editors of Harper's Bazaar and Vogue may cease to worry over the future of their magazines, since the Costume 1931 class has started its career. In a scant three years we shall be prepared to step to the foreground and carry on their work.

The brilliant and talented young ladies of our class are fitting themselves for this work in the most perfect manner possible. We work hard while we work; and there is no secret of Costume Illustration that is not hauled out and consigned to the depths of our eager minds.

Under the guidance of Miss Everest, Miss Herrick, Miss Hanks, and Miss White, the class is working steadily onward toward success for each and every member, both in school and out.

We play while we play—and how we play! Be assured, whenever you see a gay young artist (feminine) having a gay young time, she is a Costume I girl!

We've entered Pratt in the best of spirits and hope to continue as we've started.

DESIGN, 1929

IT WAS three years ago that we first came to Pratt, thirty wide-eyed youngsters. How time has changed us! We are no longer wide-eyed children, (Don't misunderstand—'tis the midnight oil we have burned) but young men and women on the threshold of life's adventures. We have lost some of our classmates due to the great god Eros, but have gained an almost equal number.

The first eventful year at Pratt went by on wings of cut paper and rubber cement. We experienced our first exhibition and felt properly awed. Our second year was a gala one, for it proved we were dramatic as well as artistic. Ho, hum! Our three plays were worked and worried over until finally presented amid much acclaim. This third year has been most eventful. We had just settled down to a routine of work when one of our fair members decided to desert us for a life more domestic. We donned our best smocks and proceeded to give the young couple a send-off worthy of our class. The design yearlings were entertained with a party and dance early in October. The dramatic talent of the class was once again in evidence in this season's success, "The Chinese Lantern." The settings for the play were executed by our young scenic artist, Edwin Westlake. This year many visits to furniture and fabric houses have broadened our knowledge of the business world we expect to enter and to sit up and take notice. It is to laugh!

We have spent three of our happiest years in these halls of learning. We take this opportunity to thank the trustees, instructors, and especially Mr. Phillip Pratt for all that has been done to light the way. In two years' time we expect to hold a reunion and reclaim the friendships and comradery we have so enjoyed at Pratt. Voila!

APPLEYARD, ISABELLA E.

Izzy

323 Price Street, Jamestown, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29.

Our blonde-headed "Izzy" is one of the remaining few who says little and conscientiously goes her own way, ignoring our blase inanities.

BENNETT, LILIAN I.

Lil

109-24-111th St., Richmond Hill, L. I.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Class Hockey, 1928; Baseball, 1927; Volley Ball, 1927; Paletteers' Circus; Three plays; Prattonia Representative, 1929.

Our former Lil of few words and short hair has now switched to long tresses and cultivates curls. No class babble flourishes or is complete without her.

BOCKMAN, GEORGE H.

Chorgie

784 Ely Ave., Astoria, N. Y.

"Don't dearie me, ya huzzy!" became famous with George's advent into our midst. A connoisseur of Broadway's musical comedy gems, whose weakness for Beatrice Lillie is getting serious. Good-bye, now!

BRODIE, S. PAUL

Steve

319 Glen Ave., Scotia, N. Y.

Class President, 1926-27; Artsmen Representative, 1926-27; Prattonia, 1927-28; Three plays; Student Council, 1926; "Black and Gold Tunsmiths," 1927-28-29.

Paul brightens our dull hours with Scotch jokes, a natural Irish wit and plaintive warbling.

BROWN, PRESCOTT L.

P. B.

224 Wooster St., New Britain, Conn.

A Chi Phi from Amherst. "P. B." is the song-and-dance man of the class, who provides color and entertainment for the faculty. The Lost and Found Department of Design III.

PRATTONIA

BROWNE, GEORGE ANTHONY

Brownie

937 E. 37th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen, 1927-28-29; Secretary Artsmen, 1927-28; Vice-President Artsmen, 1928-29; Class Treasurer, 1928-29; Three Plays; "Carmelita," "Chinese Lantern."

No social occasion is ever complete without Brownie and his clowning to help make merry—but why emulate the Sons of David?

BURR, A. BERYLE

Berly

St. James, L. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1926; Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Women's Club Representative, 1927; Three Plays, 1927.

A general borrowing center for the class—specializing in tracing paper. We wonder if her foot or her heart calls for an Arch support!

CAUSEY, ANNABEL SHEPARD

405 S. Mendenhall St., Greensboro, N. C.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Class Secretary and Treasurer, 1927; Class Vice-President, 1928; Three Plays, 1928.

At the very height of the opera season our prima donna deserted us. Cause-y loved her. Wedding bells rang out and we were left with only memories of a versatile personality.

CHENOWETH, ELLEN M.

Cheny

8 Russell Ave., Nutley, N. J.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays, 1927; Circus, 1927; Baseball, 1927; Tennis Singles Championship, 1928.

In size Cheny resembles the tiniest tot but judging from her capacity for absorbing Pratt gossip, she's a heap big girl. It seems there is a Frank—'nuff sed!

COOK, CHARLES F.

Cookie

Monroe Ave., Cresskill, N. J.

Class President, 1927-28; Scenic Director Three Plays; Treasurer Artsmen, 1928-29; Student Council, 1927-28.

All life is art to an artist. Not content within the boundaries of decoration. Cookie has wandered into the realm of psychology and philosophy to emerge with a new sophistication.

COSTELLO, MARGARET M.

Peg

1745 E. 8th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1926-27-28; Three Plays; "Carmelita"; Circus, 1927; President Fencing Club, 1929; "Chinese Lantern"; Tennis, Baseball, Hockey, Basketball.

Peg—the Perfect Maud. Subject to spasmodic giggles. Quick and adept with the foil.

DAVIDSON, NORMA E.

Normi

1565 New York Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

President Jewelry, 1926; Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays; Basketball, 1928.

Persian Rug—Tales of Alsace-Lorraine—I must have that Man—Speaking of arguments, Norma believes there is always room for one more.

DU MOND, ELISABETH VINCENT

Betty

Lyme, Conn.

Class Secretary and Treasurer, 1927-28; Three Plays; Women's Club Representative, 1929; Paletteers, 1927-28-29.

Possessing a degree of sophistication and independent spirit, Betty will saunter through life as she has these halls of Pratt, with poise and dignity.

HEATH, CHARLES EDWIN

Charlie

2520 Webb Ave., New York City

Artsmen, 1927-28-29; Three Plays.

You'll find that Charles always agrees. He does extraordinarily neat work—he admits it. We envy him his complacency.

HENRY, RAYMOND C.

Ray

75 Eagle St., Troy, N. Y.

Admirer of John Philip Sousa and Troy. We can always depend on Ray to strike up a martial tune at unexpected moments and to complain of the inadequate facilities for student housecleaning.

HOLMGREN, HERBERT W.

Herbie

1169-82nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Three Plays; Artsmen, 1927-28-29; Artsmen Baseball, 1927-28; Artsmen Pool, 1927-28.

Another Son of David. We forgive him his neckties and humor because he is obliging, strives to please, and possesses a voice more than merely fair.

KINNE, BURTON W.

Bert

939 W. Main St., New Britain, Conn.

Humming "Let's Do It" with much fervor, Beau Brummei proceeds with his work, careful not to disturb a well placed wave. May his diet ever be Chow Mein!

MacLEAN, RUTH

Ruth

7108-7th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays.

Once upon a time there was a very nice little girl always dressed in blue, whose name was Ruth, or was it Woofus? This little girl had such a weak little voice and blushed so beautifully that we really can't berate her.

McGARRAHAN, CHARLES B.

Mac

870 Emmett St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Artsmen, 1927-28-29; "Carmelita"; Three Plays; Men's Club Representative, 1927.

Static from Schenectady. Mac, after persistent effort, has perfected his whistling. The drama and the arts hold an equal lure for Dudley's papa.

McLAUGHLIN, MARION S.

Mac

Marion Apts. Franklin St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays; Circus; Hockey; Baseball; "Carmelita."

Mac is a firm believer in all vo-do-deo-ism, hey, hey, whoopee, boom boom-boom, and all such. We will never forget Wilkes-Barre—she won't let us.

McMILLAN, A. CALDWELL

Bo

569 Senator St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen, 1927-28-29; Junior Varsity Tennis, 1926; Varsity Tennis, 1927-28; Chairman of Three Plays Committee, 1928.

Privileged indeed is he (or she) who rates a ride in Bo's Chrysler roadster. John Barrymore, look to your title!

MATTHEWS, ALICE M.

Alice

9022-172nd St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays; Champion Volley Ball Team.

The neatest girl in '29 as to coiffure and to clothes. Mention camp to Alice and from then on don't worry about the conversation.

NAPIER, HARVEY L.

Harvey

429 Colvin Pkwy., Buffalo, N. Y.

Artsmen, 1927-28-29; Three Plays.

Happy Harvey—the Titian Snake charmer! Music hath charms to sooth the savage breast. We recommend oatmeal.

SCHULGASSER, MILTON

Milt

1490 Bryant Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Artsmen, 1927-28-29; Publicity Manager; Three Plays; Fencing.

The—ahem! Interior Decorator from the Bronx. His heavy line catches many fish. An exponent of the ultra-modern trend in art.

SHUFELT, VIRGINIA E.

Ginnie

295 Clinton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays; "Carmelita"; Baseball; Hockey.

One just naturally admires Ginnie. We like her smile and idealistic theories. Her vague meanderings from locker to desk and her lapses into meditation intrigue us.

PRATTONIA

THOMSON, MARGARET L.

Margaret

414 Bergen St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays

A prim mid-Victorian girl in this age of jazz. You really can't get Margaret excited and as for getting her into an argument it is quite impossible.

WATKINS, KATHERINE G.

Kitty

468 Myrtle Ave., Flushing, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1929; Volley Ball, 1927; Baseball, 1927; Swimming, 1928; Circus; "Carmelita"; Three Plays; Paletteers, 1927-28-29.

Kitty is nimble with her tongue and numble with her toes, but she does worry about corpulence. Famous for her pantomime and her Santa Claus role.

WESTLAKE, C. EDWIN

Eddie

133 Wayne Ave., Suffern, N. Y.

Class President, 1928-29; Artsmen Representative, 1927-28; Three Plays; Student Council, 1928-29; Secretary Art's Fund Association, 1928-29.

Robert Benchley's protege and Pratt's Joseph Urban. Trickster—punster—songster—smart sidewalk chatter a specialty. Our most Reverent High Exalted Potentate is worthy of his title.

ZADRIL, CATHERINE C.

Catherine

Roslyn, L. I.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Three Plays.

Catherine has retained her youthful looks, calm disposition, and reticence even after three years at Pratt. Her love for things domestic and "I was ill, Miss Everest" are traditions.

PRATTONIA 29

DESIGN, 1930

OUR class, it seems, has become sadly depleted of the stronger sex during the transition of the past two years. Some have forsaken their art for the worldly and others have changed their course, abandoning the innumerable opportunities which association with us afforded them. At present "the men of the class" number only four and are proportionally outnumbered five times by the gentle gender.

During the first term of the year we cooperated with the third year Design class in giving a "welcome" tea-dance to the first year people of our course. Later in the year they responded with a "thank you" dance in return.

Beatrice Cursons, secretary of our class, was honored by receiving the Design course scholarship last year.

W. B. Donnelley, class president, played the role of Josi-Mori, Chinese-Jewish rag peddler in the Art Student Fund Association's annual dramatic presentation "The Chinese Lantern."

In conclusion it might be mentioned that our class has tended towards a musical event since its return to school, the cause of which is more or less a mystery. Especially during the holiday season its private and unsolicited caroling was a source alternately of pride and consternation to passing instructors.

More than that we cannot say.

DESIGN 1931

SEPTEMBER came along and so did we—with grand ideas and visions of our name in bright lights on Fifth Avenue by the time we graduated. Of course we were mistaken, and now we find the road hard to plod along but then—we're young and we've plenty of time.

The Everglades of Florida sent us one bright little boy, while the wilds of New England sent prim little maidens. Great sections of the West offered some handsome, cornfed youngsters; while we upstarters from New York never fail to appear and help our section along. Brooklyn and Long Island also had brilliant cherubs, which they were glad to offer to the class of 1931.

The great and mighty Juniors and proud Seniors came to the aid of the shy little Freshmen, by giving us an acquaintance dance. It wasn't long after that until we too felt that we were a part of this grand school.

As we are only Freshmen our social activities haven't been what they will be. Christmas came and went and so did we. To top off the holiday spirit, we returned the good deed of our upper-classmen by giving them a dance.

With only half of the school term over, it's hard to say how this unusual Design class will turn out. We're just green freshmen now, but watch our dust for the next two years and congratulate us when we are strong and mighty Seniors setting forth to conquer the world.

GENERAL ART, 1929

SO THE dictionary says—"History—a written narrative of events; a tale; a story." We'll put particular stress upon the word "story."

A period of time might better elapse before such an account were written. If this were the case, in one short year we would find that we had forgotten so much of what now seems important that we would wonder at the gross stupidity of ourselves as undergraduates.

We would find, perhaps, that a well remembered vista of Ryerson Street, a blurred vision of a revered professor, a vivid week-end, or some irrelevant but hard-won bit of knowledge would stand out sharply etched against the background of three years of college.

I

The Freshman class required about five days at Pratt before its members felt thoroughly conversant with affairs and took on that expression of savoir faire, which denotes they have looked over the "promised land" and found it satisfactory and have the rest of the first year to get over it.

II

Fall meant the return of most of the members of the class with a real swagger—the year in which we all felt blissful—we knew more than most of the artists of the day.

III

The next fall finds fewer of us back, and meek is no name for us—think we all understand what the cold world means—even though we are confident of ourselves due to our exacting training.

College Life is a precious but intangible thing. We come; we abide our little time; we receive our imitation parchment; we pass on.

Thus endeth the senior year.

BERMAN, SAMUEL F.

Sam

848 Albany Ave., Hartford, Conn.

Class Treasurer, 1927; Artsmen Representative, 1928.

Sam will soon land bigger jobs than the "Hartford Courant." Someday his drawings will startle the world—and settle Darwinian arguments forever.

BLINN, ROBERT W.

Bob

846 Herkimer St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Soccer, 1928-29; Basketball, 1927.

Artsmen bellhop, always ready to give the other boys a tip—exclusive inventor of the "Wobbly Walk."

CUNNINGHAM, GERARD J.

Jerry

351 Beach 69th St., Arverne, N. Y.

The class gift to the brokerage and loan business—"Bob, have you a kneaded eraser?" A boy with a sense to avail every opportunity to make money.

DUTTON, WILLARD L.

Bill

3817 Ave. I, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Elsie

705-60th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Golden silence" is rare in a mirthful class, but solitude creates achievement in great measure. Incidentally, the youngest in the class.

KUNKLE, JOHN

Johnny

Boonville, N. Y.

Art Baseball, 1927-28-29.

A bundle of energy with creative and consistent results, the issue of untiring labors.

LANDE, ROSE FRANCINE

Rose

401 Miller Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Captain Volley Ball, 1927.

This lady will undoubtedly have a studio in Greenwich Village, and then we will appreciate "Rose of Washington Square."

LASHER, ELMER R.

Lasher

15 High St., Newburgh, N. Y.

A clear sky of talent waiting for the dawn of execution. The Highlands' contribution to Pratt social life.

LIPPOLD, GRACE

Gracie

650 E. 21st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

And so ushers in the modern movement of the class of 1929. A charming personality overflowing with a keen aesthetic sense for fine quality and treatment in connection with all futuristic achievement.

LOUGHRY, ALFRED E.

Al

829 S. Lake St., Boyne City, Mich.

Absolute "Go-Getter" with Old Man Experience at his finger tips. Persistency and work will warrant his success.

MacDONALD, NATALIE B.

Natalie

Kernstown, Va.

Women's Club Representative, 1929.

A placid girl with a complex for mauve—that is, just “Pink trying to be purple”—but pink is so beautiful.

MacMINIGAL, DANIEL D.

Mac

49 Hawthorne St., Hartford, Conn.

Varsity Basketball, 1927-28-29; Varsity Baseball, 1927-28-29; Class Baseball, 1927.

A great draftsman, a greater athlete, and the greatest dispenser of witty idioms. A premature art critic with an eager outlook to realize his critical maturity.

MAGID, JEAN N.

Jean

1567 E. 7th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball, 1927; Volley Ball, 1927-28.

An impulsive young lady willing to experiment with any picture, ruin it or not.

MAREIN, EDMUND

Ed

10 Argyle Park, Buffalo, N. Y.

Profound in thought, thorough in execution. A remarkable genius in the field of argumentation and theoretical debate; founding a strong point and bound to prove it.

MARINSKY, HARRY

Harry

22 Kipling St., Providence, R. I.

Art Editor Prattonia, 1929

A devoted believer in the Ford system of of gross production. And with the girls, his popularity can never be surpassed.

McKEAN, EMMA C.

Em

6716 Ridge Blvd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A professional young woman both artistically and transcriptionally—her reverse writing is just adorably accurate.

MICHAELS, JESSIE A.

Jam

504 Hemlock St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

All the mystery of the Nile and the solitude of the Sphinx. You can't fail to recognize Jessie as she glides through the halls of learning, disguised like "Friar Tuck."

MITHOEFER, MARTHA P.

Martha

2115 Alpine Place, Cincinnati, Ohio

Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1929.

Personality plus a loving nature. What wordly greatness these characteristics shall profit thee. A girl out of the West, where men are men and women love to draw them.

MULCAHY, JOSEPH A.

Joe

305 Pultney St., Geneva, N. Y.

Artsmen Representative, 1927-28; Artsmen Education Committee Chairman, 1928-29; Class President, 1929.

Individuality and business-like procession are great assets. "Brass-Tacks Joe" is fortunated for success. When we want something done, we leave it to Joe—It's done.

NERNOFF, JOHN

Slocum

P. O. Box 43, Glen Head, N. Y.

John is our cave man, always applying his roving trait to paint. He'll be present for graduation.

OSTMAN, LAURA E.

Laura

88 Tehama St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

An elusive little girl, who comes from an old artistic family and impresses one by her serious attitude and marvelous color sense.

PHELPS, NORMAN B.

Norman

Goodhue St., Addison, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1927-28-29.

A great fellow and a real sport from the great outdoors—since the swimming pool has been open we've discovered he is the human fish of the Artsmen.

PHILPOT, SAMUEL H.

Philpot

1509 N. Eden St., Baltimore, Md.

A sincere student of intense brain work and serious thought; a grave nature with a thorough attitude toward his work.

PIETROLEWICZ, EDWARD A.

Piet

306 Jackson Ave., Long Island City, N. Y.

Bowling Team, 1927.

Our railroad magnate with a good line. All information about railroad time tables, club cars, Pullmans, and baggage cheerfully distributed—"All aboard."

PINELES, CIPE

Cipe

943 Carroll St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1927; Class President, 1928.

The most remarkable water colorist in our class. Boys, it's too late; Cipe is wedded to her art—and they're both happy.

ROEDER, CALVIN AMES

Cal

166 Franklyn Place, Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

Art Soccer, 1927-28-29; Captain Soccer, 1928; Art Baseball, 1928; Duck Pins, 1927; Artsmen Dance Committee, 1927; Artsmen Representative, 1929; Artsmen Education Committee, 1929; Prattonia Representative, 1929.

A dynamic force from Flushing, whose work and play show equal dexterity.

SALMON, JAMES P.

Jimmie

12 Henry Ave., Newburgh, N. Y.

Orchestra Leader, 1927-28-29; Artsmen Men's Club Representative, 1927; Artsmen Representative, 1927-28.

A veritable genius and a versatile artist, with a remarkable tendency toward portrait. Our exponent of "Rhapsody in Blue" and practitioner of classical jazz.

SCHWEINSBERGER, FRANK A.

Frankie

108 St. Nicholas Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Art Baseball, 1927-28-29; Art Soccer, 1927-28-29; Art Tennis, 1928.

Frank is the "snappy comeback" boy, very famous for his wise cracks. Official gloom chaser and riot maker of the class. His sincerity to his work will outlive his attempt at humor.

SHAILER, JOHN L.

Jake

25 Brookside Circle, Bronxville, N. Y.

Art Baseball, 1927-28-29; Bowling, 1927.

Just one of the many "gag" men in the class—always ready with a witty presentation for the entertainment of his classmates.

SMACK, MARJORIE E.

Marge

144 St. James Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1927.

Talented, cheerful and sociable; with the boys, Marge tops them all—popularity, and we don't mean perhaps.

SPICER, FRANCES E.

Fran

61 Bay St., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1927-28; Paleteer Representative, 1928; Class Vice-President, 1929.

A decided supporter of modern and creative art; sponsored by a wealth of achievement and keen application assuring marvelous results.

STERN, LOUIS L.

Lou

210 Sunnyside Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our pen and ink specialist; one who is knocking at the door of individual styles. What Paris does for fashions, Lou will do for art.

SUSSLIN, GEORGE J.

Suss

1421 University Ave., New York City

Art Swimming, 1925; Art Basketball, 1925; Artsmen Education Committee, 1929.

An ambitious fellow, born with a pen in his right hand and a mustache on his upper lip. He needed the mustache to whimsically impersonate some of our instructors.

TSUNODA, CHIZU

Chizu

573 W. 192nd St., New York City

Chizu is our oriental beauty. Industrially and daintily she brings to our class all the charm of her native land.

VALENTINE, CHRISTIAN, JR.

Val

311 Cornelia St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

President Merlin Mystics, 1926; Vice-President Merlin Mystics, 1927; Secretary Fencing Club, 1927; Prattonia Representative, 1927; Chairman Artsmen Dance Committee, 1927; Treasurer Artsmen, 1928; Vice-President Fencing Club, 1928; President Artsmen, 1929.

Val is always seeking values.

VAN EYNHOVEN, EVELYN

Evey

478 Atlantic Ave., East Rockaway, L. I., N. Y.

Paletteer Representative, 1927; Basketball, 1928.

"When you do dance, I wish you a wave o' the sea that you might ever do nothing but that."

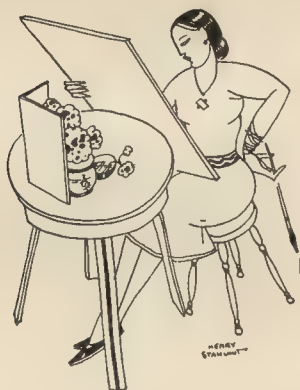

WALDMAN, MYRON

Waldman

1251-50th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Art Track Team, 1927.

He'll break into a newspaper with a comic strip yet. And that's nobody's business—a few more "New York Times" and you'll own the paper and have found that job.

GENERAL ART, 1930

LEGEND has it that many moons ago men came from the west, descended from the north, clambered up from the south, and walked over from the east, meeting at this great school to form the class '30.

Now see the class of '30! Rough edges have been smoothed by the gentle action of Time and by the artistic calisthenics of Our Instructors—not the polish and high shine of the Seniors, nor yet the angularity of the Freshmen—"The Golden Mean."

We have enjoyed our stay at Pratt. Achievement in classes has been a pleasure. "Think pattern." "Get the L. D. L." "Too mechanical." "Great, do it over." How familiar those phrases seem! Perhaps you, gentle reader, recall them.

Oh, Mr. Editor, no more room? Too bad. Well——

We hereby express gratitude to and pity for our instructors, who have been so instrumental in bringing about our present proud status.

"The Golden Mean," which means according to our historian (nameless forevermore)—"Just about Right."

GENERAL ART, 1931

A PICTURE no artist could paint—no, not even a senior in General Art. What picture?—That of the freshmen of the General Art class of '31 during the first few days of their so gallant debut at Pratt. Here's the picture as a writer would have sketched it. An interesting group of every specimen of human, from the farmer's over-grown giantlike son with a big black bow tie at his neck, to the snappy young lady with a "windblown" all wandering about the labyrinth of halls and classrooms comprising "Prattsies Collitch," trying hard not to look to "fresh," but rather nonchalant and well acclimated.

After a year of "interesting edges," "Don't forget to put the still life away," "I'll give you three stars this time but after this your work must be in on time," "All clear, now, are we?" "La-la," "Now put in the L. D. L.," "To use the vernacular," and a firm belief in the adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," a somewhat different group of embryo artists survived.

We have also dipped into student activities, quite deeply. The girls' division won the hockey championship, and many of the boys have earned their Artsmen insignias. Then, too, we tendered a dance to the second year class and we also were well represented in the school play!

In other words, we're true Prattonians—"Prattmen born and Prattmen bred!"

NORMAL ART, 1929

JUST three short years ago we entered these portals, fresh from high school, where we were men and women, only to learn that we were Freshies again.

However, by now we have become so used to the curriculum and the new director that we just hate to leave.

At the beginning of our Junior year, a Credit class brought us cheer. The "Regulars" initiated the "Credits" with the famous masked ball. They, in turn, reciprocated, and we entered our Senior year as one great fun-loving class. They told us when we entered that we would be "matured teachers" when we received our diplomas. We wonder what they meant by that. Shall we join the corps of the typical "school-marm?"

We have never lacked for something to keep us out of mischief, and probably never shall. Who ever saw a drawing teacher idle?

The Normal students have proved their worth by being represented in every activity in the Art School. No play or social is complete without their participation.

When we entered, we surely did think that an art school was a place for a rollicking, good time. We've kept that idea, but tempered it with the knowledge that work must be done and done well—in the Pratt Institute manner, you know.

To our fellow students and undergraduates, we wish the best of luck, and may they continue to be as happy in their work and with their instructors as we were.

We, the Class of 1929, wish to thank our new director, Mr. Boudreau, our former director, Mr. Perry, our supervisor, Miss Hyde, and all of our instructors and friends, for their guidance and kindness to us.

Au revoir! Alma Mater.

Comes from "Down on the Farm," but she has grown up this year.

BLAKESLEE, HELEN M.

Helen

111 Fremont Ave., Kenmore, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1928-29; Fencing, 1928-29; Baseball, 1928; Basketball, 1928.

"Aren't they just too cu-ute?" We wonder if she will concentrate under trying circumstances if she repeats her story a few more times. A dandy sport.

BLECKA, LUDMULLA F.

Lydia

473-8th Ave., Astoria, L. I., N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29.

She is proud, stately, and fair, with her feet on the ground, yet seemingly treading air. A lovely girl.

BRAUER, CAROLINE

Carrie

122 Bay 26th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; New York Ceramic Exhibition, 1928; Hockey, 1928; Baseball, 1927.

We are never at a loss for entertainment when Carrie is around. She surely can play and "tap."

BRENNESHOLTZ, SALOME C.

Sally

283 Glenwood Ave., East Orange, N. J.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29. Women's Club Treasurer, 1928. Volley Ball, 1927-28.

Where'd she get that name? She's not at all like the original! An awfully nice girl.

BROWN, HAZEL J.

Janet

208 W. 82nd St., New York City

Paletteers, 1928-29; Basketball, 1928-29; Baseball, 1928.

One of the original Girl Scouts. Too bad her "yaller" smock grew dim. She gets good training bringing up the young sister.

BUHSEN, GERTRUDE V.

Gertrude

19 Woodruff Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Basketball and Tennis, 1927; Captain Hockey and Baseball, 1928.

The Sunshine of "Sunshine Alley," dark, attractive, and humorous too.

CAHAN, JEAN R.

Jean

1014 Eastern Pkwy., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1927; Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Volley Ball, 1928.

Jean is curly-haired and attractive. Some day she will be famed as a costume designer.

CASWELL, GERTRUDE B.

Gertchie

1 Bellevue Ave., Illion, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29.

She's like a violet—modest and meek.

CHAPPELL, RUSSELL N.

Rus

338 Stanley Ave., Staten Island, N. Y.

Class President, 1928; Interclass Track Team, 1928; Interclass Bowling Team, 1928; Interclass Soccer Team, 1928; Assistant Varsity Cheer Leader, 1928; Cheer Leader, 1928; Artsmen, 1928-29.

Lost his playful attitude this year. Aha! the secret leaked out!

CLAPP, DOROTHY A.

Dot

56 Walbrooke Ave., West New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Volley Ball, 1928; Fencing, 1928; "Carmelita," 1928.,

Dot's weakness is hats—large and small. We'll admit though she's cute in them all. Guess we can tease, too!

CORRIGAN, ELIZABETH ROYLE

Betty

117 Wallace Ave., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Chairman Lecture Committee, 1928; President Paletteers, 1929; Hockey, 1928; Baseball, 1927; Usher at "Chinese Lantern," 1929.

We always know when Betty is around—she's always singing. We wonder why she picks on Gladys in the lunch room. Some snappy water color technique.

DIXON, CLARICE BELL

Dixie

11 Clarke St., Newport, R. I.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Baseball, 1927; Social Committee of Class, 1929.

Dixie, our little tease from Newport—She might look like a teacher but—. She's a dandy sport.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Baseball, 1927-28; Basketball, 1928; Hockey, 1928.

"Ginny"—cheerful, witty, and kind, who has a smile for every one. She "travels" for her education.

FALLICA, ANGELINA R.

Angie

45-6th Ave., New York City

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Volley Ball, 1928.

Weaving and crafts are the aims of our black-eyed Angie.

FEDERMAN, KATHRYN

Kay

839 West End Ave., New York City

Paletteers, 1928-29; Volley Ball, 1928.

"Miss Magenta" does nice work. We admire "the perfect brunette." Should stop teasing Lillian.

FRENCH, VIRGINIA ANN

Jean

546 W. Walnut St., Long Beach, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1928-29; Secretary "Chinese Lantern," 1929; Class Secretary, 1929; Fencing, 1928.

Her reputation was s. s. and g. until a certain interpretation of an Egyptian dance! A future wood carver (?).

GLABERSON, GRACE

Grace

2401 Avenue I, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Volley Ball Captain, 1927-28.

She's "Carrie's" other half. We'll probably hear from them behind the footlights. Another of our water colorists.

GLEAES, JEAN MAURINE

Jean

Baxter, Iowa

Paletteers, 1928-29; "Carmelita," 1928; Women's Club Representative, 1929; Assistant Saturday Morning Classes, 1928.

One of those girls who stayed in a fog, we wonder about those Boston trips. Will make a good teacher.

GOODNOUGH, JEAN C.

Bug

932 W. 8th St., Erie, Pa.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Representative, 1929; Volley Ball, 1928.

Jean works in metals but believes in stones. A craftsman!

GOULD, MARJORIE

Midge

56 Depew Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Buffalo Club, 1929.

She may be mechanically inclined but she doesn't act mechanically on all occasions. She's just "chuck full of life," and one of our nicest girls.

HAIGHT, MARY A.

Mary

1189 Bergen St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1928-29; Basketball, 1928; "Carmelita," 1928; "Chinese Lantern," 1929.

Class dramatist; Can pose for anything from a nun to a lantern. So enthusiastic when certain people are around.

HALPIN, ELAINE C.

Ella

314-A-15th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1928; Baseball, 1927-28; Hockey, 1928; Prattonia Representative, 1929; New York Ceramic Exhibition, 1928-29.

Not tall, not small, but has more talent and dignity than one twice her size. A future sculptor.

PRATTONIA

HELFRICH, VIOLA A.

Viola

514 Scranton Ave., Lynbrook, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1928-29; Class Vice-President, 1928; Directed dancing in "Carmelita." Designed costumes for "Carmelita" and "Chinese Lantern."

Her second sojourn at Pratt; the third will be to take the homemakers' course—Gardon-lore, rose trees, and stones.

HYDE, SYLVIA

Sylvia

334 Lincoln Ave., Palo Alto, Cal.

Paletteers, 1928-29; Basket Ball, 1928.

"Well, what do you want to do that for?" She and Ruby have many discussions as to whether or not we will have a warm or cool room.

JACOBSON, LOUIS

Lou

83 Madison St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Chairman Social Activity Artsmen, 1929; Varsity Track, 1927; Artsmen Championship Track Team, 1927; Artsmen Cheer Leader, 1927-28-29; Prattonia Representative, 1927-28; Artsmen Class Representative, 1928-29; Chairman Buffalo Club, 1929; Merlin Mystic Social Vice-President, 1927-28, and Secretary, 1929.

Our Master of tricks and fun.

JACOBS, LILLIE

Lil

1296 Sheridan Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Hockey, 1928; Volley Ball, 1927.

She's imported—she's from the Bronx. She also weaves coats, but remember, Lil, they're wearing them longer now!

JERSEY, FRANCES M.

Fran

646 St. Marks Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fencing, 1927; Volley Ball, 1927-28; "Carmelita," 1928; Usher "Chinese Lantern," 1929; Paletteers, 1927-28-29; Secretary, 1929; Class Vice-President, 1929.

Sincere in her work and a friend we're proud to know.

Where'd you get those eyes—those nose, those—or what have you? "Last but not least."

NORMAL ART—REGULAR, 1930

THIRTY-TWO strong we entered Pratt,—just one of these really quiet, energetic classes and still (from all reports) going strong. We were very young, we thirty-two, back in that fall of '27. Our innocent blue eyes were opened wide and bright by the charms and advantages of Pratt Institute. Then it was to us an institute of higher learning, a place to develop ourselves and prepare us for life. Now it is our Alma Mater—Our Alma Mater of love and esteem.

Folks spoke of us as Freshmen; we were known for our clever work and attractive girls. All corners of the U. S. A. were represented, particularly California, Maine, and Alabama, to say nothing of New Jersey and New York.

As Juniors we are getting on famously and feel that we are well known about the school for one good (?) reason or another. When a class—a Normal class—presents the school with a basketball captain it deserves a little attention.

For all that we hope to be, we sincerely thank our instructors. To Miss Smith especially do we bow in esteem. To Miss Hyde, our friend and supervisor, we pay our greatest homage in appreciation of her kindness. We feel exceptionally fortunate for having had Mr. Perry as our director for a year. To his successor, Mr Boudreau, we extend our welcome. May his stay at Pratt Institute be a long and successful one.

NORMAL ART—CREDIT, 1930

THERE were, once upon a time, some very happy students who caused much wonderment, in people who met them, by their merry spirits. These students were always busy and bore themselves with a great deal of pride.

After all this is not a fairy tale. It is the very pleasant truth. We are those students—the Normal Junior Credit class which gathered in the fall of 1928 with the intention of training ourselves so that we might become teachers. We have progressed toward our goal, slowly at certain periods and sometimes with faster steps. The splendid guidance and co-operative interest of our instructors has always helped us over the difficult places and around the obstacles, which might have become severe handicaps.

We look forward to our senior year with pleasure. We feel, however, that our mettle has been tried in the past year. Many different personalities gathered to make up this class. Some came from college, some from normal school, others had been teaching, and a good number had been members of the General Art and Design classes, from which they transferred. Each and every one has tried to be honest to their work and to the traditions of Pratt. We believe that this refining effort, together with the carefully planned course which we undertook, has developed a stronger character and a wider and more liberal viewpoint in each of us.

In the next Prattonia we shall be saying, "Au revoir." In this we are saying that the year has been well spent.

NORMAL ART, 1931

(According to our log)

THE good ole tug Progress hove into Pratt as per schedule with its full quota of enthusiastic, jabbering Freshmen. Valueless cargo, from the seven seas, for our noble Captain Miss Hyde to sort out and model into capable teachers. As sailors we weren't old salts, but the way we conquered the entrance geometry exam showed our mental facilities. The other tests?—"Dunt esk."

As the ship progressed no one fell overboard, got seasick, homesick, or tried to drown. Many storms were encountered and, as report time approached, fear for the general safety was expressed. However, General Order was reinstated and Commodore Athletics were introduced. (Log book page 177, fifth line down, notice 1342.) Our Girls' Interclass Basketball team emerged victorious. Several underwent the course in fencing and the others resorted to a daily tear up five flights when "Jimmie" was so thoughtless as to have the elevator already filled. Our seven male members weathered the trip nicely,—three emerging class officers, two cheer leaders, and one making a varsity team.

Concerning our social activities much could be said. The benevolent and very thoughtful Juniors gave us a tea. With our life-savers and water-wings we ambulated up four flights of stairs and were received by the charming hostess, Miss Edna Weeks. The tea, cakes, and sandwiches were delectable. Many thanks! The equally kind Seniors surprised us with a novel Advertisement Dance. We liked that too. The next outstanding event of our first term was a Christmas surprise party given with the assistance of Mrs. Allen. (Her lollipops were just too sweet for words.) The boys—pardon me, young men provided a huge grab-bag, and then the fun began. Toy guns, dolls, games, alligators, art books, Santa socks and what-nots created a real holiday atmosphere. After the Christmas celebrations we set out with resolutions to work and succeed. Now watch our marks and work improve as the year rolls by.

(Read the next issued for further information concerning the antics of that noble class—Normal, '31.)

SOUL AND MIND

Come, soul and mind
Mingle and create.

Soul, let your waters be turned
To use by the mind,
Your fire tamed
Your inspiration caught
Your flight harnessed
Your joy told
Your sorrow wept for
Your essence expressed
By the mind.

Mind, intellect, gather your seeds
From the willing soul and be
The hand that executes
The pen that writes
The mold that forms
The portals that emit
The vessel that pours
The boat that bears
The essence of the soul.

Together join, and build,
Create, make forceful,
Bring to light and eyes of men
For sad is the soul that has no reader, and Woe unto the intellect devoid of its mate.

JEAN MAGID.

SCHOOL OF HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE AND ARTS

WHEN the founder, Charles Pratt, specified in the charter of the Institute that the work of this school should center around food, clothing and homemaking, he knew full well the necessity at all times of a thorough understanding of the physical fundamentals of living. Whereas the approach, technique and processes might and would differ as the years went by, yet the fundamentals would always remain. His vision was prophetic, for the School of Household Science and Arts is functioning today along these same lines; and the need of this work is far greater today than when the Institute was founded, for during this time the whole economic, social, and political status of women has changed.

It is also true that the approach, technique, and processes have changed with the years, for today we find the need of specific training along definite lines as dietitians, cafeteria and tea room managers, costume designers and dressmakers, as well as along the general lines of homemaking. Throughout all the work of the School through all the years has run the general theme which differentiates Pratt Institute from all other educational institutions—the balanced, intensive program of head, heart, and hand, whereby the student absorbs the ideals that ought and should make all education worth while and at the same time, by means of the intensive courses, receives a thorough, practical training in half the time spent in college.

DIETETICS, 1929

IN 1927 SIXTY-THREE young women took passage on S. S. "Dietetics" for a two years' cruise.

Emerging from a sea ranging from obscurity to semi-fame, the good ship finally landed with its bevy of knowledge-seekers at Port Pratt Institute. This having been agreed upon as a central meeting point, the passengers betook themselves upon various interesting side-trips.

Famous Mount Nutrition proved a steep climb, while the plains of Cookery afforded rest and refreshment. From the isle of Physiology unusual views of the surrounding world were obtained. The most fascinating item of the voyage led the passengers up Reagent River to the vast forest of Chemistry. Further information was gleaned by many excursions into other lands.

The summer of 1928 found the passengers dissatisfied with the climate of the port and led to a subsequent departure of each one in pursuit of items of individual interest during the summer months.

September, 1928! A group of eager enthusiasts met at the old rendezvous. Familiar places were revisited with renewed interest, old friends greeted at each port, united by a stronger bond of interest, old haunts made more pleasant by the voyage of the foregoing year.

Alas! the voyage draws to a close all too soon for many of us. Associations have endeared us to each other and to those with whom we have had daily contact. We go forth feeling enriched with knowledge, hoping to exemplify the noble truths that have been revealed to us.

Pratt Institute! Another class of dietitians bids you adieu.

DIETETICS, 1930

ON THAT memorable day of September 26, 1928, some sixty-six prospective dietitians entered Pratt's stately halls to seek knowledge and learning about the culinary art. They came from the Pacific Coast, the Gulf Coast, the Great Lakes region, and also from New England. The wheel of time will have its revolution again and we, now prospective dietitians, will be budding in a few years and spreading the good name of Pratt throughout our country and even the world. The accumulated knowledge will be invaluable to us and each will be grateful to her Alma Mater for a firm and reliable information.

Already our past is woven full of memories and the future spreads before us a splendid vista of opportunity. We have found true friends in each other, which tends to accompany class tranquility; and in our teachers we have found true helpers and benefactors. The Senior Dietitians, our "big sisters," have proved to be interested in our welfare. When we were ignorant as to the mechanism of our school schedule, they assisted us; and any conflicting problems met its fate as one of our "sisters" confronted it with us. We owe them our hearty thanks.

It is truly a joy to live, but a far greater joy to live life at its fullest; to take advantage of youth and of the opportunities in our school. We have been advised to "wring Pratt dry" and it is being done without difficulty. We learn and absorb knowledge unconsciously. The necessary class spirit is ever present and in that way we have had a successful, eventful history so far.

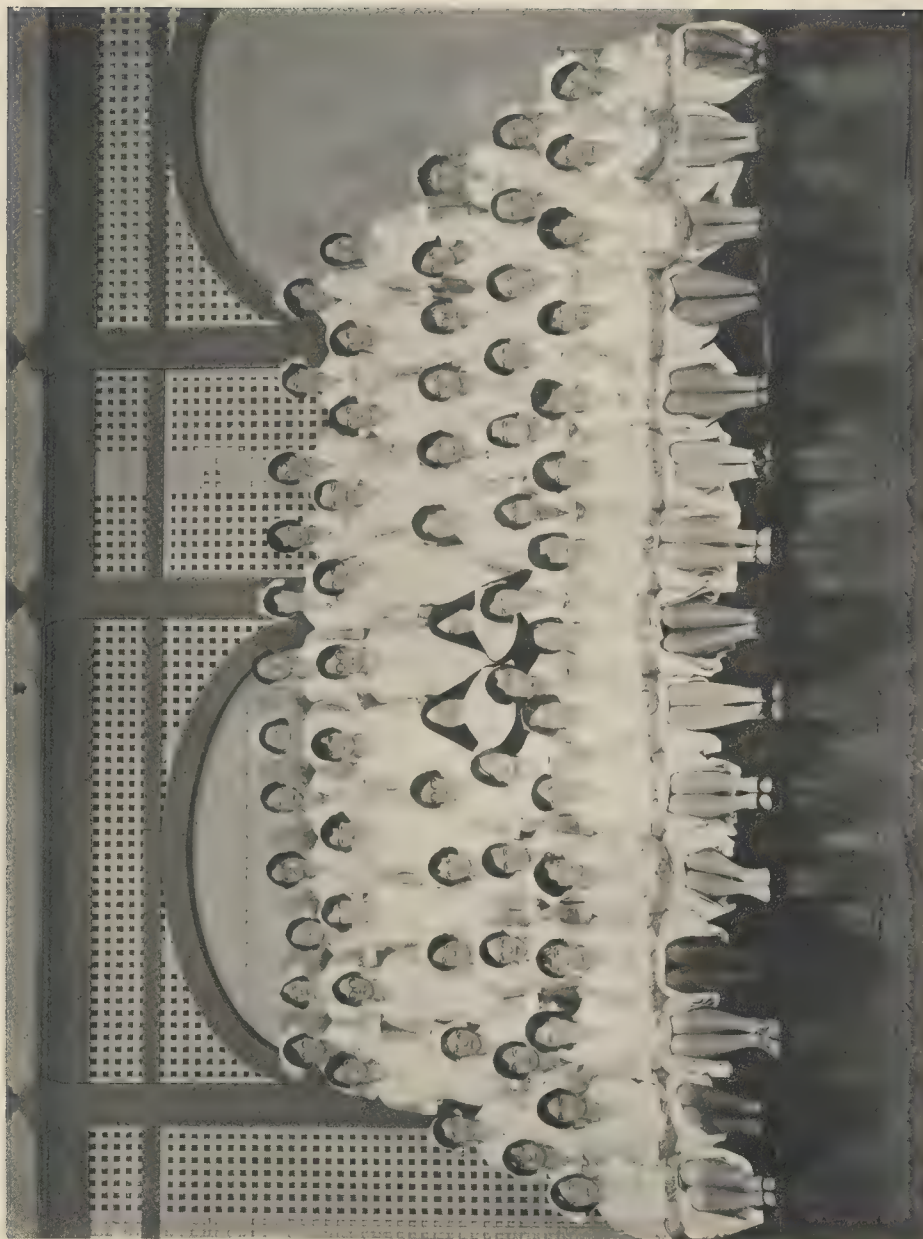

The past is gone, the future is not yet. The present with its duties and privileges particularly concerns us. May we open the door when opportunity knocks; and in being true to our work, our work will be true to us—thus reaping a cherished reward.

DRESS DESIGN, 1929

ALAS, we are about to leave behind us two years at Pratt. Two years never to be forgotten. We entered green, but now we all have that nonchalant air of an old Pratt student. We were forty strong, but two years can do things to a class of girls. Even though we are less in number we have put Dress Design where it never was before.

At times it seemed hopeless, but then there were the ever cheerful reminders that some day—we knew not when—there might spring from our group a “Paul Poiret,” or could it be possible—a “Mary MacKinnon”? After five-minute action poses we surely should be able to sketch most anything.

We have learned to snip, snip, snip; a pin, a couple more snips, a few more pins, adding a little Egyptian influence or even the lines of a Grecian battle-axe, and what a creation—on one of those five-minute action poses. Well, really, outside of some of this modern art, you’ll have to say that we are original in both our inspiration and execution. Had we added a lingerie touch at the neck and wrists, executed in embroidery designed from a tau, or an ankh, or even a pomegranate, you’d never recognize any one of the things—our whole course would be registered in that one amazingly original dress.

However, we do sincerely hope that we, the first of the two-year Dress Designers, have not failed too utterly in setting standards for the ones to follow. But, of course, we owe it to the instructors, who have been so patient and understanding, and also to Miss Kinney and Mr. Howe.

First it's Tom—then it's Dick—now it's Harry—soon it will be John.

MOLINARO, MARY

Mary

14-17 Lincoln St., Astoria, N. Y.

She is such a quiet little girl, we never hear a peep out of her, but we just know she is there, for Mary would never miss a day.

MORGAN, DORIS K.

Dode

19 W. Colfax Ave., Roselle Park, N. J.

Tennis, 1927; Hockey, 1928-29.

Doris? Yes, we just saw her coming up the street. Oh, those Jersey trains!

NOLTE, ELSIE R.

Elsie

521-12th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1927-28; Baseball, 1927-28; Secretary Artisans.

Always the last one to leave the building. Could it be she has an interest in the—Oh, surely not.

PIGNEY, DOROTHY

Dotty

461-22nd St. Drive, Portland, Ore.

If you are in doubt about the relationship between Dress Design and Architecture—Ask Dotty, she knows.

POLAK, DOROTHY H.

Dotty

5110-19th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1927-28; Swimming Meet, 1928.

Being nonchalant is Dotty's favorite pastime—also Jane.

POTTER, MARGUERITE

Rita

334 Evergreen Ave., East Lansing, Mich.

Class President, 1927; Baseball, 1927-28; Volley Ball, 1928-29.

Rita is from Michigan, in case you don't know. She's a real enthusiast and always willing to help, it matters not what the task may be.

REYNOLDS, MARJORIE BELL

Midjie

242 W. 135th St., New York City

Volley Ball, 1928-29.

A conscientious worker. A friend to all. Here's to your success, Marjorie.

ROGERS, ROSEMARY

Rosie

260 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1927-28; Captain Baseball, 1927-28; Publicity Chairman; Artisans, 1928-29.

Absolutely the peppiest little body in Pratt. We couldn't very well get along without "Our Rosie," now, could we?

SACKS, LIBBY

Sis

263 Beach 13th St., Far Rockaway, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1928-29; Baseball, 1927-28.

When Libby starts to giggle—well, need we say more?

SAMUEL, RUTH B.

Sammy

564 W. 160th St., New York City

Baseball, 1927-28; Swimming, 1928.

The only time Ruth is serious is just two days before a Fashion Show and then you should see her work.

SEARING, EDITH M.

Gertie

157 Arlington Ave., Hawthorne, N. J.

Home Economic Representative, 1927-28; Vice-President Neighborhood Association, 1928-29; Volley Ball, 1928-29.

There has been much dispute as to what course Edith is taking. Dress Design or Mechanical Engineering.

STRINGER, JANE

Jane

2326 S. Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Nine-thirty—"Can I borrow your tape measure?"—ten-thirty—"Where are my scissors?"—eleven-thirty "Come on, Dotty, let's go to lunch!"

TOTO, FELECIA M.

Toto

95-9th Ave., New York City

Captain Volley Ball, 1927-28; Volley Ball, 1928-29; Baseball, 1927-28.

She's our necessity. In baseball and volley ball, we just couldn't do without her.

WAITE, GRACE D.

Gray Swede

Apponaug, R. I.

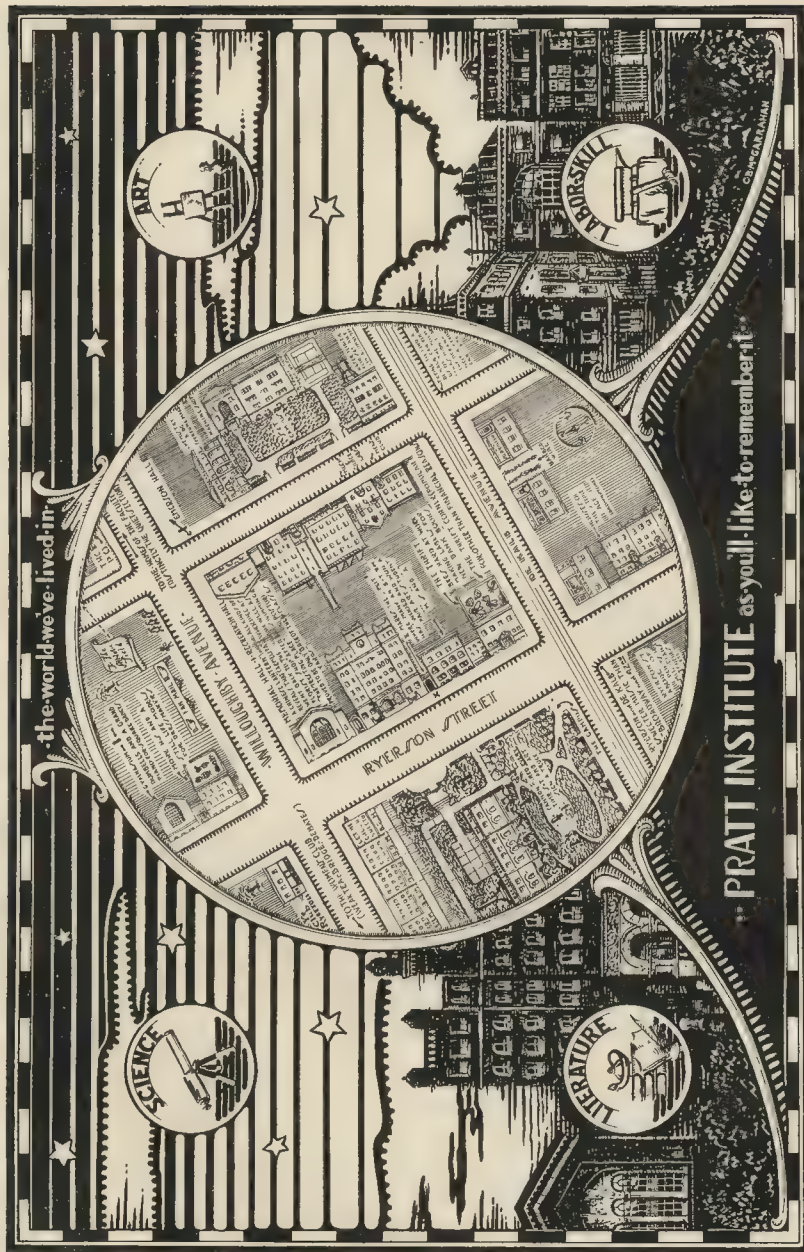

Baseball, 1927-28; Hockey, 1928-29.

Curly head, big, dreamy blue eyes, and a bit of lavender
—that's Gracie.

DRESS DESIGN, 1930

“PROMISING!” That is what our faculty considered us in September, when we took our entrance examinations. We have been trying to keep up with that ever since. Just fathoming dynamics minus geometry, draping minus patterns, learning fabrics and their fibres, making five-minute life poses look life-like, perusing costume history, and, not to mention some unique embroidering, we can only say, “They’ve kept us busy!” With all that we are still considered promising; the best that is in us goes towards its fulfillment.

Now that a two-year course has been started by our worthy seniors, our school enrollment has been greatly increased, we juniors alone numbering thirty-five strong. Our associations have been both friendly and helpful, and together we have a common interest in that most interesting of all feminine interests—fashion.

The Dress Design School has steadily gained for itself greater recognition at Pratt than it has heretofore enjoyed. One eighty-three Willoughby Avenue is known to contain one of the most enthusiastic groups in spite of its unassuming exterior. The School has recently organized, and earnestly supports the “Artisans,” a club that has been a genuine need.

In our modest way we, too, consider ourselves “promising.”

HOMEMAKING, 1929

MEN are forever seeking new horizons—wanting glory, wealth, adventure—while women seek to give a deeper significance, a greater comfort, a spiritual quality to the world they live in—their home and the lives of those joined to them. We, Homemakers, of the class of '29 look ahead with a vast knowledge of what is before us, and we are interested and keen about that work which we all expect to do. We will strive for happiness and content, objects which are so worth while. We shall bring laughter to our homes and joy to the hearts of those we love. Ah, yes, we shall be the ones who bring books to the mantelpiece, gleaming silver, china and fresh linen to the dining room table, pictures on the walls, and a grand piano in the living room.

During this year at Pratt we have found new knowledge of food and dietetics; new thoughts on rearing children and keeping them healthy, this vogue of colorful rooms, clothes in the present day mode, sports, books, and theaters. We have found new ambitions, new desires and, have come to realize the significance of that old phrase, "Life is but a game."

In the years to come when we are considered the best of housewives and the best of mothers, may we look back to our school days, spent among so many, in that big red brick structure and say, "It was well worth while."

We often hear a faint murmur from the back of the room, "My head, my heart, I must leave class!"

LYON, MADELINE A.

Mad

5 Lincoln Ave., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative.

"Mad" is very clever in more ways than one. And if you are in trouble she is always there with a suggestion that will help you out of the difficulty.

MILLS, RUTH

Babe

22 Hudson Rd., Bellerose, L. I., N. Y.

Class Treasurer.

Though Ruth is tiny, she sure can ask some big questions.

READ, FLORENCE E.

Dippy

160 Henry St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Secretary.

Her gracious and charming manner delights us. We are proud and glad to have Dippy in our class.

ROSEN, FLORENCE

Rosen

435 Crown St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Friendship is mighty, but money is almighty.

SAMARA, ELSIE S.

El

221-80th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is the Clara Bow of our class. She is cute and little, but when it comes to making muffins she certainly "takes the cake."

SKIFF, LYDIA

Lyja

9 Academy St., Greenwich, N. Y.

Home Economic Club Representative.

"Lyja" takes her work so seriously that we wonder whether it will be Paris or the "tie that binds."

TALMAGE, GLADYS F.

Glad

104 Pierpont St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President.

As our president, Glad is most charming and is always seen with a smile and a cheerful word for everyone. She accepts her responsibility with great dignity and devotion.

TOWBERMAN, ETHEL M.

Eth

96 S. Main St., Orange, N. J.

We know Eth came here for a definite purpose, for she faces issues and never shirks.

ZINGERLINE, ARLENE I.

Zingie

807 W. Dominick St., Rome, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1929.

We all wonder what Zingie looks forward to.

INSTITUTIONAL MANAGEMENT, 1929

"FOLLIES OF 1929"

Prologue

THE byways and the highways of the world are crowded with girls who have one ideal, one hope, and that is to enter the field of modern business. The call of the business world has got into their blood and they search for a path leading to a thorough preparation for such hopes and that path leads them to—Pratt Institute.

Act I

Scene 1—Cafeteria

The chorus of forty girls in blue and white uniforms, topped with stiff white caps, enter a huge white kitchen hung with scores of shining pots and pans. From week to week they dance from muffins to salads, stove to sandwiches and back again, ending with a triumphant exit from the stage.

Act II

Scene 1—Restaurants of New York

Hunting up odd coffee houses and tea rooms of foreign character is a favorite sport of the Institutional chorus. They need no coaxing, for friendliness always reigns supreme. Many an acquaintance has become a vivid remembrance over the cups of coffee they drink, on the "sidewalks of New York."

Scene 2—Now and Then.

The chorus hails with joy the call of fun and frolic. Teas, card parties, Get-together meetings at the Woman's Club, and the usual Pratt social affairs!!!

Act III

Scene 1—Graduation

After months of diets, laundry, chemistry, serving, accounting and cooking, the chorus steps on the stage in crisp white uniforms. How different from the awkward untrained chorus of 1928? The producers, whose interest follows every troupe, make their personal appearance and award each Institutional a diploma, declaring them—"debutantes of Modern Business."

CLASS OFFICERS

HELEN HOSKINS, President

GRACE KAUFMAN, Secretary

MARGARET McKINNON, Vice-President

CATHLENE FLOWERDEW, Treasurer

ARNOLD, SYLVIA

Billie

14 Franklin Pl., Maplewood, N. J.

Basketball.

Sylvia—the name alone spells romance, but your glance is caught and held by laughing eyes and then you know she has been rightly named. Utterly lovable in everything she does.

BALLOU, HILDRETH LILLIAN

Lily

9539-115th St., Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Swimming.

Always a faithful friend and good sport to those who know her.

BASHAM, MRS. DAISY BELL

Daisy

282 Washington St., Brookline, Mass.

Basketball.

Daisy is a friend when of assistance you are in need. She is reasonable, smart, and witty.

BERRY, ORENE

Ory

5220 Ellsworth Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

Basketball.

She is faithful, loyal, and a true friend.

BLEYER, ELEANORE

Ellie

12 Maple Terrace, East Orange, N. J.

If you want to find a friend, seek Ellie. She's a treasure to find.

BOCK, EMMY

Emmy

9720-118th St., Richmond Hill, N. Y.

The girl all are glad to know; has a smile for everybody and is always jolly.

BRUNSBURG, EVELYN

Evy

22 Lincoln Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball.

"A voice akin to those of angels." That's saying something, but it's true. Evelyn is the class athlete and a great sport to our teams.

DUNCAN, RUTH

Dun

285 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hockey.

As the Ruth of old attended to gathering of sheaves,
So she gathers sheaves of learning.

DUNPHY, MARY F.

Mary

Box No. 73, Atlantic Highlands, N. J.

Swimming.

Even though she was bred in Boston she has a good sense of humor.

ENGLE, JOSEPHINE R.

Joe

1627 N. Morrison St., Appleton, Wisc.

Hockey.

"Patience and persistence make perfection"—Just another old adage that rings true. "Joe" is one of our girls on whom we all depend in time of need,—and in times of pleasure. Good luck, Joe!

FLOWERDEW, KATHLENE

Kay

60 Westervelt Ave., Staten Island, N. Y.

Basketball.

The girl we all love and admire for her winning personality—Always the same to every one, a smile for all occasions.

FRITZ, HELEN

Holly

63 Ruskin Road, Eggertsville, N. Y.

Basketball.

Being young and unused to ways of institutions, "Holly" read the catalogue and believed it—then she came to Pratt. Blue eyes and blonde hair and the one thing all girls crave for—"Personality."

GREEN, HENRIETTA

Chick

473 East Ave., Sewaren, N. J.

Hockey.

Determined, reliable, friendly, and lovable,—that's our Henrietta.

HOSKINS, HELEN

Helen

291-16th Ave., Columbus, Ohio

Class President; Hockey.

Helen is always joyful and gay—the true qualities of a class president. We all love her dearly and hope the goal she has set she will attain.

IVES, RUTH

Ruth

381 Trenton Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Swimming.

We admire her for her endurance, foresight, strength, and skill.

JAMIESON, GRACE

Grace

80 Boulevard, Floral Park, N. Y.

Swimming.

"She doeth little kindnesses

Which most leave undone, or despise."

When it comes to sharing, Grace shines, giving pen, paper, and even knowledge.

JONES, WINIFRED

Winnie

Care of Mrs. N. Jones, Westbrook, Conn.

Swimming.

Cool and self-possessed is she, a keen satirist, but who can tell,—perhaps that is why we love her.

KAUFMAN, GRACE

Stars

Fort Johnson, N. Y.

Class Secretary; Basketball.

Always wanted them, and still does. Comes from a bit of nowhere. Loves music, dancing, and outdoor sports.

KIMBALL, ELEANOR

Kim

Woodmere, L. I., N. Y.

Basketball.

When you're blue, she cheers you; when you're glad, she's happy;

When you need her, she's at hand. Short and sweet, that's "Kim."

KULICK, MARTHA

Mardy

Basketball. Prattonia Rep.

"Good things come in small parcels." If you hear a little husky voice in the halls, you can depend on it's being Martha starting something new again.

KREIDER, MABEL JANE

Jane

423 N. 11th St., Lebanon, Pa.

Basketball.

Some of us call her "Jane." So afraid she won't know how to cook before two years are up. Wonder why. Specials and wives! No?

LAWLOR, ITA

Ita

P. O. Box E-5004, St. Johns, Newfoundland

Hockey.

She comes from Newfoundland. Perhaps that is why she has red cheeks. Reserved at first; she knows us better and has shed the shyness.

LEERS, GWENDOLYN

Gwen

2233 Vanderveer Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Beauty is only skin deep," so the saying goes, but Gwen is the exception, for she is sweet as her smile, and when it comes to executive ability, Gwen knows how.

LLOYD, BLODWEN

General

1516 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball.

More commonly known among her classmates as "General Lloyd." "General" returning from the nutrition class may be heard saying, "That's my weakness now."

LOWE, MAYME

May

300 W. 138th St., New York City

Basketball.

She's very quiet, but "still water runs deep."

LOWE, NAN

Nan

Avis, Pa.

Basketball.

If you want to know anything about turkey, ask Nan. She is greatly admired by her classmates.

MacKINNON, MARGARET

Mary

10 Heathcote Road, Scarsdale, N. Y.

Hockey.

"Auld acquaintance can ne'er be forgot," for to us she has brought the best of Scotland. To bid farewell to our "wee drop of Scotch" is a sad task, indeed.

MARTIN, LAURA

Marty

441 W. Lemon St., Lancaster, Pa.

Basketball.

"Marty" comes from Pennsylvania, also from the business world. She is studious and serious; her main topic is Atlantic City.

MATTHEWS, ROSALIE

Rosa

Starr, S. C.

Basketball.

A dignified being, but her smile belies her.

McINTOSH, BETTY

Bet

Cambridge, N. Y.

Basketball.

The original "Palmolive Girl," and one of the most diligent workers in the class. Betty is one of the famous team of Norton & McIntosh.

MEYERS, CHRISTINE

Christy

21 Clendenny Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Basketball.

"Meek as Moses" describes this fair miss perfectly. She is fond of visiting places of historic interest. Gettysburg we believe is her favorite.

NEILL, NATALIE

Nat

918 Sawyer St., So. Portland, Me.

Basketball.

One of our sweetest girls is Natalie. There is something nice about every one—But there is everything nice about her.

NEVANS, MRS. MAUDE

Maude

Pinehurst Lake Shore Rd., Buffalo, N. Y.

Jolly and always willing to help. When you need advice about cooking, Maude is the one to ask.

NICKLAS, MILDRED

Mil

158 Norwood Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sweet and always glad to help every one in need. You can depend on that.

NORTON, HILDA

Hilda

Pine St., Edgartown, Mass.

Evidently has heard the quotation, "United we stand, divided we fall," for she is never without Betty. She is a budding genius, for only a genius could get such high grades in Nutrition.

OETJEN, ALMA C.

Al

591 E. 233d St., New York City

Hockey.

A combination of a happy disposition with just enough inquisitiveness to be interesting.

PEPKE, CAROLINE A.

Peppy

23 S. State St., North Warren, Pa.

"Those true eyes.

Too pure and too honest aught to disguise."

Caroline never changes, always as dependable as Gibraltar, and is faithful to her friends and herself.

RAYMORE, EUNICE L.

Eunice

1132 E. 36th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball.

Pert pretty, and wiry, that's our Eunice—always cheerful and adept.

RAYNOR, MARY EVELYN

Evy

Warwick, N. Y.

Basketball.

Crazy over horses—that's Evy. Quiet and unassuming; she is very popular among her classmates.

REA, MRS. JESSE

Jes

225 S. Millvale Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Swimming.

A most energetic worker and one from whom we expect great things. We rather think that in the previous world Jes had been a debator.

REED, MRS. FREDERICK

Thrifty, Mary

23 E. 17th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Thrifty Mary" to Pratt Institute goes, counting calories on fingers and toes;

Checking up vitamins, balancing rations, to improve the health of the young generation.

ROSE, MRS. ALMA L.

Al

159 Laurel Ave., Binghamton, N. Y.

As if Alma hadn't enough with two of her own to mother! She was given the girls at "220," whom she is well capable of handling.

SMITH, ISABEL K.

Smitty

R. R. No. 7, York, Pa.

Basketball.

An able assistant if you want one.

SPELMAN, MILDRED

Mil

Silver Bay, N. Y.

Basketball.

It is a source of never ending discussion, what the attraction to the hospital is for "Mil."

STERLING, ELEANOR

Elly

144 Westminster Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball.

Will make an ideal manager for some restaurant, or man. Capable and has a pleasing personality. Eleanor is destined to a successful future.

STEWART, CATHERINE E.

Kay

87 Violet Ave., Floral Park, N. Y.

Basketball.

Kay is really killing time at Pratt, for after completing her course she plans to study at some New York hospital.

TECKLENBURG, CLEMENTINE

Tina

185-4th Ave., Bay Shore, N. Y.

Basketball.

"Tina" is a friendly girl from Bay Shore. The girl who always asks, "Does that boy dance well, did you say."

VAN MIDDLESWORTH, MAY

May, Van

2304 Main St., Northampton, Pa.

Hockey.

"Always happy and always gay.

She is as welcome as the month of May."

May has blonde hair and merry blue eyes.

VAN WINKLE, MILDRED

Winkle

R. R. No. 9, Penn Yan, N. Y.

Basketball.

"Winkle" along with cooking is a lover of literature—Keats, Shakespeare, and Shelley being the favorites.

WENTE, VIRGINIA

Ginny

229 Primrose Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

Basketball

The possessor of an ambitious personality. A good mixer and a good friend. Liked by every one.

YETTER, LAURA

Laury

152 Halstead St., East Orange, N. J.

Hockey.

Cool, calm, and collected; nonchalant—with that indescribable “something.”

Trade Dressmaking, 1930.

TRADE DRESSMAKING, 1929

SEVENTY-NINE strong, yet fearful and trembling, we faced the dreaded ordeal of entrance exams. After two laborious hours, which in reality were not so terrible, now that we look back upon them, we heaved a sigh of relief,—“They were over!” Then began the real test of our various abilities.

Out of a clear sky came the announcement of the Abraham & Straus fashion show, which was closely followed by an order to make dresses for the Manville Jencks Cotton House and Wright Bias Tape Company, with the Wanamaker fashion show as a climax! Work—there was no end of it—but we enjoyed every single stitch and would gladly welcome the opportunity of doing it all over again.

Like good sports always do, we whole-heartedly entered and enjoyed basketball, volley ball, hockey, swimming, and many other athletic activities.

Last, but most important, came the checking up of our year's work, which included both class-room and shop-room work, with the final announcement that we had passed.

Now, that the term has expired, it is with lagging steps that we leave the protecting walls of Pratt Institute, which has found a place in our hearts than can never be filled.

CLASS OFFICERS

RUTH E. LAURITSEN, President
NANCY WILCOTT, Vice-President
FRANCES PARKE, Secretary-Treasurer

AGNELLO, ELIZABETH A.

Aggie

307 E. 39th St., New York City

Elizabeth seems demure and quiet until she looks sidewise out of those dreamy brown eyes; then you know that dress-making isn't her only accomplishment.

ALLEN, BERNICE F.

Neicie

5311 Market St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Class Representative; Prattonia Representative, 1929.

Neicie is one of our best students and is liked by every one. As Prattonia representative she has shown wonderful class spirit. She is undecided as to what she'll do after finishing school. Is there an outside influence?

ARENA, MARY

Marie

238 Stanhope St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Marie is sincere in all that she undertakes. Her greeting is always a smile—never a tear.

AUGUSTINE, MARIE H.

Marie

920 Summit Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

The best example of how a minimum of energy can be used to obtain a maximum of results.

AUSTIN, EMILY W.

Wings

3136 Newark St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Class President.

Wings is one of our best all-around girls. She is witty, humorous, and jolly, yet she is sincere. She is one of our most popular girls and our only regret is that she is not twins.

BEEBE, MOLLIE

Beebe

428 Respass St., Washington, D. C.

A possessor of ambition and personality. Known for her anxiety to see her fellow classmates succeed.

BIRCHETTE, MARY L.

Chette

39 W. Hayes Ave., Corona, L. I., N. Y.

Class Room Representative.

Happy and always smiling. Effervesces with so much energy that she is constantly spilling a little of it on you. The class clown.

BRIDGELAND, ANNIE H.

Ann

Cornwall Bridge, Conn.

A lass from merrie old England with a smile that makes of life's rough road a smooth and rosey pathway.

CARDOZA, CATHERINE R.

Kay

35 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kay saunters into class at any time from nine fifteen on. If we didn't know her so well, we'd think her don't-care attitude was real but she can't fool us. We know she is good at heart.

CHADWELL, GRACE H.

Chad

652 S. 19th St., Louisville, Ky.

A good sport, a good pal, a worker too, for all that. But she has one weakness—Phil.

COCKS, MURIEL L.

Chubby

33 Third Ave., Port Washington, N. Y.

Chubby really knows her stitches, but her favorite pastime is designing dresses in conference. Never mind, Chubby, the better the time the better the deed.

COHN, ELIZABETH

Libby

260 Richards Av., Dover, N. J.

She always has a question on the tip of her tongue. Although she is not the leading question mark, she is one of the most prominent. She is a most loveable girl, though. We all love her.

COLEMAN, DOROTHY E.

Dot

21 Planet St., Providence, R. I.

Dot is one of those quiet, sweet girls that simply make one like them. A more thoughtful, serious, conscientious girl is hard to find.

CRIPPEN, ANITA L.

Neat

Box No. 1206, Southhampton, L. I., N. Y.

Only her modesty is greater than her ambitions. Happy and cheerful always.

CUMMINGS, CLAUDINE

Claud

51 Morrell St., New Brunswick, N. J.

Here comes Claud—Where is the fire? Claudine is always in a rush and is a neat little worker, keeps as busy as a bee.

CUSUMANO, ANGELINA M.

Angie

309 E. 39th St., New York City

A small girl with a heart twice her size. Her talent with the needle is enough to put us all to shame.

CUSUMANO, ANGELINA V.

Angie

312 E. 39th St., New York City

Demure simplicity shining through a mask of shyness. She sews equally as well as her cousin—and how they get along! Like two nuts in one shell.

DE LIBERTY, JOSEPHINE N.

Joe

2725 Fort Hamilton Pkwy., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Joe greets every one and all of her every-day problems with one of those smiles that always turns to a laugh.

DOHREN, CATHERINE

Kay

4 Park Ave., Dorgan Hills, S. I., N. Y.

Kay is a conscientious worker and as patient as can be. With such patience and her personality she is sure to find success.

DOMINY, ALICE

Al

Ocean Ave., East Hampton, N. Y.

The romanticist with a color sense and style all of her own. As clever with the needle as she is charming.

ECCLES, MILDRED C.

Millie

81 Winthrop Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Quiet and unassuming, Millie goes on her way. Always dainty and self-poised. Our tiny maid is sure to find success just around the corner.

FITZRAY, EDITH E.

Edith

413 W. 30th St., New York City

Wit, charm, and ability leap the bounds her modesty maintains. A more charming girl is not to be found.

FRANK, RUTH

Ruth

80 Winthrop St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A small dynamo is Ruth. Full of energy, animated and so intense. She has no sooner attacked a task than it is done and she is all set for the next one.

FRIZZLE, PAULINE E.

Paulie

Commercial St., Berwick, Nova Scotia

Not nearly so cold as the place she hails from, for she is all sweet spices and everything nice.

GALUSHA, RUTH L.

Ruth

35 Hillcrest Rd., Caldwell, N. J.

Possessor of a quiet force that is some day bound to crash through. A really nice girl.

GASPERINI, LENA C.

Lena

58 Paulding Ave., Tarrytown, N. Y.

Retiring in her manner, yet jolly with her intimates. Her kindly manner and willingness to help will reap their reward.

GEMME, ANNE A.

Anne

120 Grant Ave., Paterson, N. J.

A very charming girl, and when it comes to studying psychology and dancing she has no competitors.

GROSS, HELENA E.

Helena

Salix, Pa.

A mind to conceive, a hand to execute, and a will to work. Always eager to be up and doing.

HENRY, LILIAN A.

Lilian

231 Grant St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

A serious bunch of energy, that would work all night in order to make a perfect piece of sewing. A real dressmaker.

HINTON, CARMEN E.

Carmen

155 William St., Englewood, N. J.

Carmen has a very sunny disposition aided, no doubt, by her permanent seat at the window. She is one of the few people who derive pleasure out of work.

HONESTY, HELEN E.

Helen

2420 K St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Oh, how she loves to "kid" one. But she's really a charming girl, once you know her. She is one girl who can sew just as the teachers try to get us all to do.

HOPKINS, MARY H.

Mary

94 Lincoln Ave., Winchedau, Mass.

It takes more than one hard blow to discourage Mary. She is a real go-getter. We wish her great success.

JAMES, DOROTHY W. A.

Babs

497 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Good things come in small packages, and Babs is just a small package but she radiates sunshine.

JONES, ANNIE

Jack

217 E. 8th St., Ocolo, Fla.

"You-all are having cold weather up heah." Why, certainly, Jack, you're not in Florida now, you know. When Jack opens her shop in Jacksonville, we wish her great success.

KAIRALLA, HELEN C.

Helen

159 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn, N. Y.

When everything is quiet and an infectious giggle can be heard from across the room, without being told we all know Helen is up to some kind of mischief. Little, but Oh my!

KONDOS, ANNA

Chick

6814-4th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A truly ambitious person. When there's work to be done, she is happy to do it.

KRAMER, MARTHA

Martty

2063 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She entered late in the term but by the way she works she will catch up with the rest of us if we don't work fast. Her plans for the future are to enter the School of Dress Design. Good luck!

KUNG, MARGUERITE

Peg

120-15th St., West New York, N. J.

Her delight is making beautiful stitches, but when it comes to draping—she takes the afternoon off.

LA SALA, LEONORA

Lee

851 Bushwick Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Beware, young men, for this sweet lass not only possesses ability to make beautiful stitches but has dancing curls that mock your doom.

LAURITSEN, RUTH E.

Ruth

Madison, Conn.

Class President.

A real model, Ruth is not only a good dressmaker but a good cook also. We wonder how long it will be before some one else finds it out.

LAWS, HORENA C.

Sully

55 Clinton St., Westfield, N. J.

Sally—well, if Westfield has more like her, we must go to Westfield. There's a twinkle in her eye that belies that sometimes studious attitude.

LEPORATI, AMELIA C.

Giggles

81 Flushing Ave., Jamaica, N. Y.

A bright, sunny disposition has Giggles. She is just one giggle after another, but she can be serious and work as well as play.

LONDA, HARRIET

Harriet

16 Moss Ave., Danbury, Conn.

If Danbury has another Harriet, then let's have her. Harriet makes the prettiest dresses now, what will she do after taking Costume Design?

LOVELAND, GLADYS E.

Lovie

91 Martindale Ave., Hudson Falls, N. Y.

And she herself is as sweet as the sweetest thing she knows and she knows lots of sweet things.

MARTIN, SYBIL H.

Syb

28 Bank St., North Adams, Mass.

Even if she does work slowly, she gets there just the same, and when she says her work's complete—it is.

MARTINIANO, CARMOLA

Mil

83 Summit St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She is rather quiet but that's because she is such a little person to think of such big things.

MASTROIANNI RIVOLTA

Ramona

178 Alabama Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ramona is a charming girl with a natural coloring that we often read of but seldom see nowadays. Her heart and soul are in her work. She is always ready to help the other fellow.

MASUMIAN, ANNA

Anna

5006-19th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The barber hasn't persuaded Anna yet but some one else has. But what can you expect of such an engaging young lady.

McCANN, FLORENCE F.

Flo

422-121st St., Rockaway Park, N. Y.

Gee, Flo, it's a good thing you came along. You relieve the monotony. We can't all be angels and basketball players.

McCLAIN, MARY V.

Mac

43 Cottage St., Jersey City, N. J.

Mary learns fast and works like a Turk. Look out, boys. You can't tell what blue eyes and black hair will do.

McGRIFF, AMY

Sweet child

1063 Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She is a steady worker and a good all-round girl. That sweet expression helps her get by though.

MILLS, GLADYS M.

Glad

Georgetown, Conn.

A cherry countenance is an index to a woman's character. Always wear your same pleasant smile.

NORTHROP, MARY K.

Topsy

Boston Post Rd., Southport, Conn.

A pretty, reserved blonde, who really is businesslike and possesses unusual talent in sketching.

PARKE, FRANCES T.

Frenzy

130 West Broadway Bangor, Maine

Secretary-Treasurer.

Frenzy is a Yankee born and bred, as we can tell by her down-East accent. She has that dry Yankee sense of humor, too, and oh! such dimples in her cheeks.

PARKER, BEATRICE M.

Bea

60 Gilbert Place, Yonkers, N. Y.

Every place in the world has some one who can pick up clues. Pratt has its detective in the form of Bea. We wonder, has she missed her calling.

PECORONI, GERTRUDE

Gert

Box No. 227, Bound Brook, N. J.

Gert has just enough German accent to make her talk sound cute. She tries hard and works well. She's what you call "a real nice girl."

PRALL, BETTY

Betty

203 Hewes St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Unique, vivid, dashing—with a most business-like air that makes us all like her so.

QUANZ, CECILIA

Ceal

67 Chestnut St., Bristol, Conn.

What more can we say of Ceal than that she is a girl that "wears well." The more we see her the more we like her. That's the height of praise.

RHODES, LOTTIE V.

Lottie

1827 W. Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky.

A true belle from the "Blue Grass" state. Baby face, is studious and energetic. Her hobby is cooking at the "Y."

RICHARDSON, ALTHEA I.

Al

12 Brower Place, Lynbrook, N. Y.

A true and constant friend, a faithful and inspired worker. The best part of it is that she doesn't realize it.

SANTORO, CAROLINE

Cory

We nominate for the Hall of Fame Caroline Santoro because her work like herself, exhales that delicate, fragile atmosphere one finds in more than modest people.

SCHIAVONI, MARGARET B.

Margie

74 Parke Ave., Caldwell, N. J.

It seems that Margie really knows how to sew seams and play basketball; and, too, she possesses so much dignity.

SCHWEITZER, MARGARET

Marg

1060 East 27th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A jovial girl who loves pies, (especially apple pie). No matter what the difficulty, she can always find a smile. A true foe to the pessimist.

SHIVES, KATIE E.

Mousie

1222 Drexel Ave., Atlantic City, N. J.

Here is a business-like young lady, with a pleasant disposition, traveling swiftly along the road to success—if she doesn't have any more bad dreams in conference.

SMITH, RUTH ELLEN

Ruie

12 New St., Atlantic City, N. J.

A measure of good humor, a spoonful of seriousness, and a dash of satire. Mix these ingredients and you have Ruie. Where, oh, where is Nickie?

SORG, ADELAIDE A.

Addles

521 S. 21st St., Irvington, N. J.

Faithful, diligent, earnest; a successful mistress of all she undertakes. Her favorite pastime is getting ideas from a certain teacher.

TANIS, OLGA P.

Olga

123 Main St., Pittston, Pa.

Women's Club Representative.

The one person we all go to when we need advice. Olga is never too busy to pass a word of wisdom on to any and all of us.

VAINSTEIN, MILDRED

Mil

7 S. West St., Shenandoah, Pa.

Feminine, fastidious Mil. A little bit of mirth and sweetness. A dainty slip of completeness.

VINIEGUERRA, ELEANOR

El

933 E. 5th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Who first invented work and bound such a lively spirit down? And she is going to college, too. Good luck, El.

WARREN, ELLA L.

Ella

Campbell Hall, N. Y.

Class Room Representative.

Naive, attractive, unpretentious, likable, romantic—that's Ella. She'll put it over big one of these days.

WATSON, HELEN B.

Swatty

Elizabeth St., Kent, Conn.

A toast to a girl with a laugh and a smile that make this babble of life worth while.

WEISS, MABEL E.

Mabel

406 Philip St., Yellow Springs, Ohio

Here is one girl who takes things as they come and greets every knock as a boost, for she knows that earnest labor is never lost.

WOLCOTT, NANCY O.

Nan

R. F. D. No. 5, Troy, Pa.

Vice-President.

She wants to be a dressmaker but she's an athlete from her heart and a good sport, too, with a mind as clear as the clearest sky.

WHITE, MRS. MARY C.

Mary

403 Chauncey St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Precise, visional, prismatic. Beauty, brains, and personality plus. As charming a wife as a man could wish for.

WILSON, BETTY

Betts

Box No. 132 Elmhurst, Pa.

Neighborhood Association Representative.

Smart, visional, poised, lovable; a friend to every one, every one a friend to her.

WILSON, SARA C.

Sara

31 Library Place, Princeton, N. J.

Capable, ambitious; endowed with great ability along certain lines, but, best of all, she wears her clothes well.

WRIGHT, EDNA L.

Ed

Breezy Brow, Altamont, N. Y.

Tactful, observant, interesting; a true companion with an ideal disposition. One you'd love to call "friend."

WRIGHT, HELEN M.

Helen

3 Elm St., Hudson Falls, N. Y.

A close second to Helen of Troy in appearance but not in ways, we know, for this Helen is steadfast and true in all that she does and says.

ZENKER, MARGUERITE A.

Madge

193 N. Ocean Ave., Patchogue, L. I., N. Y.

I ask you confidentially, "ain't" she sweet? And sew—well, I should say SEW—buttons and button holes, 'specially.

LIBRARY AND SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

IN POINT of numbers the Library School is not a conspicuous element in the large and varied student body of the Institute. A new group each year of twenty-five students, pursuing a course of only nine months' duration, housed on the third floor in a building on the periphery of the Institute's ensemble, is naturally somewhat removed from the center of the student activities, and may seem at times a little out of touch with the student program.

The Library is the School's laboratory and becomes the students' own little world during the brief thirty-six weeks of their stay within the Institute scene. The intense application required of them in the pursuit of their studies denies the Library School students full participation in things going on across the street.

But there is no more loyal and devoted group of students and graduates of Pratt than the Library people who, in vindicating their loyalty at the Fortieth Anniversary in 1927, proved themselves to be "the one hundred percent school."

A large majority of each Library School class is made up of college graduates to whom the course is in effect post-graduate specialization. This "graduate" point of view no doubt gives to the Library group an appearance of maturity and seriousness not always associated with one's "bright college years." It is one of the distinguishing qualities of Pratt Institute that it provides a very great diversity of studies and periods of study which may detract a little from its unity as a body of students, but lends lustre to its reputation as a highly specialized educational institution.

The Library itself is a complete unifying force. It belongs intimately to the students of every interest, such that it becomes the common center, the close bond which makes us, indeed, one. Here the students congregate from every quarter of our great school—Art students use our Art Reference room as never before; S. & T. men are at home with Mr. Hendry as an actual faculty member; Household Science women adorn our other reference rooms; and Library School students are everywhere amongst them all. The Library is the rendezvous for all of Pratt Institute, faculty as well as students. It takes utmost satisfaction in observing its growing acceptance as not a thing apart, but as the Institute's own, the common possession of everyone at Pratt. It is an "All-Pratt" affair not less than the Prattonia itself. The Library and Library School are one with the Institute, indispensable and inseparable.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE, 1929

ALTHOUGH the class of 1929 is not large in number, we feel that we make up for that defect by our great amount of interest in the work; and who would not be interested in such a course as ours? Here we have the privilege of excellent instruction, the opportunity of hearing and meeting people who have become prominent in the work; and later we will have the pleasure of visiting, under the guidance of Miss Rathbone, other libraries, publishing houses, and printing establishments, all places of interest to embryo librarians.

Our greatest pleasure will be the Spring trip, which will take us to Trenton, Princeton, Philadelphia, and Harrisburg. In historic Philadelphia we shall see many things sacred to the memory of Ben Franklin, who was one of the first to see the possibilities of a library as an educational institution. In Harrisburg we expect to enjoy thoroughly, among other things, the state house with its lovely Abbey murals. We anticipate all this not only because of what we shall see, but because we shall share many good times together and the memories of our mutual pleasures will linger long with us and cement us in a closer bond of friendship.

We came into the school unknown and unheard of. We came from places far and near, but when the class of 1929 leaves Pratt, we will be known throughout the land if present indications are fulfilled. We are here to do our best and to show that the class of 1929 is striving to uphold Pratt ideals, and when we leave we will, one and all, strive to make ourselves worthy of the school which has made our education possible and to be a credit to the teachers who have put so much time, patience, and human understanding into preparing us for our profession.

CLASS OFFICERS

MABEL WINIFRED HAWK, President

WILLIAM H. BREWER, JR., Secretary-Treasurer

BACH, HALLIE DAY

Hallie Day

Lexington, Ky.

The sun shines bright on her old Kentucky home, a home to which Hallie Day is unusually partial. This makes us feel lucky that she could leave it long enough to come to Pratt. We are very glad she did.

BATESON, NORAH

Norah

Chequerbent, Near Bolton, Lancs., England

How fascinating it is to listen to Norah's tales of "bears" and "bush" in Canada, and how interested we are in her part in next Spring's most anticipated publication. Where does she find time to help out in a book store as well?

BINKLEY, MARGARET

Margaret

Hagerstown, Md.

Few classes are fortunate in having a girl so versatile as Margaret. She possesses executive ability combined with a friendly spirit, and a combination of the imaginative and the practical. Horses and "friends from home" stand out in her life.

BISCHOFF, KATHRYN GRACE

Grace

El Paso, Texas

The wide open spaces of Texas, coupled with an enchanting Southern drawl, will provide the profession with an interesting and exciting member, providing, of course, that army boots don't prove stronger.

BREWER, WILLIAM H., JR.

Bill

Salem, Mass.

Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1929.

Besides being the "intellectual handy man" of the class, Bill has much artistic ability and a great interest in collecting bookplates. We expect to hear from him in the profession as he has personality and ingenuity.

BURKE, MARY CATHERINE

Mary

Waterbury, Conn.

Mary wanted to know whether her name as a cosmopolitan New Yorker would appear in the pages of the Library little question? Journal or in Variety. Will some kind person answer Mary's

CAIRNS, E. EVALENA

Evalena

East Rochester, N. Y.

Here we have dignity and industry personified in the not exactly gigantic person of Evalena Cairns. The first requisite in applying for a position is posture, according to Evalena.

CORNISH, VIRGINIA

Virginia

Omaha, Neb.

Who can tell what lies behind that quiet manner? Genius may smoulder and certainly a great deal of friendliness and humor lies there. Some day we shall know just what else is there, and we are sure it will be talent which will make us proud of Virginia.

DAVIDSON, MARGARET R.

Margaret

Massena, N. Y.

Margaret's side line is singing. In this way she will be able to liven up her profession with a song. When she leaves Pratt we know she can feel that what she has accomplished has been well "Dunn."

DUNN, MADELEINE B.

Madeleine

Swanton, Vt.

Since reading the recent A. L. A. survey, Madeleine is strong for Yonkers. Climate? We should say not! It is a matter of salary. We must say that she will be worthy of a good one for she is a good student and a mighty likable person.

ELLINGSON, IRENE

Irene

Northfield, Minn.

Have you ever stepped in Irene's "for just a moment?" Then, due to much coffee and idle palaver, found yourself coming home in those hours when only street cars break the silence? Well, if you haven't—do.

FULTON, OLIVIA J.

Olive

Truro, Nova Scotia, Can.

Olive's chief interest lies in the "wide open spaces." This does not prevent her from having a genial disposition and a winning way. We particularly admire the charming humor which lurks behind her quiet smile.

HAWK, MABEL WINIFRED

Winifred

Winterset, Iowa

Class President, 1929.

Our class president has made herself a dear friend and loyal comrade to every member of the class. Her enthusiasm, open-mindedness and wisdom have helped our stormy way throughout the year. Our best wishes are with you, Winifred.

HEALD, MARY CHAFFEE

Mary

Canton, Ill.

We just can't help envying Mary's ability to catalogue, her generosity, and her lovable disposition. Her one fault is, that she started our Bill on the downward path of bookplate collecting—her own chief hobby.

HURLBUT, JULIA EILEEN

Eileen

Green, N. Y.

Her favorite expression is "Let's walk." Her avocations are poetry and music. She should make a good librarian as she already has an eye for first editions.

JOHNSON, MRS. CORA HIGGINS
Red Springs, N. C.

A real expression of all the qualities of the true Southerner. Her wide experience has made her a most valuable asset to our group.

KELLEY, MARGARET Kelley
Norwich, N. Y.

"Kelley" has typified energy and efficiency ever since she came to Pratt. The glasses give her a serious look, but, really, the girl behind them is a witty, generous, attractive little person, whom we can't help but like.

LAIR, LOUISE Louise
Canisteo, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1929.

Her hobbies are collecting brass and going to plays. We predict that one day she will write a book on one or both of these subjects.

LEAVITT, RUTH Ruth
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ruth is our Radcliff graduate. We understand that great geniuses are noted for their poor hand writing. She is an outstanding student and a loyal friend.

MOLENAER, JANE Jane
Springfield, Ohio

Jane would not be Jane without those gay drolleries that bubble out so spontaneously. Jane has theatrical yearnings. Will she hand out books over a desk or epigrams over the foot-lights? It lies on the knees of the gods, for we cannot say.

PARSONS, MIRIAM M.

Miriam

Little Silver, N. J.

Miriam is sure her hair is blonde. Be that as it may, we know her as an impulsive, friendly, fun-loving girl with a great and occasionally mentioned love for travel.

SNEAD, MARY McCauley

Mary

Salem, Va.

From the sunny state, Virginia, came Mary to charm us with her sweet and happy disposition. Had she not been with us, our year would not have been complete.

TREFETHEN, A. RUTH

A. Ruth

Waterville, Maine

Our co-worker, who hails from Maine, is ambitious, resourceful, and full of humor. She enjoys travel and is fond of reading, a happy combination for a librarian.

WILSON, CAROLYN

Carolyn

Hebron, Ill.

Women's Club Representative, 1929.

If later a librarian hands you a book with a gesture worthy of Bernhardt or answers your reference question in sonorous phrases equal to those of Ethel Barrymore, you'll know it is Carolyn, whose chief pleasure lies in the drama and in things dramatic.

YAARI, YEHUDA

Yaari

Jerusalem, Palestine

Our member from Jerusalem possesses a spontaneity, an interest and a willingness to help, which makes him popular. We wish to ask him, though, if he feels that "Survey of the field" is synonymous with "sore throat."

YOUNG, ELIZABETH DEBELL

Elizabeth

Chattanooga, Tenn.

After meeting Elizabeth no one could forget her winning personality and attractive disposition. She is a good student, a warm friend, and a pretty girl. Could any one be more?

ZANES, HELEN L.

Helen

Brooklyn, N. Y.

It may be that Helen brings up the rear of the class in the matter of alphabetical arrangement, but she is far from the rear in the estimation of her classmates.

WEEK ENDS AT PRATT

SOcially speaking, Pratt has had a superabundance of "belles and beaux" this year, who have kept the season lively with novel dances. Friday night we dutifully saved for the basketball games, but Saturday night the Recreation Hall, in all its ever changing glory of scenes, colors, and people, decided our whereabouts.

November 23, 1928, the Electrical Engineering classes held a very successful informal program dance. Clever programs too; the adjectives expressing the kind of escort whom we enjoyed dancing with most, the kind of time we had, how the dance ended, and how we got to bed, were "keen." Class banners, steamers in the class colors, red and blue, and red and gray, formed the decorations. Some "engineering" we would say.

December 15, 1928, the Architects gave a Crime Dance. From the light in the middle of the hall the stuffed figure of a man was hung—rather startling when first seen. On one side of the room a contrivance resembling a "jury box" lent atmosphere. The majority of the dancers were appropriately dressed for the occasion. Even the orchestra wore striped sweaters. Clever, not so?

January 7, 1929, the first year Mechanicals, otherwise known as "Buddy Harper's Boiler Makers," started the new year's entertainment with a dance we will long remember. Van's Orchestra furnished the music, which was unsurpassed during the year. Good luck next year.

January 26, 1929, the Senior Dietitians started the H. S. & A. students off by giving a delightful Country Club Dance. The hall was decorated in its own colors, green and tan. Awings and palms created a pleasant summery feeling, even though the date was January and the temperature not much above freezing. There were prizes, too, for the Lucky Number Dance.

February 7, 8, 1929, the Art School presented "The Chinese Lantern" by Lawrence Housman, in Memorial Hall. It was for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund. Taking note from the size of the audiences, the Fund was increased considerably. The scenery, costumes, and all the other effects were the work of the students themselves.

February 16, 1929, the Junior Dietitians caught the spirit and, thoughtful of the date, gave a Valentine Dance. They carried out the idea by having red and white bids, by decorating with red and white streamers and red hearts and Cupids.

March 2, 1929, the Artsmen, for variety, put over a successful Circus Dance. The "Big Top" opened at 8:30 P. M. Peanuts and pink lemonade helped abate the hunger and thirst of the spectators, also participators in this case.

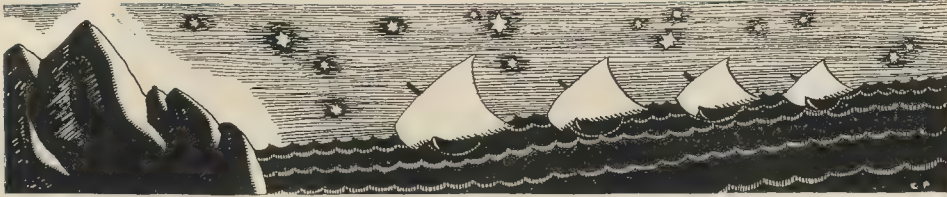

March 15, 1929, the Senior Dress Design girls gave a Whoopee Dance. Fred Claxton and his colored orchestra from Harlem helped us "raise Whoopee."

Our social season is to be continued until we leave in June, thanks to the plans of some energetic students in the spring. We are expecting a good time guessing who's who at the Mardi Gras the Paletteers are giving April 12, 1929. The Junior Dress Design students are going to have a May Hop before they part for the summer. Then the Electricals will have their Spring Dance, May 3, 1929. Don't see how we could have a better time than we did at their Fall Dance, but we'll see. The Mechanicals are going to follow up with a Spring Dance on May 24, 1929. Wohler Chemical Society is also stepping out for a Spring Dance. The Senior Dietitians are planning to have their Prom on board a ship the eve of Decoration Day. The season will wind up with the Board of Trustees' Reception June 19, 1929.

STUDENT COUNCIL

STUDENT COUNCIL

THE main purpose of the Student Council is the promotion of student social and recreational activities. The school must act as a unit to meet this aim. The members of the various classes announce their activities to the Council who brings them back to their classes either by an announcement or by posting the minutes of the meetings.

This year the Council has tried to advance its usefulness. It has rewritten those portions of the constitution that have lost their effectiveness. As an experiment, the Council took charge of the Pep meetings in an attempt to increase the attendance. This was only attained when Mr. Charles Pratt, under the request of the Council, excused school for fifteen minutes so all the classes might attend. The Council expressed its wish to have the Alma Mater sung at all social functions held at the school, and maintained that the reverence be continued. It is hoped that before this year is over there will be a Glee Club formed to open another activity for those interested. The Council takes great pleasure in presenting to the school a plaque for the names of the students whom they believe should be honored for their work while at Pratt. The regular afternoon dances were very successful, so to finish the social season an evening dance (Hick Dance) is planned for Friday evening May 31st as a benefit dance for the playground fund.

The Council feels that its main objective for this year will be successfully underway before the school year is ended. This object is to obtain an endowment from the Alumni for a regulation size swimming pool, to be located in the gymnasium or an annex of the gymnasium.

THE ARTSMEN

SINCE 1922 the Artsmen have functioned with three definite aims; to promote fellowship among its members; to create interest in the field of art; and encourage athletics.

The Educational Committee, under Mr. Joseph Mulcahy, has succeeded in obtaining exceptional exhibitions of the work of prominent artists. Among the distinguished speakers were: W. J. Aylward, McClelland Barclay, Russell Patterson, Rene Clark, Nathaniel Pousette-Dart, Howard Scott, and Eugene Schoen. A number of studio visits were made.

The Social Committee, guided by Mr. Louis Jacobson, arranged several banquets, a "Modern Dance" and a "Circus Dance," all of which were successful, both socially and financially.

The success of the Artsmen Athletic Teams has been due to the splendid coaching of Mr. Kenneth Orr, Chairman of the Athletic Committee. The most outstanding event of the year has been the winning of the swimming championship. Soccer, basketball, and baseball teams have reached higher averages than before.

Mr. Henry Stahlhut with the Publicity Committee has furnished interesting posters and excellent decorations for all occasions.

PALETTEERS

THE Paletteers Association, organized to bring the women students to a better understanding of each other and their work, is just closing a most auspicious year.

It has been very fortunate in securing for the students encouragement and enlightenment by well known artists, who through their talks and practical demonstrations have richly contributed to the general helpfulness of the association's program.

Some of the artists who have so generously given of their time and talents were: Mrs. Erick Berry, Alexander Archipenko, Mary MacKinnon, Joseph Cummings Chase. Those to come are: Weinold Reiss, Percy Crosby, Tony Sarg, Jack Lynas, and Julius Delbas.

The Paletteers worked with enthusiasm to make the play "The Chinese Lantern," which was given for the Art Students' Fund, a success. Everyone got into the spirit of the Mardi Gras and the event proved to be a great success socially and financially.

The success of the year's program has been largely due to the untiring efforts of the entertainment and lecture committees.

THE WOMEN'S CLUB

WHAT? You've been at Pratt a whole term and haven't been to the Womens' Club? Then you must dine there tonight. Enter through the garden gate leading from the library grounds. There stands the house and you'll have the fun of exploring it. Music from the cozy living room greets you while from some where in the upper regions comes a droning sound. Investigation reveals the sewing machines guided by busy fingers. Nearby are two pleasant guest rooms. You must see the laundry, too. What's in there? Why it's the reading room where you'll find more magazines than you could read in a month. When appetizing odors interrupt your reading, enjoy the tempting food the girls prepare when they turn cooks. Once you visit the club you'll surely return.

Each month the "Get Together Club" meets. After a tasty supper and a "sing," an interesting speaker entertains the members.

With everything else the Club would not be the Club without Mrs. Taylor. She is our gentle queen who rules us with a loving hand.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING ASSOCIATION

THE Industrial Mechanical Engineering Association is a student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The principal objects of this organization are to give its members an opportunity to develop the ability to express their ideas before a group and in written form; and to see the practical application of their engineering studies by attending inspection trips to places of interest to student engineers.

Meetings of this organization are held weekly and at each meeting three student speakers talk on technical subjects of their own choice. Engineers are invited to meetings to talk on subjects of interest to the students.

The inspection trips are generally held on Saturday mornings. As many of these trips as possible are arranged for, because of the interest shown.

WOHLER CHEMICAL SOCIETY

THE Wohler Chemical Society derives its name from that renowned chemist to whom we are indirectly related. Its purpose is to create understanding between the separate sections of chemical engineers and to bring them together from time to time for the presentation of movies or talks by men in the industries. The smokers have been well attended. A question arises—should eats be served following every meeting? Those who have attended the various leather and paint lectures given throughout the year have found much interest in them.

Wohler looks forward to one hundred percent representation at the S. & T. banquet, April 10. The fact that our own Demosthenes (Sailor George) will talk, seems to insure big gate receipts—look to your laurels, Mechanicals and Electricals!

We feel, with the coming of spring, our closed dance, and annual dinner, that Wohler will have had a successful year.

ELECTRICAL ASSOCIATION

WITH the closing of this school year, the Electrical Association successfully passes into its twenty-eighth year of existence.

The principal objects of the association are: To serve as a medium through which the student may become acquainted with developments in electrical science and industry; and to offer an opportunity to develop his ability to publicly express himself.

Under the capable guidance of the president, Mr. Gladis, these objects were realized. Through his efforts and the cooperation of the students, an interesting program of speeches, moving pictures, and trips were arranged. Every man in the class who has taken advantage of these opportunities has profited by them.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of the association was the part it played in the annual S. & T. Association's meeting. Men from the industrial world as well as the students represented the electrical profession by showing its advantages and connections with the other phases of engineering.

THE MEN'S CLUB

THE Men's Club is a vital factor in our school, where every one is welcome for study or recreation.

Starting with the basement we find the bowling, from where most of the the noise originates and champions are made. On the first floor, besides chess, checkers, and up-to-date literature, one may express his opinion either on athletics, politics, or what-have-you. There are always several debates taking place on present day subjects, which are open to every one interested.

51—Pratt—26711

Proceeding to the second floor we find our Willie Hoppes hard at work trying to break world records in pool and billiards. The third floor is occupied by the P. I. Lunch for the purpose of feeding hungry students during the noon hour. Anything from soup to nuts may be obtained, but try the ham sandwiches—they are very good. The motto of the P. I. Lunch is "Eat till it hurts."

The popularity of the club is growing stronger every year and there is a possibility of the club's moving into larger quarters in the near future.

PRATT MEN'S CLUB LUNCH

THE Pratt Men's Club Lunch is a student organization, whose object is to provide a congenial place for the men of the school to eat, at a reasonable price. It employs about fifteen students including the school orchestra, which plays during the noon hour.

The preparation of lunches and all business transactions are under the supervision of the officers of the Lunch Corporation. Officers are chosen annually by the Head of the Men's Club.

The lunch room is situated on the third floor of the Men's Club, where adequate facilities are provided to serve the students.

Refreshments for many of the smokers, dances, and social events were provided by the Men's Club Lunch Corporation.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETICS, both Varsity and Interclass play a very important part in the student life at Pratt Institute. All affairs pertaining to athletics are under the joint supervision of an Athletic Council of which Mr. Burton Hall Arch't, '29, is Chairman, and a Faculty Committee on Athletics of which Mr. Charles Pratt is Chairman. These two committees work together in the management and promotion of Institute athletic programs.

Varsity sports include Basketball, Baseball, and Tennis. While the new building has robbed us of our tennis courts, hopes still persist that something may be done in the matter, even if it be only the continuation of tennis as a Varsity sport. Other sports carried on at Pratt this past year include, Soccer-Football, Basketball, Fencing, Boxing, Swimming, Track, and Baseball. Interclass schedules in all of the above except Fencing and Boxing were conducted.

The number of students taking an active part in these athletic activities at Pratt is creditably large. The rewards from such competition we feel sure are real, and of great value. Athletics broaden social intercourse and stimulate democratic tendencies. Of all the student activities athletics are at once the most intensive in their influence. At Pratt Institute they have proved to be the center of much of the informal social life and have developed good fellowship among our students. Athletics more than any phase of student life promote loyalty and patriotism of which school spirit is the synonym. School spirit is roused largely through athletics and contributes tremendously toward the making of good citizens.

Again too, athletics at Pratt have been instrumental in developing a spirit of good sportsmanship not only among our players, but by their example, throughout the school. One of the traditions in which Pratt takes a just pride is in the sportsmanlike conduct, which throughout the years has been characteristic of her teams.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL

THIS Council was organized in 1922 for the purpose of more effectively directing and controlling the athletic policies of the Institute. The aim of the council is to standardize the rules governing interclass sports and to create a relationship between the students and athletics in general at Pratt.

It is composed of a representative from each of the men's classes in the Institute and two faculty advisors. A meeting is held every Tuesday noon in the Men's Club to discuss various athletic problems that arise during the week.

Under the guidance of the faculty advisors, Mr. Wright and Mr. Hostetter, the council has been very successful.

VARSIITY BASKETBALL

WITH six members of last year's squad back in the ranks and many new candidates from the first year classes, Coach McKillop built up a very strong team. Playing one of the hardest schedules in several years, we finished a most successful season. Manager Edward Flagle should be commended for his untiring efforts during the season.

THE GAMES PLAYED

Cooper Union—21

Pratt—34

The first game of the season resulted in an easy victory over our usual yearly visitors. Our opponent's score was doubled by Pratt at half time—a good way to start the season.

Springfield College—30

Pratt—11

This strong visiting team inflicted the season's first defeat. Playing their first game of the season, Springfield showed a remarkable defense and an equally good offense. The Pratt forwards were held down to three baskets from the floor, made by Orr on fouls. Otis, center, provided good playing on our side by scoring a goal and two baskets for four points.

Springfield's outstanding players were Captain Duncan, right forward; Shirley, center, and Ackerman, left forward, who led the attack.

McGill University—20

Pratt—36

In a game characterized by fine passing and sensational field goals, our team romped away with victory after getting an early lead. Lafferandre, MacMinigal, and Otis starred in the passing, Captain Doley and Orr, high scorers with nine points each, made some spectacular baskets from the center of the floor.

Washington College—63

Pratt—36

The first trip of the year sent our team to Chestertown, Md., where our boys received a fine ovation by a large group of Alumni. Playing on a strange court for the first time, Pratt was a little slow in getting started. Very few points were scored in the first half. Pratt came back with a rush in the second half and scored 28 points, but with little avail. Doley and Otis were our outstanding players.

University of Delaware—33

Pratt—28

Leaving Maryland Pratt then made a journey to Newark, Delaware, where they were defeated in a very closely contested game. Our team gained the lead on the first top off when MacMinigal sank a field goal. The lead alternated time and again. In the last five minutes of play, Barton and Le Carpentier of Delaware scored field goals to clinch the game.

Our best players were MacMinigal and Otis, who did some fine foul tossing.

BASKETBALL SQUAD

New York Aggies—24

Pratt—30

In a contest replete with thrills and spills, Pratt downed the Aggies by superlative passing and concentrated teamwork. The score at the end of the first period was 12 to 12, but a strong attack in the second half carried our quintet to victory. MacMinigal led the scorers with five goals and a basket. Otis stood out in his shots from the foul line, completing five out of six tries. Vuola starred for the Aggies.

An enthusiastic crowd visited us from Farmingdale.

Union College—32

Pratt—24

The squad visited Schnectady and, in spite of a strong second-period rally, were overcome by superior weight and playing. Pratt displayed clever pass work but was unable to break through the Union defense.

Lafferandre and Orr were high scorers for Pratt with eight points each.

Upsala College—28

Pratt—27

The East Orange visitors managed to beat Pratt by one point through the medium of remarkably long shots in the final half. Pratt surged ahead at the beginning with a brilliant passing attack, the score at half time being 15 to 11. Both teams were deadlocked with a score of 25 to 25 in the last few minutes. Here the beautiful shots of Milrex and O. Parsons, of Upsala, enabled that team to score the point that won.

Brooklyn Polytechnic—20

Pratt—23

Our traditional rivals were soundly trounced in a closely fought game at the 27th Signal Corps Armory. The Pratt squad forged ahead from the start on baskets by Otis and MacMinigal. The score at the end of the first half was 14 to 6. In the the second half, Palcheoski and Jones, of Poly., scored a slight rally and evened up the score, 14 to 14. This was quickly overcome by Lafferandre and MacMinigal on goals.

Trinity College—24

Pratt—27

An evenly matched game was provided by the visitors, furnishing plenty of excitement. The teams fought to a score 18 to 17 at half time, Pratt leading. A penalty shot gave Trinity a point lead with a little more than a minute to play before the gun. Pratt then mustered a concentrated attack to send Lafferandre and MacMinigal crashing through in rapid order to make the winning field goals. Otis and Lafferandre were high scorers with 11 and 12 points respectively.

New York State Teachers' College—30

Pratt—26

Pratt was on the top side of the 16 to 15 score at half time though several points were lost by erratic foul shooting. Lafferandre and MacMinigal sank some fine mid-court goals.

The Albany visitors provided a rough and tumble extra period contest. At the official termination of the game the score was a 26—26 deadlock, but N. Y. State decided the issue in the five-minute overtime period with two field goals by Carr and Kuczyuski.

St. Stephens College—45

Pratt—30

MacMinigal started off with a fine goal and after some fast work St. Stephens gained a lead, which they held during the entire game. An unsuccessful rally by Pratt in the second half was overcome by the fine playing of Lemley, St. Stephens' right guard. Captain Doley starred for Pratt, making some excellent long shots from the center of the floor.

The squad journeyed to Annandale, N. Y. for the game.

Cathedral College—21

Pratt—34

Pratt jumped into an early lead and maintained a wide margin throughout the game. The score was 18 to 5 at half time and was further improved upon by the good work of Otis, MacMinigal, and Lafferendre. No serious opposition was encountered by our players.

Brooklyn Polytechnic—26

Pratt—19

The second Poly game started with wary playing by both teams and no score was registered in the first six minutes of play. Poly quickly assumed the offensive and forged ahead with good passing and guarding, until a heavy lead was established. Pratt started a strong rally, but it came too late to overcome Poly's lead.

Alumni—22

Pratt—26

The Alumni had a large representation in both players and rooters. A fine game was played by both sides and Pratt came out 10 points ahead at half time. The second period found Underhill of the Alumni starring for that team. The contest closed with a fine basket by Donroe, his last shot for Pratt Institute. MacMinigal was high scorer.

BASEBALL SQUAD

BASEBALL

FIRST signs of warm weather brought out a large and enthusiastic squad of aspirants for the varsity nine. For a nucleus Coach McKillop had nine letter men available and with every one rounding into shape rapidly prospects looked very promising for Pratt's most successful season.

Manager Dittig arranged the following schedule:

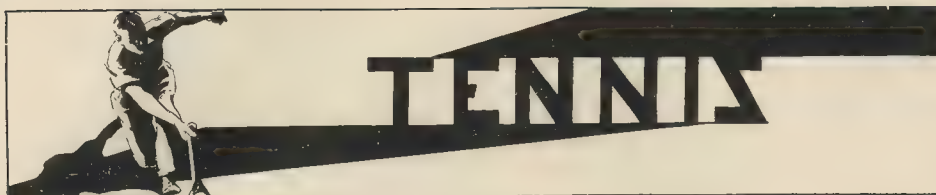

April 11—Cathedral College
 April 20—Crescent A. C.
 April 27—Long Island University
 May 1—Stevens Institute
 May 3—Trinity
 May 11—Rensselaer
 May 18—Alumni
 May 25—St. Francis
 May 30—Union College
 June 1—Rensselaer

Living up to early predictions the varsity baseball team opened its 1929 campaign by decisively defeating Cathedral College by the score of 6 to 0.

Heavy hitting in the early part of the game gave Pratt a lead which was never in danger. Perfect fielding combined with airtight pitching by our star twirlers, Mac-Minigal and Sanford kept the Cathedral batters in check. Filipek led the attack for the Institute boys with two hits.

TENNIS

WITH the advent of the present school year the varsity tennis courts made way for a new building. The team was tentatively dissolved due to the lack of facilities but student agitation for the racquet sport was so great that the Trustees voted an allowance for the maintenance of a squad. Outside courts will be hired for practice and home games.

Captain Arnold Pederson who staged several brilliant matches last year is on hand to lead the team through another campaign. Other veterans who will bolster the squad are Lafferendre, Ruzicka, Schweinsberger, Gilbert, and Dabler. Plenty of new material is expected to round out a good squad. The schedule as announced by Manager Bradbury is:

- April 17—Stevens (at Stevens)
- May 1—Webb Institute of Naval Arch't (at Webb)
- May 9—Brooklyn Centre, City College of N. Y. (at home)
- May 18—Alumni (at home)
- May 25—C. C. N. Y. (at home)
- June 1—Faculty (at home)

CHEER LEADERS

EARLY in the fall, the call went out for cheerleaders. Out of a squad of eleven peppy whoopee makers, "Don" Donderi, Steve Smith and Edward Parske were chosen to assist Varsity Cheerleader, "Stosh" Drupieski, to bring out the vocal talent at the games. Followed days of arduous practice, at last came the critical first game. Assembling at the Gym a full hour before time, in their clean, white trousers and shiny, new, black sweaters, nervous at the prospect of the coming ordeal, they again rehearsed the motions of the yells. Dazed and shaken, they somehow managed to live through that game and the other games that followed. The basketball season came to an end, bringing with it the long waited for A. A. banquet at which they realized the rewards for their unselfish efforts; the right to wear the coveted A. P. A. At the banquet "Stosh" formally relinquished the job of Varsity Cheerleader to "Don" who will carry on the good work. Yea Pratt!

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

GREAT enthusiasm was shown by the respective classes because of the keen competition in the interclass games.

The second year Mechanicals completed their second undefeated season by eliminating the runners-up, Architects, in two straight games during the play-off. The final game went into an overtime period; the score finally resting at 26-20.

It is the first time in the annals of interclass basketball at Pratt that a team has accomplished the feat of completing two consecutive seasons without the loss of a single game.

DUCK PINS

THE Industrial Mechanical Engineers seem to have their own way in determining bowling championships at Pratt. The first and second year men had a battle for first place, with the Architects close behind, but as usual I. M. E. 2 hung up another record. I. M. E. I will be heard from next year but they will have to bowl some to be as good as their older brothers. Stidd, Cahill, Masseli, Shincel and Petruzzi are hard to beat.

BIG PINS

THE second year Industrial Mechanical Engineers repeated last years performance in again winning the interclass "big pin" championship this year. Manager Brands' men came through without losing a single match in two years—an excellent record. The same old combination of Stidd, Shincel, Cahill, and Masselli formed the team, with Petruzzi a good sub. The roll off for the championship with the Architects was close but the "boiler makers" triumphed.

BOXING

THE boxing class of 1928-29, under the direction of R. W. Kline, began activities soon after the opening of school. Due either to pressing school-work or to the warm reception accorded the new men by the aspiring Tunneys, the beginners were reduced in numbers. Members of the class soon became proficient and some eventful matches will be remembered. The enthusiastic support and co-operation of the class insured a highly successful season.

The coaches for the next season will be H. J. "Hap" Wardwell and E. B. "Willie" Wooley, men who are as eager to help the other fellow as they are able boxers. The graduating members of the boxing class extend their best wishes to the coaches of 1929-30 for a fruitful season.

FENCING

THE tinkling and rasping of blades can be heard almost any afternoon in the gym or recreation hall this year, proving how rapidly this sport has become popular at Pratt.

The art of parry and thrust was introduced into the school by Anthony Zawatzky in the fall term of 1926, and many of the girls entered the class that he established for them. They have developed surprisingly in this activity which demands much endurance, speed, and strength of wrist and arm. Their organization is called "LES FLEURETS D'OR," and their prospects are bright for many enjoyable years to come.

The men's fencing club, which is known as the "MASQUERADERS" is growing and they have acquired much valuable experience in several matches which they have had with outside clubs during the season.

Thus this sport which requires such quickness of eye, lightning speed, stamina, agility and which develops sportsmanship to a high degree has become very popular and will continue to grow throughout the school.

INTERCLASS SWIMMING

INTERCLASS swimming, one of Pratt's earliest sports, has been out of existence since the closing of the pool in 1925. The meets were begun afresh in this school year amid rampant speculation as to which class would finally emerge victorious. The Chemicals were the last champions.

An exciting series of meets led to a final decisive one between the Architects and the Artsmen. Each team had five victories and no defeats. The Artsmen emerged victorious after having set a new record in the relay and three other events. Stahlhut of the Artsmen, in the two lengths back stroke and 100 yards free style, made records of 16.1 and 58.4 seconds respectively.

INTERCLASS SOCCER CHAMPIONS

INTERCLASS SOCCER

PLENTY of class spirit and team-work resulted in a championship team for Chemistry. This team completed their schedule without a defeat, starting by defeating the Architects, champions of the two previous years. The Architects made a good showing, however, losing only the one game to Chemistry and tying once with Art. I. M. E. II and Art also showed up well, both teams tied for third place.

A pick-up team was organized to represent Pratt and games with other colleges were scheduled. Although the team met with only one victory and three defeats, it made an excellent showing.

Standing of the Teams

	Won	Tie	Lost	Points
Chemistry .....	6	0	0	12
Architecture .....	4	1	1	9
Art .....	3	1	2	7
I. M. E. II .....	3	1	2	7
I. E. E. II .....	2	1	3	5
I. E. E. I .....	1	0	5	2
I. M. E. I .....	0	0	6	0

INTERCLASS POOL

FOR the second consecutive year the Mechanical team of 1929 has won the pool championship. The team has had a remarkable season, not losing a single match at no time were they seriously threatened.

REST HOUSE

THE tragedy of being away from home when one is ill simply does not figure in the lives of Pratt Students. It has been said that we are all too willing to spend a week-end at the Rest House; but who wouldn't with Miss Hale—always charming, always pleasantly professional, and always understanding. The surroundings, which are so restful, help immeasurably to give that grand and glorious feeling of well-being that enters our tired and worn spirits the first hour that we spend there. Whether we are very ill or just encouraging a bruised spirit after a hard tussle with our embryo careers, there is the soothing subconscious knowledge that health and happiness are just around the corner. This valuable adjunct to the well organized system, even though the contacts have been less often than with the other departments, has been so intimate and so infinitely a part of that splendid whole that it assumes something more than just being a "rest house." It is the Rest House—Pratt Rest House—Our Rest House.
